Young Holstein Breeder Winners Scorched By Fire

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

LITTLESTOWN (Adams Co.)—Chris and Steve Wood can count another blessing in their lives as one of the state's outstanding young dairy families.

In February, the Woods, of Littlestown, were named Pennsylvania Holstein Association's Distinguished Young Breeder award winners. Their Penn Gate herd is one of the best known on the Pennsylvania show circuit, with a host of premier breeder and exhibitor banners to its credit over the past several years and several outstanding cow families. And their sons, Clayton, 8, and Corbin, 4, are healthy, happy youngsters who thrive on their family farm environment.

Their latest blessing came last Saturday morning, when the noted Penn Gate herd came perilously close to destruction by fire.

"Scott is our hero," says Chris Wood of their tenant Scott Doody, who came home from work at 12:30 a.m., about two hours earlier than he usually returns from his job with a Taneytown, Maryland, pump manufacturer.

Grumbine Is Named Farm Show Director

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Agriculture Secretary Charles Brosius today announced the appointment of Dennis Grumbine of Myerstown as director of the Farm Show Bureau.

Assisted by a 50-member staff, Grumbine will oversee the daily operation of a state-owned facility maintained to advance the interests of Pennsylvania agriculture and other industries of the commonwealth. In addition, he will work with the Farm Show Commission, a 14-member board that determines policy and governs the overall operations of the Farm

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Keystone Farm Credit held its annual stockholders' meetings in two locations this week. Stockholders attending the Montgomery and the Lancaster County banquets charted the course for the upcoming year by voting for directors and for members of the nominating committee.

Phil Kimmel, president and CEO of Keystone Farm Credit, gave a synopsis of the annual report to the more than 800 people who attended the banquets held on April 3 and 4.

Kimmel said that earnings were good at $2.1 million despite stiff competition from banks. The asso-

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)—This newsletter is written on behalf of the trustees who represent agriculture on the Board of Trustees: Charles Brosius, Guy Donaldson, Gordon Hiller, Roger Madigan, David Morrow and Obie Snider. Trustees Donaldson and Snider were elected in 1994 for three-year terms. Trustee Madigan is a candidate for re-election in May 1995. Trustee Brosius, whose term expires in 1995, has been named Secretary of Agriculture and will serve on the Board in that capacity. His current position on the Board will be filled in the May 1995 election. The Board acknowledges the leadership of retiring Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff.

While their Amish owner took an ice cream break in at the farm house, this seven-mule team rested their reactivated muscles in the middle of a field of spring plowing after a winter lay-off. They posed Monday afternoon at the corner of Kissel Hill Road and East Oregon Road in Lancaster County, south of Lititz. Because of the mild, open winter, a lot of horse plowing is already finished, but spring field work is underway in all Amish farm communities across Pennsylvania and bordering states.

And even though temperatures dropped into the winter zones over the middle of the week, "English" farmers were seen working their tractors in the field too. One large Maryland grain farmer said he was "itchy" to get the no-til planter into the field, but he resisted the temptation to break his set rule to never plant corn before the 15th of April. Come to think of it, that's next Saturday.

Last Call For Dairy Of Distinction Applications

The deadline for dairy farmers to submit their application for the Dairy of Distinction recognition is upon us. The program that is designed to draw consumers' attention to beautiful, well-maintained, dairy farms has a deadline of April 15. That's next Saturday. So you need to act now to be included.

To date, more than 1000 farms in New York, Pennsylvania, and New Jersey have joined this effort in rural beautification and milk promotion. The full details of the program that include the rules and an application blank are published in this issue of Lancaster Farming on page D6. Fill in the application and send it to the appropriate program secretary today.

EDISON, NJ

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was good and sufficient to keep sellers offerings well cleared, particularly 2.5 to 3 pound sizes. Live supplies were moderate; weights were mixed in a full range, but were mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were very heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were 2 cents higher at 47 to 58 cents. Trade sentiment remained higher. In the parts complex, boneless skinless breasts varied from adequate to well cleared. Bone-in breasts were in short supply. Leg items were adequate to barely adequate. Wings were irregularly available, but adequate overall.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest was good. Offerings were irregularly available with some traders becoming cautious and resisting the higher asking prices. Demand was fairly good but dealers were concerned that consumer buying interest would be shifting to holiday items. Trade sentiment was cautiously steady.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wednesday April 5, 1995
USDA-Market News Service
Daily National Grain Summary

Wheat prices climbed moderately higher today, supported on active fund buying on the board and good export outlook. Corn and soybean prices were down slightly as the U.S. dollar continued to strengthen and export demand slowed. Beans continued to suffer from Brazilian harvest progress. Wheat 3 to 5 cents higher. Corn 1 to 3 cents lower. Sorghum 2 to 6 cents lower. Soybeans unchanged to 2 cents lower. Fund buying on the board boosted wheat prices after a lower opening. No overnight export sales to support grain or soybean prices today but indications are USDA is working on another supplemental allocation for China to buy US wheat under EEP. New crop wheat looks good and no damage has been reported after low temperatures hit last night. How- ever, traders remain concerned that some areas could feel the affect if cold nights continue and more are in the nearby forecast. Corn prices declined on reports South Korea bought Canadian corn this week and farmer selling is up substantially this week after recent higher prices and some profit taking on the board was also noted. Weekly export inspection figures were down from expected numbers but year to date showed fairly good sales. Lower soybean prices were due to additional weakness in the U S. dollar value and bean meal demand. Continued harvest progress in S. American was also a negative factor. Soybean figures were down sub- stantially on the weekly export inspection report but suprisingly enough, year to date numbers are better than expected. Farmer sell- ing of beans are up slightly.

Keeping Your Corn Safe, Season after Season,

Keeping your corn safe through harvest – season after season – is a big job! That's why successful corn growers throughout the Mid-Atlantic have made Lorsban* 15G insecticide the most widely used corn soil insecticide.

Season after season, Lorsban 15G is the most effective choice for control of rootworms, all species of cutworm, and a broad spectrum of other corn pests. And Lorsban 15G is ideal in all tillage conditions – conventional, minimum or no-till.

For dependable proven performance, season after season, the right choice remains Lorsban 15G!

The Old Farmer's Almanac This Week With

APRIL 10-16, 1995

FULL PINK MOON, APRIL 15.

THE BIG WIND

Generally, blustery spring days are a welcome sign of the season However, the wind becomes a damaging force at about 39 miles per hour. According to Beaufort's Scale of Wind Speeds (used by the National Weather Service) wind speeds of more than 75 mph are classified as a hurricane Although extreme wind speeds in tornadoes and hurricanes have never been fully measured, they have been estimated at around 200 mph One spring day the wind broke its own record On April 12, 1934, a gust of wind on Mount Washington in New Hampshire, was measured at 231 mph. It was "the strongest natural wind ever recorded on the earth's surface."

No weather is ill,
If the wind be still.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Before painting, run a comb through the paintbrush to remove loose bristles.

LAMB WITH CAPER SAUCE

1 5-pound leg of lamb
1 clove garlic, sliced
1/2 cup chopped onion salt and pepper
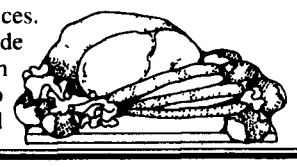
Sauce:
3 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup water
1/2 cup light cream
3 tablespoons capers, drained

Trim excess fat and cut slits in side of lamb; insert garlic slices. Place meat, fat side up, on rack in roasting pan. Top with onion and season with salt and pepper. Roast at 325° F until meat thermometer registers 170° to 180° F, about 3½ hours. To make sauce: Strain pan juices and measure a half cup into a saucepan. Stir in the flour and salt. Add water and cream and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in capers. Serve with lamb.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.



The Old Farmer's Weather Proverbs

A wet Good Friday and a wet Easter Day, Make plenty of grass, but very little hay.

If the robin sings loudly from the topmost of trees, expect a storm.

If the wind increases during a rain, fair weather may be expected soon.

Rain on Good Friday foreshows a fruitful year.

OPINION

Need Sound Food Policy

"Maintaining a sound food and agricultural policy is vital not only for producers and consumers alike, but also the economic well-being of the U.S.," said Wayne Boutwell, president of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, testifying before the Senate Agriculture Committee recently.

Boutwell was speaking on behalf of the Alliance for Sound Food and Agricultural Policy, whose members include a broad cross-section of organizations representing farmers, ranchers, cooperatives, the Farm Credit System, and the state departments of agriculture.

"In the U.S., food accounts for only about eight percent of total consumer expenditures, the lowest of any country in the world—even adding in the cost of farm programs," Boutwell said. "In Europe, where government spending on agriculture is three times higher than the U.S., consumer expenditures on food range from 11 to 20 percent. Japanese consumers spend 19 percent.

Over the past 20 years, U.S. retail food prices increased on average about 4.5 percent annually, compared with an average of six percent of the non-food sector. Had retail food prices increased at the same rate as other sectors of the economy, American consumers would have spent on average $60 billion more annually for the same food purchases. This would have been felt by every American household, but especially those at the lower end of the income scale.

All of this has been achieved at a cost less than one percent of the entire federal budget, Boutwell noted. Agriculture spending, he pointed out, has declined sharply in recent years as a result of the 1990 Farm Bill and related legislation. According to the Congressional Budget Office, spending will continue to decline by approximately 20 percent over the next 5 years to an average of $8 billion annually under current policies.

It has not been the increasing cost of farm programs that has contributed to the federal budget deficit.

The European Union, which over the past five years outspent the U.S. by six to one in terms of export subsidies, will be able to more than maintain its historical advantage under GATT. Along with other foreign competitors, it can be expected to continue to aggressively seek to maintain and expand its share of the world market.

"This is the real world of competition," Boutwell emphasized. "Without a similar commitment, U.S. agriculture will be at a significant disadvantage. To the extent that agriculture spending is unfairly singled out for reductions that go beyond our commitments under GATT," he said, "would be tantamount to unilateral disarmament."

The impact, he pointed out, would be felt throughout the economy. This is because U.S. agriculture is the nation's largest single industry, accounting for nearly one in six jobs. Nearly one million jobs, he said, are dependent on U.S. agricultural exports alone. Such exports currently amount to approximately $43 billion, generate nearly $100 billion in related economic activity, and contribute to a positive trade balance of nearly $20 billion.

In concluding his remarks, Boutwell said, "Mr. Chairman, you have set the stage for this hearing by asking the question—'Farm Programs: Are Americans Getting What They Pay For?' On behalf of the Alliance, we believe the answer is a resounding 'YES.'"

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Prepare For Tax Reassessment

Lancaster County is entering the final stages of the court-ordered reassessment. The new tax notices should be mailed by May 1.

With the last reassessment being done in 1962, property values will be a lot higher. Based on United States agricultural census data, the average farm value in Lancaster County has increased from $33,660 in 1959 to $427,332 in 1992—about 11.7 times. The estimated total real estate value increase in the county will be 5.5 times.

Just because the assessed value of your property has increased does not mean your taxes will increase. Since everyone's values are increased, some people will find their taxes going down, some staying the same, and others will increase.

Reassessment reestablishes a fair playing field. Thus, everyone will be paying their fair share of taxes based on current market values. If the value of your property increases more than 5.5 times, there is a good chance your taxes will increase. This means your property was underassessed and has been receiving a tax break. Since many farms will have reassessed values greater than 5.5 times their previous assessment, there will be increased taxes due in 1996.

However, farmers may take advantage of Act 319 or Clean and Green to reduce their taxes.

To Learn About Act 319

Act 319 or Clean and Green was enacted to help protect farmland. It allows agricultural land to be assessed based on its income-producing ability instead of its fair market value.

In Lancaster County the fair market value of agricultural land will be around $3,500 per acre. Clean and Green values will probably be between $50 and $1,300 per acre. These values are based on the soil's ability to produce corn.

Act 319 recognizes that a lot of farmers own land primarily to produce crops and animals. These farmers are also interested in passing the farm to the next generation instead of owning land as a investment like stocks. Thus, the land is being valued for its use — farming rather than for investment.

If use changes from farming to some other use, then the person who changes the use must pay seven years of back taxes and interest. There are provisions for selling a small portion of the land for a residence and various rules concerning the rollback taxes.

To take advantage of the reduced taxes in 1996, applications for Clean and Green must be filed by June 1, 1995 in the County Assessors office. Applications must be notarized and filling fees must accompany the application.

For many farmers, Clean and Green will represent at least $40 per acre in tax savings. With the average size farm in the county being 85 acres, this is a savings of $3,400.

For more information on Clean and Green, contact the County Assessors office or Lancaster County Cooperative Extension at 717-394-6851.

Remember, you will only have a short time to file for Clean and Green. Do not wait until the last minute.

To Stand Up For Agriculture

With the rapid urbanization of farmland in southeast Pennsylvania, farmers need to decide how serious they are about keeping their farms in agriculture.

If we want to maintain land in farms, farmers need to be more active in local planning commission meetings and take an active participation in public policy debate.

Farmers should have the say on how land is used in agricultural security areas and land-zoned agriculture. Farms in these areas should be allowed to farm and expand livestock and poultry operations without urban neighbor interference as long as the farms meet current laws and ordinances.

Farmers also need to oppose development in agricultural areas for the same reason agriculture, industrial, and retail development is opposed in urban areas. These include increased traffic, which impedes your farm operation and safety, increased trash to be collected from fields, crop and animal damage, and increased taxes.

If we are to preserve farms, we must start now to insure enough land stays in farms and farmers are allowed to adapt new technology and expand in order to stay compe-

TOO GOOD NOT TO BE TRUE

TOO GOOD NOT TO BE TRUE

April 16, 1995

Background Scripture:
Luke 24:1-11; I Corinthians 15
Devotional Reading:
Philippians 2:1-11

Some years ago I was at a local church conducting a seminar on what the Bible teaches about life after death. After the sessions, one of the staff ministers took me aside and said, "I wish I could believe all that, but I can't." "What do you believe?" I asked. "When we die, that's it," he said, "the end." He paused a moment and then said, "Life after death, that's too good to be true."

I wondered how he could continue in the ministry if he felt that way. There may be some options for Christians of various persuasions—how to pray, the manner of taking communion, and so forth—but I have always believed that Christ's and my resurrection are at the heart of the "Good News" of Jesus Christ. Otherwise, the gospel is bad news.

Paul acknowledges this in I Corinthians 15. "For I delivered unto you as of first importance...that Christ died for our sins...was buried...raised...and that he appeared to Cephas, to the twelve...to more than five hundred...to James, then to all the apostles... (and) "Last of all...he appeared also to me" (I Cor. 15:1-8).

FIRST IMPORTANCE

This is of "first importance" for, if Christ was not raised, then "your faith is in vain" (15:14). The "Good News" of Jesus Christ is founded on the bedrock of his resurrection. Why? Because if Christ was not raised, how can we hope to conquer death? Our survival is dependent upon his. And if he did not survive then we do not, and life would be futile and vain. "If for this life only we have hoped in Christ, we are of all men most to be pitied" (15:19). The teachings of Jesus Christ are founded upon the presumption that there is something for us beyond the grave.

I know there are those who disagree, who say to me that this life on earth is enough. But not for me. It is the promise of a life beyond that empowers the teachings of Jesus. Otherwise, as Paul suggests, "If the dead are not raised, 'Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die'" (15:33). What we believe about our eternal destiny—life with God or the silence of the grave—has a direct bearing upon how and why I live here and now.

Then Paul goes on to raise the eternal question: "But...'How are the dead raised?'" (15:35). Note that Paul has switched over from Christ being raised to our being raised. Eternity hinges not just on whether Jesus was victorious over the grave, but whether we will be too. But the question we all want answered is: what does being "raised" mean?

BODY/SPIRIT

Tough question, for when we look to the gospels for help, we're left with answers that lead to more questions. Some suggest that Jesus is raised as a physical body; others as a spirit; and still others a combination of both. Paul cannot answer except to assure us that Jesus was not raised with a physical body. When we speak of the resurrection of the dead, we are not expecting to get these old bodies back, nor even new physical bodies. Paul uses the term "spiritual body," a contradiction in terms. It is difficult for us to envision a form that is not physical. The best we can conclude is that we will be raised, not with a physical body, but in a form that permits us to have recognizable individuality.

Ultimately, how we are raised is not important. What is? Paul says: 'Therefore my beloved brethren, be steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that in the Lord your labor is not in vain" (15:58). That is good news that is too good not to be true!

The Perfect Place To Discuss Your Banking.

When farmers like you have financial needs, you don't have to come to us, we'll come to you. After all, running a successful farm doesn't leave much time for running to the bank. It's this kind of personal attention that farmers in Lancaster County and surrounding areas have been getting from Bank of Lancaster County for over 125 years.

So if you need working capital, a way to finance machinery, land, livestock, buildings, or a loan tailored to specific needs, look to the bank that's committed to your industry and to our area. At Bank of Lancaster County, decisions are made locally. And for you that means fast turnaround and flexible terms.

Why not give Bob Badger or Stan Michonski of our Agricultural Loan Division a call at (717) 397-7941? We're looking forward to talking to you about banking on your terms...on your farm.

Does your alfalfa variety produce more milk?

In a recent University of Wisconsin lactation study, cows fed quality-selected WL 322HQ alfalfa produced four more pounds of milk per day than cows consuming a widely grown non-HQ variety. This additional milk production came at no sacrifice in milk composition and resulted in significantly greater yields of both fat and protein from the cows fed WL 322HQ.

For a dairyman milking 100 cows, this increased milk production - due solely to WL 322HQ being used in the ration - could generate as much as $20,000 in additional income.

We've put WL 322HQ to the test and the results are in: WL HQ alfalfas provide dairymen with the best returns in the business.

WARNING!

DON'T THROW AWAY UP TO 45% OF YOUR HAY..

Losses occur when crops are stored--regardless of the storage method. Those losses are real--colorless, odorless and invisible--you can't see them, but they're there.

The air trapped within stored feed begins the fermentation process--and fermentation continues until all the air is consumed. The less air within the stored feed, the less loss.

Because bunker silos are not easily packed, losses in bunker silos range from 27% to 45%. If the feed is valued at $30 per ton, every 1000 tons stored in a bunker would suffer losses from $8,100 to $13,500. Tower silo losses range from 3% to 8%, or $900 to $2400 for every 1000 tons.

Those losses occur for every 1000 tons--every time feed is stored, year after year. Before investing in any storage method, consider the total costs--including fermentation loss.

Compare the various methods of feed storage. Contact the Crop Storage Institute for your free copy of "Methods of Crop Storage" and "Know the Facts."

Barr: Tax Reform, Clean And Green Dialogue Must Continue

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

ATGLEN (Chester Co.) — Dr. Robert Barr shared this "warning," as he called it, with Chester County farmers Thursday evening — watch what happens to Lancaster County under its court-ordered reassessment.

"The farmers in your neighboring county are looking at tax increases of 30-50 percent, even with Clean and Green," Barr told a record-setting attendance of 177 people on Thursday evening at the Chester-Delaware County Farm Bureau 42nd Annual Spring Banquet at the West Fallowfield Christian Day School.

Without Act 319 (the official title for the Clean and Green Law, which sets a tax structure on the ag use value of a farm rather than the farm market value), Lancaster County farmers "would be looking at tax increases of two to three times their current tax bills."

Barr served with 21st Century Appraisals, the company contracted to perform the reassessments in several counties, including Lancaster and soon in Chester County. Barr told the Pennsyvlania Farm Bureau (PFB) members that he helped develop appraisal policies with the company and now serves as president of the Fair Tax Institute, under contract with the PFB to assist, for a fee, farmers in making use of Act 319 in the farm appraisal.

Barr said that many counties, as a result of reassessment, have come to the Fair Tax Institute and are asking for help.

"A problem area is that there are no standards for reassessment anywhere in the state," he said.

As a result, the results of the reassessments will "shock the farmers," and he urges more work on local tax reform.

Barr said that the insitute is working to make sure the tax base is "fair and equitable" and urged the PFB members to "continue the dialogue" as reassessment takes place.

"Most all of you will be in Act 319 when reassessment takes place" in Chester County, he said. Before the reassessment order came to Lancaster, he said, there was not one farm in Lancaster County in Clean and Green. He said that Act 319 is "a great law and it's doing a wonderful job," but pointed out there is a "tremendous need for educational programs" to ensure that the law is implemented correctly in the counties under court-ordered reassessment.

Barr said that ultimately, if farmers are considering appealing the assessment later on, "the burden of proof is on you" to provide farm "evidence of value, sales and comparable sales." He told farmers to "get a second opinion."

Farmers who request help with Clean and Green can contact their local farm bureau representative and sign up for assistance with the institute.

Robert Yarnall, president of the Chester-Delaware Farm Bureau, said the banquet was the "single largest turnout for any single banquet in Chester-Delaware Farm Bureau history."

Charles Wollaston, membership chairman, reported that in the past year, 102 new members were added to the county farm bureau, an affiliate of PFB. Altogether, there were a total of 738 members at the county level.

Harold Bryson, director of member services, said total income for the county bureau the past year totalled $63,160, of which $53,136 went to pay dues to PFB. Total income was $69,462 with total expenses at $53,136. After expenses of $6,186, for the first time, the county bureau earned a profit of $2,276.

One of the big issues addressed during the recent PFB legislative tour, according to Harold Kulp, director of governmental relations, was local tax reform. Work is proceeding on two bills.

Charles Brosius, state secretary of agriculture, told the members that Gov. Tom Ridge will continue his support of Pennsylvania farmers in the effort to raise family farm income.

Also at the banquet, members were honored. Outstanding Service to Agriculture awards were presented to C. Barclay Hoopes, director; Richard Breckbill, director; Charles Wollaston, membership chairman; Susan McCardell, newsletter editor; and Jennifer Joyner, director.

Jennifer Joyner, a director of the county bureau, was honored with an Outstanding Service to Agriculture Award by Robert Yarnall, president of the county bureau.

Beef Quality Meetings Provide Valuable Learning Experience

KENNETT SQUARE (Chester Co.) — On Thursday, March 23, at the New Bolton Center, Chet Hughes of the Lancaster County Extension office held the first of two Beef Quality Assurance certification meetings with the Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association.

The first meeting involved classroom training videos, slides, and handouts on proper vaccine handling and administration, humane animal handling, and food and safety issues as well as a pre-test and a post-test to determine the knowledge of participants and how much they gained from the class. Discussion from producers

SCALES

WayPig Litter Scale
An entire litter can be placed in the portable WayPig at one time. The new oversize scale gives a clear readout of the weight in pounds and kilograms. The compact design allows it to glide easily through aisles and around tight corners.

WayPig 500 Animal Scale
This rust resistant steel scale is used for weighing up to the largest hog. The entire unit serves as the weighing area so that an animal leaning on the sides won't prevent an accurate reading.

and pharmaceutical representatives added to the presentation.

The second session of the certification was held at Herr Angus Farm in Nottingham. At this session, test scores from the first meeting were reviewed, questions answered, and the hands-on portion of the training was implemented. All participants were required to restrain a steer correctly, give a vaccine subcutaneously and intramuscularly, implant a growth stimulant properly, worm with a drench and a pour-on product, as well as identify the animal correctly by giving the steer an ear tag and filling out a vaccination chart. Once each participant completed both training sessions, each individual received a certificate from the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association.

Properly filling a syringe is demonstrated by Adam Cowart.

Chet Hughes stated that this was his first Beef Quality Assurance training certification program and everything went along smoothly. Many producers that attended were appreciative of the program.

A large number of producers in the association have jobs outside of farming; therefore, this training tool was a valuable learning experience for everyone involved.

In the future, the certification will be implemented if there is a request and need for it. Questions regarding the association or the Beef Quality Assurance program can be directed to Bobbi McMullen, association secretary, (717) 548-3282 or Chet Hughes, Lancaster County extension agent, (717) 394-6851.

Dairy Council Receives KUDOS

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.)—The Southampton-based Dairy Council Inc. recently took home two awards at the 1994 KUDOS Awards Ceremony, a statewide communication competition sponsored by the Communications Committee of the Pennsylvania Society of Association Executives (PaSAE).

Dairy Council won top trophy for their media campaign involving the importance of the school breakfast program. Combining the efforts of two area school districts, the campaign included a media tour highlighting the importance of school breakfast and how breakfast affects a child's ability to learn in the classroom.

Dairy Council received a second award for their 1993 Annual Report, which won top prize as best association/business annual report. Entries were judged on content, organization, effectiveness, writing, design, layout, photography, illustration and success in meeting the stated objectives.

Dairy Council's Executive Director Jan Stanton accepted the awards at the KUDOS awards ceremony in Harrisburg. The KUDOS awards program brings annual recognition to the best publications and public relations works.

KUDOS are judged on effective and creative use of press releases, special events and other media-directed activities in communicating the purpose of the campaign.

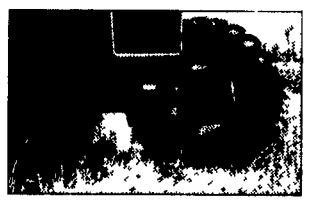
When building a 2WD tractor, there's little reason to conserve weight In fact, you may well end up adding weight for traction

With 4WD tractors, you really don't need, or even want so much weight It just makes the tractor less maneuverable, hurts performance, lowers efficiency and increases soil compaction

MF 300 Series 4WD tractors are engineered with just the right weight, balance and strength for optimum 4WD performance This means easy handling, with all the performance of bigger, more expensive tractors.

Smart engineering is just one of the many reasons why, over the last 28 years, more people have selected Massey Ferguson tractors than any other brand Check out all the reasons today at your MF dealer.

Designed from the beginning for 4WD performance.



Wheels don't lean on full lock, reducing soil damage and tire wear

Standard hydrostatic steering for fast, easy turns and precise handling.

Low-rate MF financing for qualified buyers makes ownership easy.

Lehigh Conservation Farmers Worry About Development, Regulations, Blight

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GERMANSVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — Forrest Wessner said he has never built a house on any of the property he owns in Heidelberg Township. "If you want to have a farm, you have a farm. If you want to have housing, you have housing. The two don't work well together."

Many agree. One day, while plowing some land for his potato crop, he was approached by someone living in a house nearby who was concerned about the "noise."

But it wasn't the noise of the tractor's diesel engine. According to wife Diana, it was the noise from the radio. The time of day? The middle of the afternoon!

Fortunately, according to Wessner, most of the neighbors are farming and understand the importance of preserving farmland. But increasing concerns about water quality, residential development, wetlands regulations, and other matters have kept the Wessners worried about the future of farming, since Wessner's son Forrest III took over after graduation from Penn State.

Wessner, along with wife Diana and son Forrest III and his wife Jessica, farm about 290 acres across several properties along the foot of the Blue Mountains. The Wessner family was honored recently as the Lehigh County's Conservation Farmers of the Year for their conservation work, their efforts to restore wetlands, and for land placed into the state's preservation program.

Here, according to Wessner, "people are born and raised with farming. They're not hard to deal with. But some people who move in from other areas don't understand the smells, the dusts, and the what-have-you of farming."

The Wessners grow about 70 acres of "table stock" potatoes for fresh market. The Wessners also maintain about 90 acres of alfalfa and grow about 40 acres of soybeans. The entire operation is cash cropped.

One of the concerns, according to Forrest Wessner, is last year's outbreak of potato blight, which caused about two acres of losses. Wet and cool conditions could create another outbreak this year — one that could be difficult for potato growers to deal with.

Wessner said that friends in Potter County "got kicked in the head" by the blight. "I'm really nervous about this year. This blight problem we're anxious about because there's no real good protection for it." Wessner explained that his spraying program was effective in keeping the blight problem under control, "but you can't always get in the fields when you should be spraying because of the weather.

"The weather is the key factor with anything you do in farming," he said. "It means everything."

Wessner has been keeping careful track of the research conducted by the universities on late blight control. What has him concerned is the lack of an adequate treatment in times of worsening conditions. Learning about control measures proves challenging, according to the potato farmer, because he said, "talking about it in the classroom and then doing it in the field is a whole different ballgame."

He spotted the blight fungus on one variety that he grew and took steps to correct it. Another variety had the problem, but Wessner was reluctant to handle it. An outbreak occurred, destroying the crop. Wessner blames the blight on poor seedstock and vows to inspect the potatoes this time around, even if

Cedar Crest Young Farmers Recognize Members

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Members and supporters of the Cedar Crest Young Farmer Association attended the group's annual banquet Tuesday at the Schaefferstown Fire Hall and recognized a number of achievements by its members.

The Young Farmer Association is a community supported organization designed as a continuing education group. Its six areas of focus are education, citizenship, leadership, cooperation, conservation and recreation.

Current officers of the CCYF are Gary Krall, president, Dave Groff, vice president, Dan Groff, secretary, John Risser, treasurer, and Dan Bausher, public relations. Dick Moore is the advisor.

In remarks, Jon Harnish, president of the Cedar Crest FFA, thanked the group for its support of the FFA program, and especially for the financial help CCYF members provided for him and Andy Martin to travel to Washington D.C. to attend an FFA leadership conference.

He was also presented with a traveling plaque reflecting the first win in annual volleyball contests between the CCYF and the CC FFA.

Garry Maurer, president elect of the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association, was guest speaker, and he thanked Dick Moore, CCYF advisor, for his continuing efforts and support of the Young Farmer organization.

every potato of the 70 tons he uses has to be washed and screened for the disease.

Help in harvesting and packaging some of the potatoes, sold in 50-pound bags, comes from Stephanie and Pam, Wessner's daughters, and the grandkids. Diana said they help hand-harvest a few acres at the beginning of the season in late July.

The past year, Wessner's son grew about ½ acre of peppers and another ½ acre of cabbage. About 8,000 pepper transplants are used and about 7,000 cabbage transplants, according to Diana.

Diana farms with Forrest on the farm Diana grew up on. A farm, said Diana, is "a great place to be raised. There's no place like a farm, believe me. I think the world of it."

Before retiring from 28 years as a phone company service technician, Forrest said he would often sit inside on a rainy day and watch as "millions of gallons of water" would run down the side of a hill near the homestead. He often thought how much of a "shame we can't keep some of that for when we need it." So, in 1990, an irrigation pond was built.

A year later, in 1991, looking at an old cow path gave Forrest a thought: what if that area, which always seemed wet and impossible to work, could be reconstructed and refurbished for wildlife?

With financial assistance and other help from the Fish and Wildlife Commission, Wessner signed up to have the project complete. In all, about 15 acres of wetland were reconstructed, plants and bluebird houses were installed, and wood ducks were allowed to propagate.

"It's blossomed," said Wessner. "There're ducks everywhere. I saw four sets of wood ducks down there on Sunday. Last year we sat at least seven hatches. It's great."

The Wessners are working to restore eight acres of wetlands at another farm site.

Wessner signed up all three farms they maintain under the state's farmland preservation program. The program has put strong reins on residential and commercial development on farmland.

Wessner remembers one day when, driving up the hill that crests above the farmstead, he noticed some sightseers who happen to have Arab-type headdresses. Wessner stopped and asked if they needed any help. One said to him, "Oh, what a beautiful place you have here! A wonderful place! We're just enjoying the view."

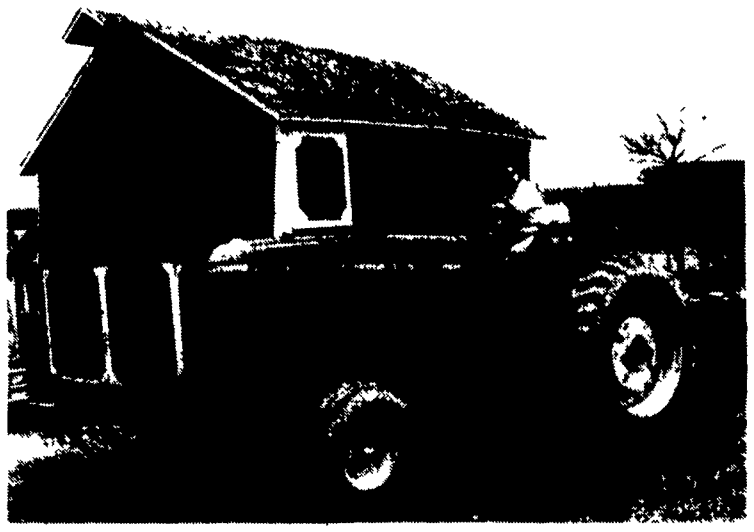
Wessner worries that other countries would want to invest in the beautiful, hilly area in the region around Mansville. "I'm opposed to putting a house on every hill. People like to build their house on top of a hill with a great view, but after they've lived there two years, they've lost their appreciation of the view. It's only good if you visit occasionally. If you live there, you lose your appreciation."

Wessner said he wasn't opposed to those who come out and want to live in a rural area. "I just like to see farmland stay farmland and houses built from the city, out."

For his son, who received a degree in agronomy from Penn State, Wessner worries that challenges lie ahead, especially in an area that is becoming rapidly developed. Son Forrest III is married to Jessica, who received a degree in environmental resource management (wetlands ecology) from Penn State.

Many farmers, he said, don't want to be forced to adopt one program or another because of regulations or policy. Regulatory agencies, in the past, tried to force farmers to comply to questionable practices — now, there is more spirit of cooperation among agencies and farmers.

"They're not telling me what to do," he said. "I believe in most of the stuff already. We're only sorry that more farmers don't take advantage of everything we have offered to us."



A farm, said Diana, is "a great place to be raised. There's no place like a farm, believe me. I think the world of it."

Regarding soil conservation, Wessner said, "You want to keep your soil on the farm, because what are you going to do without it? I mean, you're just going to go down the tubes (if you don't). Soil is the number one consideration, especially for agronomic crops."

The farm Wessner grew up on is now a part of the Jordan Watershed Project, a study to see what practices farmers can employ to control soil and chemical runoff on farmland.

"People are checking these streams all the time," he said. "If the farmer's not on the ball, he can be in a lot of trouble in a hurry."

On his own crops, Wessner said he staggers the placement of the potato and soy crops, which are on highly erodible land, with grass or hay strips to contain the soil.

That's just one of the problems potato and other crop farmers face.

"I think if you are a farmer, you got to worry about one thing or another. It never leaves you."

Homeowners Should Test Soils Too

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Charles C. Brosius is reminding homeowners and home gardeners to test their soil before adding fertilizers to lawns and gardens.

"A soil test may save you some work, and some money as well," Brosius said. "By not adding excessive nutrients to the soil, you'll also help to improve the quality of groundwater in your neighborhood and beyond."

Every year, many homeowners over-fertilize their lawns and gardens. Fertilizers not absorbed by the soil and plants can seep into the groundwater or end up in streams and other bodies of water. Excessive nutrients in water can cause algae growth, which depletes oxygen needed by fish and other organisms.

Homeowners can save money by selecting the specific type of fertilizer that they need to get the best results. They can also save by making sure they use the proper amount of fertilizer.

Soil testing is available through private firms or with a do-it-yourself kit available from your county extension offices.

Quicken Workshop Set

WESTMINSTER, Md.—Carroll County Cooperative Extension Service is pleased to announce that a second workshop on "Computerizing Your Farm Record Keeping Using Quicken" will be offered beginning Monday April 24th, continuing on May 1st, May 8th, and Tuesday May 16th.

All sessions will be held at Carroll Community College from 6:30 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. This workshop is geared toward novices and prior experience with computers is not necessary for success. The registration fee for this workshop is $45 per farm/business (2 people) which covers the cost of workshop materials and a facility fee. Prepayment, by April 14th, is requested for this workshop. To secure a space, contact our office as soon as possible at 410-848-4611.

In this workshop you will be instructed to "Quicken," a low cost but powerful record keeping program that is relatively simple to use. Using Quicken, you enter your income and expenses into the computer in much the same way that you use a checkbook register or your hand ledger. You classify your income and expenses according to IRS Schedule F categories that you are accustomed to. Once the information is in Quicken you can develop various financial statements to help you manage your farm better and do your taxes. You will spend most of the time working on a computer using Quicken with an example farm.

This same workshop, presented here in Carroll County in March, filled to capacity quickly, was very well attended and received an excellent evaluation. Call today to secure your seat!

Show Complex.

"The State Farm Show is one of the major events in our commonwealth, attracting people from all 67 countries," Secretary Brosius said. "The Farm Show director must have the ability to work with a large variety of people and organizations, supervise a large staff, manage a sizeable budget, and still pay attention to the small details. Dennis has been a Farm Show commissioner for 16 years and has both the background and experience to do an outstanding job."

With 16 acres under roof, the sprawling Farm Show Building includes seven exhibit halls, a large and small arena, cafeteria and meeting rooms. Paved parking lots make up the remainder of the 60-acre site.

Three major agricultural shows are conducted annually at the Farm Show Complex—the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, Keystone International Livestock Exposition and Pennsylvania State Farm Show. The facility is home of the Harrisburg Heat soccer team and plays host to 60 annual trade shows such as the Eastern Sports and Outdoor Show, Auto Show and Home Builders Show.

"The Farm Show, Livestock Exposition and Dairy Show are very important to our agriculture community," Grumbine said, "and the quality of animals represented here are second to none. Premiums from these shows are used by family farms to enhance their genetic base, with the ultimate benefactor being the consumer through things like leaner meats. But in order for that to happen, you have to have a forum like this Complex for competitive livestock shows."

He added, "There are a variety of livestock shows and activities for the young people, which keeps them challenged mentally and physically. It teaches them about responsibility and gives a feeling of accomplishment."

Grumbine graduated from the Eastern Lebanon County High School in 1965, where he served as president of the Future Farmers of America and received the Keystone Farmer Award and American Farmer Degree. The immediate past-president of the Pennsylvania Livestock Association, Grumbine was inducted into the Livestock Hall of Fame in 1992.

He has also served as chairman of the Keystone International Livestock Exposition, president of the Pennsylvania Swine Breeders Cooperative and holds membership in many community and agricultural related organizations.

Along with his wife Barbara and sons Daryl and Darren, Grumbine raises purebred Dorsets and crops on his 300-acre farm. They own and operate the Evergreen Tractor Company, an official dealership for Bobcat Construction and Farm Equipment.

Pa.DHIA Board Meeting Summary

DAVE SLUSSER
General Manager

The Pa. DHIA Board of Directors met March 9, the day before the annual meeting, at the Days Inn Penn State in State College. Frank Orner presided over the meeting with the staff of Pa. DHIA and Dr. Larry Specht in attendance.

Ted Brown, director of Finance and Human Resources presented the financial reports that included the audited finance statement. He also reported on the performance of the retirement fund, the hospitalization plan and the technicians pay system.

Progress is being made on accounts receivable. The Board posted a change in the accounts receivable policy that Ted Brown recommended. The financial reports were approved as presented.

The field service report was given by Dean Amick, director. At the time, Pa. DHIA was in the middle of a four-day Westfalia Training Seminar for the Pa. DHIA staff. Dean reported that he and his staff have attended many diary day activities throughout Pennsylvania and the Pa. Holstein Association convention. As of Board-meeting day, 119 full time technicians and 37 part time technicians were on staff. We are in the middle of redesigning the technician pay system.

DRPC Director Jim Boyer said that Herd Summary I is being totally revised and will become part of the herd reports when the Technician Training Conferences are over. The new Lab Bulletin Board System is finished and will be running in a few weeks. This will have many benefits including allowing members and technicians to down load SCC information directly from the lab. Jim presented charts summarizing herd members and cow numbers for the last two years. The charts showed the steady increasing cow numbers per technician and the technicians having the best results in signing up new herds.

Dixie Burris, laboratory manager and membership relations director, reported on the progress in the laboratory and with the lab technicians. She also went over the annual meeting plan and agenda.

The National Director's report was given by Bob Kindig. The National Board is working on ways to standardize the voting procedure used in electing directors. That procedure was to have been voted on at the upcoming national convention.

The Finance Committee report was given by Norman Hershey, treasurer. The committee recommended, and the Board approved, the expense reimbursement to the Board remaining the same as previous years.

George Cudoc, chairman of the Policy Committee reported on ruling made on official records. Director redistricting changes were made to encompass members in New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Ohio. The recommendation of the committee was approved. The Policy Committee is also studying the size of the Executive Committee and officer term limits.

Donald Duncan and Norman Hershey reported on the National Leadership Conference held this winter. Some topics discussed included the benefits of cooperative ownership of DHIA and the Records Standards policies.

A report on the district delegate meeting was given by Dave Slusser. The resolutions approved at the district meeting were reported, and Gary Thoman, chairman of the Resolutions Committee will present them to the annual meeting. Dave Slusser also reported on the Bradford County Board meeting that he attended.

The Board endorsed Donald Duncan as a candidate for national director and is encouraging his election by the Eastern Region National Delegates.

The next Board meeting is scheduled for April 25 in State College.

The three resolutions approved at the Pa. DHIA Annual meeting follow:

Resolutions from District 1 and 2

Whereas, many Pa. DHIA members wish to have the options to sort their cows, heifers, and calves by birth date, and;

Whereas, many dairy management practices such as vaccinations and breeding require actions taken by age.

Therefore be it resolved that the Pa. DHIA DRPC (Dairy Records Processing Center) make available as an option all reports where practical sorted by birth date of the animal.

Resolutions from District 9 and 10

Whereas, Pa. DHIA technicians have difficulty receiving enough Pennsylvania permanent ear tags to apply to calves on test day and;

Whereas, dairymen have noticed the quality of permanent ear tags hass diminished in recent years (ear tag falling out, rusting or impossible to clamp into ear of calf) and;

Whereas, Pennsylvania law requires permanent ear tags in dairy cattle ears.

Therefore be it resolved that the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture increase the quantity of ear tags available, so Pa. DHIA technicians can help their members fulfill the law of Pennsylvania and improve the quality of the tags so they will be readable and be in fact permanent.

Resolutions from District 11 and 12

Whereas, dairymen do not memorize state coded ear tag numbers and cannot see them unless the animal is tied;

Whereas, many dairymen use large visible ID numbered ear tags to identify their new born calves;

Whereas, individual cow pages would be more useful if the visible ID of the calf were included in the Cow Progeny Summary.

Therefore be it resolved that Pa. DHIA reports include:

1. Calf visible ID on applications for identification and registration.
2. Calf visible ID in summary of cow's progeny on Individual Cow Pages.
3. Calf visible ID on Heifer Management Barn Sheet starting the first month after they are born.

Farm Link, PFB Offer Help Transferring Farm

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — An educational forum for those with farms who would like to provide an opportunity for the next generation to farm was held last week at the headquarters of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, in Camp Hill.

The educational forum, basically a retiring farmer's seminar, was jointly sponsored by the PFB and the Pennsylvania Farm Link Program — a program created and supported by the state General Assembly that is designed as a match-making agency for those attempting to enter farming and those with no heirs or no heirs instrested in continuing the family farm.

Although just a little more than a year in operation, the Farm-Link Program marked the first successful link-up of a Westmoreland County farm owner and an entering farmer on the day of the seminar, with the cows being moved that day, said Marion Bowlen, coordinator of the program.

As of the seminar, she reported that she has received 320 inquiries from people desiring to be considered as entering farmers, and 50 from farmers looking to retire.

What Bowlen does to carry out the program is take the information from each entering farmer and put information about them on a computer list. She also obtains information from those with farms willing to participate, though that information is not shared with potential entering farmers, or anyone else.

Through the use of the data base, Bowlen then attempts to match people with similar farming interests, and then supplies those with farms with the names of potential entering farmers.

Those with farms make contact with those on the list and take it from there, with support, as needed, from Farm-Link.

The support structure for the program is deep, and help is provided to take advantage of any initiative programs available, loans, etc.

Also, both sides are counseled on the realities of developing a working relationship between the two sides.

In short, while the goal of the program is to try to offset the attrition of family farms in Pennsylvania, the method is to match people to see if they can develop a mutually agreeable agreement on transferring the farm.

The goal of the program is to "squeeze more people into agriculture, not less," she said.

About 40 people attended the program with some couples traveling relatively long distances to attend.

Bowlen began the program, introducing herself and explaining that she and her husband own and operate a Lancaster County beef cattle farm that had been her grandparents' farm. Her father, 75, is still farming, she said.

However, to the point of the program, she stated facts which further support oft-repeated trends about the farming sector — the number of farms is declining at a rate of about 1,000 per year; 55 percent of independent family farms have been lost since 1960; about half of those currently farming have to work off the farm to make ends meet; 65 percent of farm families live off of $40,000 per year, or less; and there is a decrease in new starts in farming.

"The young are difficult to get in to a farm," she said. A big problem, she said, is that without the promise of eventually getting a farm, most young couple are not willing to farm as a livelihood.

Stating more statistics characterizing the current farming situation, she said that the average age of a Pennsylvania farmer is 52.2 years; and that for every farmer under 35 years old, there are 2.2 people aged 65 or more farming.

Bowlen explained the questionnaires that potential entering and retiring farmers are asked to complete.

For the owners of a farm, the information requested is specific in terms of the farm itself, zoning, legal restrictions, machinery, what kind of business enterprise has been conducted, what kind of farming practices have been used (some farmers have spent a lifetime improving farms and risk all that work being destroyed if they allow their property to be dispersed in the settlement of their estate), debt-ratio, and similar types of pertinent information.

The entering farmers are asked questions about their goals, backgrounds and references are required. They should have some experience farming, and currently those who have filled out questionnaires range in experience from none to 10 years, with one person actually have 24 years experience farming and looking for a farm to call home.

It's not a panacea, and it's not going to be all easy, she said in effect, explaining that a successful transfer of the farm depends mostly on the personalities of the people involved.

That is why the Farm Link program attempts to sift through all the entering farmer candidates for the farm owners, and allow the farm owners to select and contact the people with whom the farm owners think they might best develop a successful realtionship.

She said most of the entering farmers come in with "beginning farmer equity," meaning little cash assets, but with the strength, health and durability of youth. "Some have been working (off the farm), and have cash," she said. "Most are looking for, and need, an older farmer to serve as a mentor."

To date, most of those interested in participating in the program have been dairy farmers and a few beef operations. While vegetable, fruit and diversified operations or niche farming operations can make up the remainder.

The bottom line for all farmers, those interested in passing on the farm to the next generation or not, is that "Everyone should consider transferring the farm before getting into the situation (where the farm has to be sold)."

The successful arrangement she told the group about, came about after several meetings between the two, with program support and moderation. She said that the retiring farmer in that situation told her that for the first time, in a long time, he's gotten excited about farming again. "Neither is wealthy, but they have agreed to work together."

What is needed, Bowlen said, is honesty and compatibility.

And foresight. "Most people have difficulty foreseeing a time when they will no longer be farming," she said. The time to start preparing for getting out of farming is long before it happens.

The key to success in tranferring a farm is to understand that retirement is gradual and that owning the farm is gradual.

It's not really fair to expect someone to buy all the equipment, land and assets of a farm at once, she said. First, it took a lifetime to accrue all those assets, and secondly, the profit margins are tight and few, if any, lender would consider supporting such an all-at-once buyout.

Gary Heim, an attorney who works with PFB in help farm transfers and with their estate planning services, also talked and went over the legal aspects of transfers to non-heirs.

The non-legal aspects for retiring farmers to consider in selecting an entering farmer include prior business relationships that entering farmer may have had; the amount of trust; references; whether the entering farmer has a developed business plan that makes sense, especially if the retiring farmer is acting as the lender, instead of using a commercial lender (interest rates are still necessary, but perhaps not as high, and there a fewer restrictions necessary, as a bank may require); the amount of professional financial support that may be needed; and the compatibility of the people involved.

Heim said that those with farms who are interested in seeing the next generation continue the farm must be ready to deal with disappointment. He said very few people farm exactly the same, or make exactly the same decisions, and if the farm owner isn't willing to allow the entering farmer to make decisions, the arrangement won't work; however, there is risk to the farm owner if decisions by an entering farmer are never questioned.

It's a balance that can may stressful at times, he said.

Of the legal aspects, farm owners should look at actual inventories and supplies, machinery, livestock, fixtures, real estate, and other tangible properties on the farm and decide how they are to be dealt with.

Each aspect of the existing farm and farm operation should be questioned as to whether it will be needed by the entering farmer, it's value, and whether it will be sold or rented, and possible terms of transfer of tangible properties.

As far as operating arrangements, Heim said that there is no such thing as "the right way." Instead, it is something that must be discussed in detail and with complete realism, and it is something that suit each party.

He discussed a variety of arrangements of roles between the farm owner and the entering farmer, such as landlord/tenant, seller/buyer, and lender/borrower and how these roles change over time, as the next generation gradually takes over the farm.

He also discussed joint operations and the types of partnerships or corporations which may be formed, though these aren't necessarly considered applicable to the nonfamily generational transfers of farms.

A common relationship in dairying is starting off with a dairy/crop division in farm responsibility, with the younger farmer generally opting to manage the herd and milk cows, while the older generation farmer does field work. Heim also talked about the different splits of the milk check and how that changes as the transfer of ownerships occurs over time.

The seller of a farm has to consider liens and the title of the property, the purchase price, financial arrangements between the seller and buyer, taxes, default remedies, environmental aspects such as underground storage tanks and old dumps (every farm has one), etc.

"It has to be a fair arrangement," Heim said, "otherwise, you will create a legal arrangement that will blow apart."

A considerable amount of discussion during the seminar was given to tax-free gifts.

It was explained that currently, every year, each person is entitled to give away $10,000 tax free.

Also, once a lifetime, every person is entitled to give away $600,000 tax free.

The two are different. The $10,000 per year allowance is an annual entitlement. The $600,000 is per person and considered as an "end-of-life" arrangement.

For example, if a couple decides they would like to give their farm to their children, they have the combined ability (check with a professional advisor for specifics) to give them $1.2 million tax free.

The $10,000 per year is separate and does not accumulate over time.

However, if during a given year, more than $10,000 has been given in gifts, it can still be claimed as a tax-free gift, but any amount over $10,000 is deducted from the end-of-life $600,000.

As an example, if $11,000 were given as a gift, $10,000 would be the amount for the year, and not affect the $10,000 allowed for the next year. However, the $1,000 over the allowable limit would be deducted from the end-of-life amount and the total end of life tax free limit would then be $599,000.

Gifts were mentioned because they realistically have to be a part of many farm transfer scenarios — to children or non-family.

In other business, Cheryl Cook, with the former Farm Home Administration, talked about beginning farm loan program available through the USDA, but she said that funds are limited. She said she has $23,000 to allocate to the beginning farmer program because of the way the U.S. Congress

Young Holstein Breeder

Doody, who grew up on a Maryland dairy farm, smelled smoke and checked the barn. He found thick smoke pouring out of a small door at the end of the 70-stall, hip-roofed dairy barn, where the herd was tied in overnight.

"You couldn't see your hand in front of your face," related Doody, who pushed his way through the pitch-black and the smoke to begin unfastening cows. He left briefly to wake his wife, Larissa, to call Emergency 911 and rouse the Woods, while he returned to the smoke-filled barn. By alternating running to the doors for gulps of fresh air to soothe his burning lungs, then returning to untie a few more cows, Doody released one side of the tail-to-tail double row of stalls. Larissa tracked his progress from the outside of the long barn, keeping him talking so that she knew exactly where he was and that he was not being overcome by the smoke.

The first of six fire companies was on the scene in minutes and a firefighter assisted Steve Wood in untying the other line of cows. By then, the pile of an estimated 150 bales of smouldering hay in the center of the storage area overhead was eating through the wooden floor, creating enough of an orange-glow to eerily light the barn's dark interior.

"All the doors upstairs and all but two small ones of the first floor were closed. Bob built this barn very solid and tight," Wood said of the concrete block and wood barn built several decades ago by his father-in-law, Bob Gitt.

With hoses hooked up and in hand, the firefighters opened one of the large doors to the upstairs hay storage to gain better access to the smouldering bales. The ensuing draft swept the flames toward the metal roofing, but they were quickly doused as the smouldering hay was flooded with water.

By 8:00 A.M., electrical power was back on and huge mounds of the soggy hay which was pitched down to the center alleyway through the burned holes in the ceiling had been hauled to nearby fields. Hundreds of gallons of water had swept from the barn by friends and neighbors who arrived to help.

"We are so blessed," says Chris Wood, who was restrained by firemen when she tried to rush into the dense smoke to help untie the herd. "I've always been a Christian; I consider it a miracle. Scott came home early for a reason; the barn doors were closed which kept the draft out. The barn and the herd could easily have been destroyed."

One cow in a stall beneath where the largest hole burned through the ceiling suffered slightly-singed marks dotting the white hair of her rump, where the Woods believe hot embers fell on her. The couple marveled at how calm the cows had remained through the crisis, with only a few coughing as they exited the barn under the 20-feet length of burning ceiling wood and the dense smoke, and quietly walked to the pasture's distant corner.

"They came up to me when I went out to the pasture with a flashlight, after things were getting under control at the barn, and acted like they wanted to know what was going on," Chris relates of the Wood's terrifying, early-morning ordeal.

An area fire marshall determined the blaze to be of electrical origin, believed to have started in an elevator system installed two years ago in the second-floor hay storage area. However, Steve had been in the hay storage area at evening milking just hours before the fire and noticed nothing out of order.

Though Chris got little sleep in the first nights following the fire, their dairying backgrounds have made the Woods cognizant of the disasters with which family farmers must often contend. Chris was raised on the Penn Gate farm that is the family's home, while Steve's family dairied in northern Virginia. Both grew up with a love of showing cattle and met in 1984 during dairy heifer competition at the Maryland State Fair at Timonium.

Following graduation with a dairy degree from Virginia Tech, Chris worked for an embryo tranfer firm headquartered near the university. Steve worked at Fair Hill Farm on Maryland's Eastern Shore and at the former Bayville Holsteins, Virginia Beach. He also spent some time working with Maryland cattle sale and auction firm of the late Doty Remsburg.

Having traveled in their respective jobs, both grew weary of the constant need to keep moving from place to place. Both have also seen devestation that drought can wreak on crop production and have instead chosen to focus their energies instead on the herd, rather than on extensive acreage and field equipment investment. Most hay is purchased and some planting and harvest chores custom-contracted.

Hay smouldering in storage above the dairy herd left a few gaping holes in the wooden ceiling. Cows calmly exited the barn beneath the burning ceiling.

A slightly-discolored section of roof on the barn at Penn Gate Farms is the only visible sign outside of a fire that threatened the well-known Adams County registered Holstein herd.

Scott and Larissa Doody get acquainted with "Clara," a December registered Holstein from one of Penn Gate's deep pedigreed cow families. The calf is a gift to the Doody's to thank them for summoning help and chasing cows from the smoke-filled Penn Gate dairy barn last Saturday.

"People get in trouble when they try to focus on everything, so we prefer to focus on the cows," the Woods agree. Chris's dad, Bob Gitt, gets credit as the farm's "Mr. Fix It," who keeps the buildings well-maintained, helps with their extensive showing schedule.

The Woods took over the day-to-day operation of Penn Gate after their marriage in 1986. Today, the all-registered Holstein herd of 73 head averages 21,466 milk, with a 4.1 percent and 879 pound butterfat average, and a 3.4 percent and 730 pound protein average. A high-type herd, Penn Gate has 20 Excellents and 32 Very Good individuals, equating to an impressive 109.7 BAA.

"Our goal is to maintain what we started with, because today you can lose genetics in one generation. We breed for functional type, which leads to cow longevity," Steve says in summarizing their philosophy. "And we breed for what we want first and then secondly for a balance of index in the pedigress."

That the Wood's philosophy pays off at the milk tank as well as the show ring is evidenced in their last DHIA test day results. Twelve of their top producers milked over the hundred-pound mark, including one finishing with 140 pounds and another at 132 pounds.

Marketing and merchandising is an integral part of the Penn State business plan and focuses primarily on their "Fashion" family, which traces back to a 4-H animal owned by Chris. Fashion was scored EX-92 and thedam of the bull, "Foreman," a Blackstar son at Landmark Genetics, showing impressive sire summary results. A Leadman daughter from the same family topped the 1994 state Holstein convention at Gettysburg and was purchased by the internationally-known Lylehaven titive. As a society we need to maintain a strong and healthy agriculture.

Building houses in the middle of farms will eventually drive farmers off their land. Now is the time to become more active in public policy debate and formulating policies that will encourage the revitalization of existing urban areas, decrease the development of prime farmland, and respect farmers' rights in agricultural security areas and land zoned agriculture.

Editor:

Could you please print this, in the Lancaster Farming newspaper for me, in memory of my father, Joe Modica, Sr.

He was a dairy farmer for 60 years, and received your newspaper for many years.

When he retired, I know he kept on enjoying the paper, he waited faithfully on Saturday mornings for it!

I would greatly appreciate it.

Thanks ever so much,

Linda M. Modica
Lititz

There was a man who walked this earth, medium in height, wide in girth.
He was well known around his town-good friend, hard worker, sometimes clown!
He loved kids, loved to eat, loved to cook.
He enjoyed hearing laughter from all kinds of people.
He loved farming, tilling the ground, he loved his cows.
His eyes would twinkle, his belly could shake.
He could fill Santa's suit, he could handle a rake.
He could build things, and fix things, and always lend a hand.
He was always there for you, when you needed him,
but never complained.
Of course, he was loved by his family, his wife, for 42 years, they shared a good life.
He was father, brother, Uncle, Grandpa, good sport.
His time in our presence, was much too short!
He taught lessons in living, in laughter, and love.
I know that he's watching from blue skies above.
His parting was sudden, unexpected, and sad,
but I'm proud I can say...
Joe Modica was my Dad.

Editor:

This letter is for residents of Lancaster County and beyond who care about our communities' growth problems. I'm urging you to attend the meetings of old and newly-formed citizens groups involved in these issues.

Growth can be controlled European-style where there are permanent boundaries between town and country. Lancaster County's prime farmland should not be destroyed for growth when it's economically feasible to build elsewhere. Laws that force townships to accept growth on prime farmland should be changed.

Our local governments have not always accomplished what citizens have requested, which is less urban sprawl and more farmland with the proper agricultural zoning. Our urban growth boundaries are temporary and farmland preservation programs involving deed restrictions are moving at a slow pace. Eventually, Lancaster County could resemble Philadelphia with a few remaining "farm parks."

We should preserve prime farmland which is a small area of land when compared to all the marginal, grazing and highly erodible farmland in the world. The amount of prime farmland destroyed for roads, factories, stores, houses, etc. in the U.S. is almost one million acres annually or almost 4 square miles per day. The U.S. population increases almost 3 million annually and the worldwide increase is almost 100 million annually, consequently world population will double by the year 2050. To feed additional populations we will need more prime farmland. Farming more marginal land will greatly increase the cost of food production.

Also, as the world's oil wells are being depleted with increasing exploration costs, farmland will be needed for crop-based fuels.

Don't leave a legacy of apathy for people 50 years from now. Attend meetings where citizens look for solutions.

National All-Jersey Names General Manager

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — Mike Brown has been named assistant secretary and general manager of National All-Jersey Inc., (NAJ).

Brown had served as assistant general manager and executive assistant of NAJ since December of 1993. He will continue to oversee day-to-day operations of the milk marketing organization which has marketing programs in almost every state.

He will direct continuing efforts by NAJ to promote implementation of multiple component pricing in the federal order system. In addition, Brown will coordinate NAJ staff efforts to develop equitable markets for Jersey milk producers, and provide leadership in encouraging research and education in milk manufacturing and marketing.

Founded in 1957, National All-Jersey Inc. is the only organization in the world devoted to representing milk marketing concerns for owners of a single dairy breed.

Its mission is to increase the value of and demand for Jersey milk, and promote equity in milk pricing. NAJ is also a leading proponent of muliple component pricing.

Brown earned a bachelor's degree in dairy science, summa cum laude, from Virginia Tech, Blacksburg. He resides in Reynoldsburg, Ohio.

President Joab Thomas announced his intention to retire on August 31, 1995, after a very productive five year term. The most important job of the 32-member Board of Trustees is to select the President of the University. The Board established a search and screen committee of 16 administrators, faculty and students to collect names of potential presidential candidates. They received 190 nominations of potential candidates that they reduced to ten names based on the candidates' experience, recommendations and references. These individuals were contacted and invited for an interview by a ten member committee of the Board. Trustees Brosius, Morrow and Snider were members of the selection committee.

At a special Board meeting on March 16, Dr. Graham B. Spanier, 46, Chancellor of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln since 1991 was elected the sixteenth president of Penn State. Dr. Spanier has degrees from Iowa State and Northwestern Universities. He was a former faculty member and administrator at Penn State, State University of New York at Stonybrook, and Oregon State University. Dr. Spanier, a leader in higher education, is a strong advocate for the land grant mission of teaching, research and service. He considers Penn State an elite land grant university and wants to use his talents to maintain and enhance our status. Dr. Spanier has had experience working with 4-H groups.

One of the greatest challenges facing the new president is in the financial area. Governor Ridge has proposed the same 1995-96 appropriation as 1994-95 with $100 per student increase. The increase last year was $210 per student. In the Big Ten, Penn State receives the smallest support from the state and has the highest tuition of the ten public universities.

A previous newsletter reported that Penn State has formed a Legislator Advocacy Network of locally based teams at each of the university's 23 locations. The network's objectives are to educate legislators about Penn State's mission and activities, seek legislator support for additional financial resources and to communicate the university's position on policy issues. This group, plus the strong support of the agricultural organizations, will be essential to maintain adequate state support. For information about supporting the College of Agricultural Sciences, contact Tony Wagner at (814) 865-2717.

Penn State has been cited by the media as one of the leading public universities in the nation. US News and World Report again ranked Penn State near the top on its lists of "best national university values" and "most efficient institutions." For the third straight year, Penn State was selected for inclusion in "The Guide to 101 of the Best Values in American Colleges and Universities." This book reported "Penn State is renown for its strengths in academic areas such as agriculture, business, communications, engineering and virtually all the sciences. It is one of the nation's most distinguished universities, public or private, and a tremendous educational value." The College of Agricultural Sciences at Penn State was ranked among the top ten in agricultural sciences, 1981-93, by "Science Watch." Seven of the top ten universities were in the Big Ten.

Acquiring land for agricultural use to replace property used for the research park and other developments are a high priority for the Board. Recently, 225 acres of excellent land was purchased with private donations. It is adjacent to current property at the Russell E. Larson Research Center, site of Ag Progress Days. The new poultry facility was dedicated and additions and renovations to the dairy barns were completed in 1994.

The awards won by faculty attest to the excellent educational programs and fine teaching in the college. Dr. Willits, professor of rural sociology, won the prestigious Alumni Fellow Teaching Award. Dr. Willits will spend part of the 1995-96 academic year conducting teaching improvement workshops.

Student enrollment in the College of Agricultural Sciences has increased 60% since 1989 and 11% since 1993. Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, with 3000+ students, is the largest among Big Ten universities and ranks sixth nationally. Approximately 100 alumni volunteers contact prospective students to encourage them to attend Penn State and to answer questions they may have. For information about programs and admission to the College of Agricultural Sciences, contact Dr. Marianne Houser at (814) 865-7521.

Scholarships are an important part of attracting and retaining outstanding students. The college awarded $612,000 to 375 students in 1994. This represents an increase of 170% since 1989 and is a direct reflection of the strong support provided to the college by alumni and agribusiness.

The quality and diversity of the college student population have also been improving. There are currently 49 students in the University Scholars Program and 24 minority scholars. These and other undergraduate students are pursuing research projects with faculty members and presenting their results at local and national conferences. In 1994, internships provided 84 students enrolled for academic credit the opportunity to "earn while they learn" with practical, on-the-job training to make themselves more marketable to future employers after graduation.

The Board of Trustees' current officers are William Schreyer, president, and Jesse Arnelle, vice president, Trustees Donaldson, Morrow and Snider are members of the Executive Committee. The standing committees of the Board and some of their members are as follows: Finance (Snider) and Physical Plant (Morrow, chair; Madigan, vice-chair; and Brosius). The special advisory committees and some of their members are as follows: Milton S. Hershey Medical Center (Brosius, chair; Madigan, vice-chair; and Donaldson) and Affirmative Action (Hiller). Trustee Snider serves on the National Development Council for the University and is on the board of the Research Park Management Corp (RPM Co). Trustee Madigan is a member of the nominating committee. Trustee Morrow serves on the boards for RPM Co and the Corporation for Penn State. Trustee Brosius is a member of Great Valley Graduate Center Advisory Board and the Penn State Medical Center Board of Visitors. Trustees Brosius, Morrow and Snider were members of the Distinguished Alumni Selection Committee. Many trustees have represented the Board at graduations and at alumni activities.

The trustees representing agriculture want to thank President Thomas for being our 15th president. He is a gentleman and scholar who has provided strong visionary leadership with emphasis on excellence in education, research and public service. Dr. Thomas has been a strong advocate for public support to improve facilities and educational programs during a period of financial restraint.

LEBANON® EXTRA
Granulated Starter Fertilizer

"THERE'S MORE TO IT THAN JUST NPK"

For over 47 years, farmers throughout the Mid-Atlantic Area from New York to Virginia have produced millions of dollars of crops using Lebanon Extra fertilizer.

Lebanon Extra is an ammoniated, homogenous. granular NPK fertilizer. With the increased emphasis on using less and precise applications of plant food, Lebanon Extra provides the nutrient sources that you can depend on, and not just NPK but also secondary and six micro-nutrients. The nutrient integrity of Lebanon Extra is superior to bulk blend fertilizer products. When using row applications or banding accurate amounts of plant food it can be important to use a safe, quality, uniform grade product. If you are using a blend with MAP compare the value of Lebanon Extra.

State Offers Rabies Education Seminar In Johnstown

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—An increasingly high number of rabies cases has prompted state and local officials to organize a seminar concerning rabies prevention, control and treatment on Tuesday, April 18 in Johnstown.

The seminar is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Johnstown Campus of the University of Pittsburgh in the Living/Learning Center. It will bring together officials from the state Health and Agriculture departments, Cambria County Humane Society and Pennsylvania Game Commission in an effort to share information about the disease with the community.

Dr. Karen Martin, a veterinary medical field officer in the Agriculture Department's Altoona office, and David Vore, a livestock disease control technician, will participate in the seminar.

"As contact with animals increases in the spring and summer months, the concern for rabies is great," Martin said. "We all benefit from a seminar like this, because it offers first-hand information to the audience, allowing representatives from all the agencies involved to provide a coordinated front."

Martin plans to discuss rabies in animals, Pennsylvania's Rabies Vaccination Law, the role the Agriculture Department plays in rabies diagnostics, and the sequence of events that occurs once an animal is exposed to rabies.

The seminar, sponsored by the Health Department and Cambria County Humane Society, is geared toward health professionals, animal protection officers, police officers and emergency workers, as well as the public at large. To pre-register, call the Health Department at (814) 533-2205.

Keystone Farm Credit Charts Course

ciation squeezed interest margins to offer lower interest rates. Despite the decline in new loans, Keystone was able to eliminate adverse loan volume. A loan classification systems shows that 90 percent of the loans are classified acceptable.

In 1994, Keystone retired $2½ million of stock to return proceeds to customers. Kimmel said that if things go as planned, stockholders will see even more return this year.

The consolidation of two banks recently allows the channeling of funds from securities to loan to people like you Kimmel told the stockholders.

The consolidation reduces overhead and the financial benefits will be passed on to the owners and borrowers. The consolidation does not affect directors, staff or branch officers.

Keystone Farm Credit provides credit and credit-related services to or for the benefit of eligible borrowers and stockholders in Pennsylvania counties Berks, Bucks, Carbon, Chester, Dauphin, Delaware, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Monroe, Montgomery, Northampton, Philadelphia, Pike, and Schuylkill.

The board of directors adopts a business plan, an operating budget, and an action plan. Directors elected at the annual meetings are Wilmer Hostetter representing Region 1; James Garber and Ezra H. Good representing Region 2; and Ellis Kunkel representing Region 3.

Hostetter has been farming in Chester County for 37 years. He is a dairy farmer and owns and operates Hostetter Grain. Hostetter is a member of Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, DHIA, both the national and state Association, the Feed Dealers Association, and the Eastern Shore Grain Dealers. Hostetter serves on the Black Rock Camp Association Board, is treasurer for Mt. Vernon Church, and past president of the Oxford School Board.

Garber is a partner in James Garber & Sons, which is involved in poultry, hog, and steer production in Mount Joy. He is also vice president of Garber Farms, Inc., a trucking enterprise. Garber is a member of Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and is past vice chairman of the Lancaster County Farmers Association. Community involvement include chairman of the Mennonite Home Board, Hamilton Banik Advisory Board, and a trustee of Lancaster Bible College.

Good feeds steers and hogs in a livestock buyer of bull calves and hogs for meat. He manages Good's Receiving Station in Denver and is also a shareholder and director of New Holland Sales Stables, Inc. Good belongs to Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the PA Motor Truck Association, Lancaster County Pork Producers, and the Livestock Marketing Association. He serves as a trustee for Red Run Mennonite Church.

Kunkel has been farming for 48 years in Berks County. He helps his son with the dairy and crop operation. He is a member of Berks County Farm Bureau, Kempton Lions Club, and the Kempton Fire Company. He has held offices in the Berks County Farmers Association, Kempton Lions Club, New Bethel Lutheran Church, and the Berks County Rural Letter Carriers Association.

The newly-elected nominating committee includes Kenneth L. Hershey of Chester County, Glenn Moyer of Montgomery County, Earl S. Weaver of Lancaster County, Bruce Kreider of Lancaster County, Eugene W. Martin of Lebanon County, David J. Bear of Berks County, and Donald Miller of Northampton County.

FORCE CONTROLS. In Developing FORCE soil insecticide, Zeneca Ag Products simulated and improved on the powerful chemistry found in chrysanthemum flowers. The result is the first pyrethroid insecticide designed for soil application.

Because of this unique chemistry, FORCE ranks low in mammalian toxicity, which means very low hazard to humans. In addition, the low water solubility and soil mobility of FORCE greatly reduces any risk of leaching or groundwater contamination.

CUTWORM APPLICATION RATES. Apply FORCE at 8 to 10 oz. per 1,000 linear row feet. The lbs./acre equivalent rates are:

6.5 lbs. per acre on 40" rows	7.7 lbs. per acre on 34" rows
6.9 lbs. per acre on 38" rows	8.2 lbs. per acre on 32" rows
7.3 lbs. per acre on 36" rows	8.7 lbs. per acre on 30" rows

FFA Members Meet With State Legislators

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Association of FFA held its 8th annual legislative breakfast late last week at the Sheraton Inn-East, in Harrisburg, with 162 FFA members participating, along with their chapter advisors, supporters, and a number of state senators and representatives.

The purpose of the annual breakfast meeting is to introduce FFA members to their elected officials and provide the opportunity for informal table discussions on issues concerning the FFA members or legislators.

The breakfast is part of a three-day program called the State Legislative Leadership Conference. The program is designed to educate FFA members about the legislative process in Pennsylvania, and also to educate legislators about FFA.

Each FFA chapter may send up to five members to participate in the conference, with a restriction that a member may only attend once. Participation this year was full.

A total of 35 chapters participated, including the recently chartered Milton Hershey FFA chapter.

The last FFA chapter chartered was in 1992. FFA is actually growing, nationally and on the state level, as more and more educators become aware of the benefits of the program.

During the three days, the participants stayed at the Holiday Inn, Grantville, and participated in leadership workshops the first evening.

The next day, the FFA members conducted a legislative simulation excercise. Each member served on six different committees which mirrored the standing commitees of the state House of Representatives.

Also, each committee was assigned an actual piece of proposed legislation to work on, so in effect, each participant had a chance to review and debate six different legislative proposals.

With the help of actual legislative assistants, the FFA members also conducted a mock caucus session and a mock full session of the general assembly.

There were committee chairman appointed, and the speaker of house position was held by the FFA state president, Jenny Zerby.

The legislative simulations, in particular, promote the use of parliamentary procedure, which is a topic stressed in FFA and 4-H, two of the few educational opportunities for youth to learn and put into practice the basic rules of order for conducting the democratic process.

Following the breakfast, FFA members traveled to and toured the state Capitol, meeting again with representatives in offices.

The breakfast program itself is popular because of the opportunity for about-to-be voters to meet the people who were elected to represent their respective communities in developing state policy.

In addition to the FFA opening ceremonies during the breakfast, a welcome and invocation before the meal, guests were introduced, special FFA presentations were made, and a $1,000 scholarship was presented to Zerby, daughter of Nevin and Isabel Zerby, Beaver Springs.

The scholarship was presented to Zerby by Ben DiCarlo, representing sponsor Arthur Andersen & Company, a financial consulting business that provides services for business leaders. For almost 10 years, in an effort to encourage leadership in potential agricultural leaders, the company has sponsored the scholarship.

Marci Harnish addressess a breakfast gathering of almost 200 fellow FFA members, state legislators, chapter advisors and supporters.

To be eligible, the youth must be an active, dues-paying FFA member; be a state resident; be or have been enrolled in a college agricultural science, horticultural science or related studies program; demonstrate exemplary leadership at the chapter level and beyond, be sponsored by a member of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation; and plan to continue an agricultural education at either Pennsylvania State University, or Delaware Valley College.

Zerbe was sponsored for the scholarship by Mickey Baugher, general manager of Matterns Hatchery Inc., in Beaver Springs.

According to DiCarlo, what brought the company to support FFA was the fact that a lot of its clients are in the poultry industry and are members of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation. The scholarship was a way for the company to give back to an industry that's been good to them.

Also during the breakfast, Marci Harnish, state FFA vice president, addressed the legislators and friends of FFA, discussing motivational forces in education, and the lack of it. She cited the successes of vocational agricultural education which promotes students actively conducting personal projects which stimulate the desire to learn.

"I think all of us can remember that one subject (in school), where no matter how hard we tried, we never could seem to master it. For me it was math, for some of you it could have been English, or science," Harnish told the group.

"Unfortunately, the combination of the frustration of not being able to succeed in a class and the lack of interest in school have lead to the unmotivation of students.

"'Motivated.' This is a key word for educators, as they struggle with the question, 'How can we motivate students so that they want to learn?'

"Different types of elements motivate all of us, and if educators can unlock the driving force behind each of us, their battle is half won. From there, they can teach us in a way that we want to learn. However, figuring out the motivation of students is harder than you may think," she said.

Then Harnish told the audience about a youth who was being paid to attend school, rewarded monetarily for grades and for each advance to a higher grade level. She said that the money was put in a trust fund, and potentially, by the time the student graduated from high school, he could have accumulated up to $4,000.

"While he may have the opportunity to gain a substantial amount of money, if he is still frustrated in his classes and has a sense that he can not achieve his goals, all the money in the world couldn't motivate him," she said.

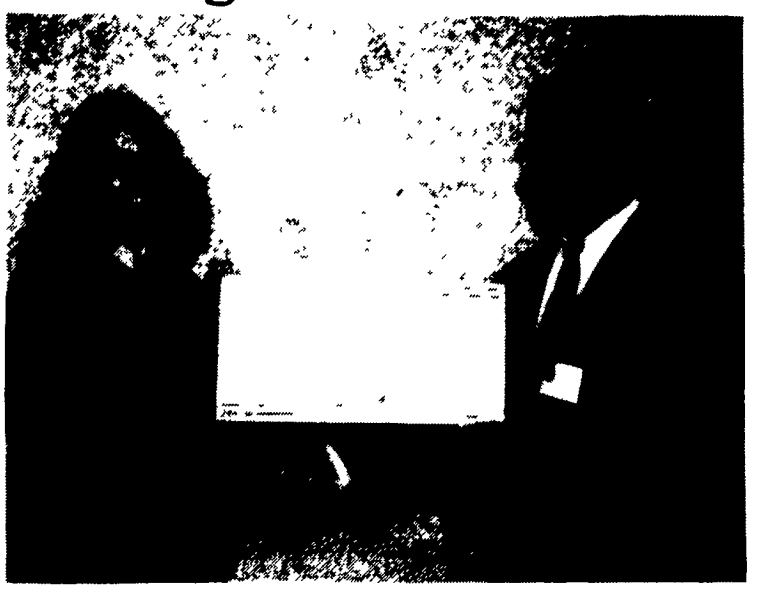
"I compare it to having a job that you absolutely despise, yet the pay is good, so you stay with it. Motivation by money can defeat its own purpose.

"Our American education system has come to a fork in the road," she said, a statement that provided the title of her speech.

"We can no longer continue with the 'assembly line' system, where we run students through the education process, so we must look in a new direction. The questions is, which direction should we take?"

Harnish talked about recent changes and proposed changes to the education system, such as the "High Schools that Work" program that bolsters academic achievements by vocational students by attempting to combine abstract learning with pratical applications.

She said there are other programs attempting to combine theory with reality in order to reinforce learning, and provide understanding along with the ability to recite concepts.



State FFA President Jenny Zerby receives a $1,000 scholarship from Brian DiCarlo, representing sponsor Arthur Andersen & Company.

Harnish suggested that FFA has been there all along, and said, "... did you realize that an education program that does just that has been in place for over 67 years?

"Agricultural education is a bold, creative, and progressive way of learning that has revolutionized education. Yet, it has been kept a secret until now," she said. "We are looking for a change and people are looking to agricultural education for direction.

"Our direction is motivation by purpose, values, and hands-on action," she said.

"In high school, I'm sure we all wondered at one point or another how what we learned would apply to our lives after high school.

"In my geometry class, one student was always asking, 'When am I going to use this?' In agricultural education, students can not only see the application, but experience it as well," she said.

"Agricultural education and the FFA are developing young people from across the country, no matter what background they come from. Their goals don't have to (include) an agriculture career, they are there to get their hands on something that motivates and interests them.

"When students are interested, captivated, motivated, and have found something that they want to put their time, energy, and talents into, the outcome is something more valuable than could ever be found in a text book."

In other news, there are several upcoming FFA events scheduled, according to Sheila Reiner, executive secretary of Pennsylvania Association of FFA Inc.

For the first time, the Pennsylvania Association of FFA is offering a leadership camp for officers of FFA chapters. The camp has been scheduled to be held May 12-14 at the Hidden Valley Boy Scout Camp, in Perry County.

The deadline for registration is April 19.

Later in the year, the state FFA convention is to be held June 13-15, at the Pennsylvania State University, at University Park.

And later, for those wishing to support the FFA and participate in an event where they can meet others with an interest in supporting educational opportunities, July 17 has been set for the third annual Fore FFA Golf Tournament. It is to be held again at Fox Chase Golf Course, in Denver, Lancaster County.

For more information on the FFA, and any of the events, call Reiner at (717) 248-2225.

Reassessment Impacts

EXTON (Chester Co.)—If you operate or own a farm in Chester County, you are probably aware that Chester County officials have commissioned a reassessment of all real estate within our county.

Since farmers own the predominance of land mass of the county, the fiscal impacts of reassessment could seriously damage the modest profitability that our industry currently affords us.

The Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association is hosting an information exchange on "The Fiscal Impacts of Reassessment on Chester County Farms" to be held on Thursday, April 20, from 7-9 p.m. at the Charles F. Patton Middle School, located just north of the Unionville High School on Route 82, between Unionville and Kennett Square.

The meeting will be in the format of a panel discussion. Panelists will include Rep. Joseph Pitts, Chairman of the Pennsylvania House Appropriations Committee, who will present a legislative update on reform of property taxes to more of an income-based tax; Jeff Laudenslager, director of the Chester County Assessment Office, who will present an update as to the status of reassessment procedures and timing for implementation; Harriet Diehl, assessment specialist, who will address the difference between Act 515 and Act 319, the two state legislated programs for preferential treatment of land; Maurice Gogarty, project manager for Cole-Layer-Trumbell Company, the company subcontracted by the county to perform the reassessment; and Walter Wurster, Penn State extension/agriculture agent, who will address Act 319 and how it is legally interpreted in surrounding counties and how it has been successfully implemented.

The Southeast Regional Cattlemen's Association has recently been organized as a local chapter of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association to promote the beef cattle industry and to provide communication and support among fellow beef producers within southeastern Pennsylvania. The group has approximately 60 members and holds monthly functions on topical subjects which further enhance the beef cattle industry.

For more information, contact Bobbi McMullen, secretary, at (717) 548-3282.

Those of us who are involved with pseudorabies are frequently impressed by the accomplishments of quarantined swine producers who are committed to cleaning up their herds. This article documents such a case in a Lancaster County herd.

Experience has shown that eliminating pseudorabies from large finish floors can be a very challenging task. The virus finds conditions in such herds comfortable and very favorable to its survival. Large infected finish floors usually have many pigs which are actively shedding virus into the environment to infect any pig which has not yet been exposed.

The large concentration of pigs in one facility means that it is not difficult for pseudorabies virus (and many other disease agents) to be transferred from pig to pig. Stress factors, such as dust, uneven temperature and ventilation, or crowding are often the core of a problem in large herds and can make disease control difficult, particularly if the flow of pigs through the building is continuous.

This case involves a large continuous flow finish floor of over 5,000-head capacity which was quarantined in 1992, after infected feeder pigs were moved to the facility from a quarantined breeding herd. Pseudorabies became established at this finish floor. Later, uninfected pigs were supplied by the breeding herd, but blood testing showed that all pigs were being infected with pseudorabies by the time they had been at the finish floor for four weeks.

Pneumonia and poor growth rate were also problems at this facility, so in the fall of 1993, the decision was made to switch the flow of the facility from continuous to all-in/all-out by room. That is, each of the nine rooms would be filled over a two-week period, pigs would remain in the same pens until ready for slaughter, and then the entire room would be emptied before it was refilled with young pigs.

At the same time pig flow through the facility was changed, vaccination of pigs for pseudorabies was initiated. Pigs received a single dose of pseudorabies vaccine at nine weeks of age, on the day they were moved from the nursery to the finish floor. Several groups of pigs were ear-tagged and blood-tested every 2 to 4 weeks to determine the patterns of infection in the herd.

The first series of blood tests was done three months after vaccination was started and showed that only about 20 percent of pigs were responding well to the vaccine and that pigs were still becoming infected at around 13 weeks of age, even though they were vaccinated. These results were not surprising, as many pigs vaccinated for pseudorabies at such a young age do not respond well.

So much virus was still circulating that it was overwhelming any protection provided by the vaccine. Although the producer was discouraged, he realized that if vaccination was continued, there was a good chance that virus levels would gradually decrease, eventually allowing pigs to remain uninfected.

Two months later, blood testing showed that vaccinated pigs were not becoming infected until 17 weeks of age, so progress was evident. By this time, all pigs in the facility had received a dose of vaccine. After two more months, another blood test was done. By this time, vaccine had been in use for seven months. This blood test showed that pigs were remaining uninfected all the way through market weight and age. However, some infected pigs were still on the premises, so a final blood test was planned. This final blood test, done nine months after pseudorabies vaccination was started, showed that pseudorabies had been completely eliminated from the facility.

This case demonstrates that changes in pig flow and use of pseudorabies vaccine can produce rapid results, even in herds expected to be difficult to clean up. The transmission of virus from infected pigs to uninfected pigs was completely interrupted sometime between 3 and 4 months after vaccination was initiated. These results were obtained without any disruptions to pig marketings or to work practices on the farm (other than the labor to inject vaccine). Apparently, the added separation between groups of pigs, combined with a reduction in virus shedding brought about by vaccine use, succeeded in stopping the spread of pseudorabies in this herd. The incidence of disease symptoms also decreased.

The neighboring swine producers are delighted that the pseudorabies threat imposed by this farm has been eliminated. We will be reporting in a later issue on changes in growth performance on this farm and others which have successfully eliminated pseudorabies.

Young Holstein Breeder

Farms.

"We're excited at the opportunity to have our genetics in other herds and hope they prove helpful to other breeders," says Steve of the bull that is presently the second-high-ranked Blackstar son at Landmark.

Some embryo transfer work continues at Penn Gate herd, though the Woods agree that sometimes records, such as the herd calving interval, suffers as a result. They do believe in selling animals in which other breeders have an interest and are extremely pleased when an individual performs well for their buyers.

"We love to milk our cows," smiles Chris, as Steve quips, "It's our payback for all the other things we do for them every day."

Since 1987, Penn Gate has received 48 All-Pennsylvania awards. The Woods were named Premier Breeder at the 1994 and 1993 Eastern National Holstein shows and were Premier Breeder and Exhibitor honor recipients at the 1994 Pennsylvania Fall Championship show. Both Steve and Chris are in demand for show judging and have judged dairy shows in states througout the region.

Steve and Chris are involved with numerous state and local Holstein activities and served as chaircouple of the 1994 state convention hosted at nearby Gettysburg. Steve has been Adams County's director to the state Holstein board, chaired the State Show committee and served on Program Development and Evaluation committees. Chris has served on the state Holstein's Youth Committee, along with holding various offices and committee chair positions at the local level.

As the 1995 Pennsylvania Holstein Distinguished Young Breeder winners, they will compete for the national award in June. That selection will be announced during the annual National Holstein Convention, which the Pennsylvania Holstein Association will host at Pittsburgh in late June.

The Woods are member-producers of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and members of the Farm Bureau and Dairy Shrine. Both are actively involved members of St. Paul Lutheran Church.

While they hope their sons will be interested in the family farm, the Woods want Clayton and Corbin to have the opportunity to participate in school and sports activities if they so choose. Chris is appreciative of having had the opportunity while growing up, along with maintaining her interest in the herd and her 4-H dairy activities.

Though their herd escaped unscathed from the fire's deadly potential, Chris and Steve emerged from the terrifying experience with renewed appreciation for family, friends and neighbors. They hope to install an alarm system of some type and encourage all farmers to have their electrical systems and wiring inspected and upgraded regularly.

Scott and Larissa Doody will soon move from their home at Penn Gate to begin their own dairy farming operation near Woodsboro, Maryland. As part of their new herd, the Doodys will take with them a December registered Holstein calf bearing the Penngate prefix, a gift of gratitude for their courage and quick action from Steve and Chris.

The Woods also express thanks to the dozens of firefighters from nearby communities who turned out to help. Participating fire companies included Littlestown, Kingsdale, Harney, Bonneauville, Barlow and Gettysburg.

Two New Farmers' Markets To Open

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Growers interested in expanding their farmers' market sales will have two new markets to consider in Harford County this season.

According to Bill Amoss of the Harford County Economic Development office, new markets are set up to go on Thursdays at the big Aberdeen Proving Grounds Complex and another new market for Saturday mornings at the Abingdon Wal-Mart.

Amoss is working with Tony Evans of the Maryland Department of Agriculture to organize the new markets, which will see the number of farmers' markets in Harford County go from one (at Bel Air) to three in 1995. The Bel Air market is sponsored by the Bel Air Jaycees and has proven to be a real success. It operates two days each week.

Preference for participants in the new Aberdeen and Abingdon markets will be given to farmers and producers in Harford, Baltimore, and Cecil counties. However, all interested producers wishing to take part in "producer's only" markets are invited to apply. Amoss may be contacted at (410) 638-3059.

The two new markets will be affiliated with the "Pride of the Chesapeake Marketing Association (PCMA)." Application forms for PCMA may be obtained by contacting Evans at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD 21401, (410) 841-5770.

Planning and organizing meetings for the new markets will be announced later. Tentative plans call for opening the Aberdeen Proving Ground Farmers' Market on June 22. The Abingdon Wal-Mart market will also open in June.

devised the strategy of providing for a wider variety of loans by splitting up the allocation pie while not increasing available funds.

While she said she has a total of $76 million, it is all split up and she is restricted from lending it according to local priorities.

"We need more private sector lenders involved with beginning farmer loans," she said, citing a program offered through the Lebanon Valley National Bank. She said that the institution is the only one she could think of that offered such a program.

According to Cook, the LVNB program provides for a three-year interest break for beginning farmers and that they work with farmer-borrowers.

"There's no reason (other commercial lenders) couldn't be doing more."

She said that during the previous week, during a discussion with lenders about what could be done to help beginning farmers, she said, "A lot of what they're talking about is already there." The commercial lenders have to become more aware of the guarantees and programs available to assist them.

Also speaking was Donald Hummel, manager of PFB Farm Management Services. He reviewed some of the same topics previously discussed but added others in his review of how to include non-heirs into a family farm.

First, the farm-owner has to come to terms with what goals they have for the farm and whether or not they would like to help an entering farmer get started, or obtain full market value for the property.

He said a curious thing happens to people: "The young want to change the world; the old want to change the young."

The reality behind that quip is that those tendencies need to be addressed by both sides in order to even begin to consider working together.

According to Hummel, there are some advantages to working with non-heirs. They aren't family and, "You can be more objective and be able to treat them as individuals and not like family members," he said.

Further, he said there can be no hidden meanings in conversations, or subtle slips which may be perceived as deceptions. He said, "Talk up front with the (young) couple, and ask what goals they have and what they expect."

Other questions that need to be asked in a transfer venture include: "From where is the money coming to pay for anything?" and, "Is what you're asking the young couple to do, possible?"

He said that as a general suggestion, to help the entering farmer by financing some of the debt is fine, but some of the money ought to be borrowed from someone else.

He said consider gifting some things, or making partial gifts, selling equipment in installments to get a tax break, and working things out together so that they are manageable and workable by both parties.

He said that the relationship has to be built on fair treatment, good management, written agreements, confidence and trust, an openess to change which may become necessary in order to keep the farm competitive, and to undergo regularly scheduled reviews of the agreements.

He also said that some may want to conduct the transfer process in the form of a partnership, where the entering farmer begins with a representative cut of the income, and eventually builds to owning the property.

It also provides for a trial period, so that, if after the first year or so, it doesn't seem to be working, then both can back out without losing too much time and investment.

Hummel also provided a couple of example of working arrangements.

The day finished with a pannel of farmers, both entering and retiring, who discussed some of their concerns and experiences.

The gist of the stories told and answers to questions seemed to focus on two main issues.

For the older farm-owners, it seemed to be that the desire to pass on the farm must outweight the desire to cash it in for as much as possible; and for the young, the desire to own land and live on a farm has to outweigh the desire for an easier standard of living.

Those interested in the program or with any questions should call 1-800-9PA-FARM.

Cedar Crest Young Farmers

Maurer also said that at the state level, the association is accepting applications for an educational consultant, which he said really would a job more like an executive secretary.

The annual state summer picnic is to be held at the Solanco Fairgrounds, in Quarryville July 21-22. Notification should be in the next state newsletter.

He also said that the next winter convention is to be held in Berlin, Somerset County, with the Berlin/Brothers Valley YF serving as host.

He said the state association is seeking someone to sponsor/host the summer 1996 picnic, and the association is always seeking sponsors for its winter convention.

Of the annual awards the CCYF presents, its conservation award was presented to Eugene and Kathlene Martin, who remodeled their farm last year, built manure storage, developed a nutrient management plan, and have 45 acres in terraces, in addition to practicing conservation tillage on 80 acres.

Also, Jeff and Karen Zook were named the CCYF Outstanding Young Farmer couple under 30 years old, while Alan and Carol Nolt were named the association's Outstanding Young Farmer couple older than 30.

The Community Service Award was presented to Glen and Linda Krall, of Cornwall. In crop awards, the Kralls also won recognition for having the first place alfalfa entry and the first place mixed hay entry.

The Honorary Young Farmer Award was presented to Dorothy Weiman, a secretary at Cedar Crest High School, because of her long-standing help with the organization.

In other awards, Curvin and Dawn Good were recognized for having the first place entry in hay silage quality, and also, for having the highest producing cow for milk production. It made 43,323 pounds of milk.

Ken and Rhoda Reist were honored for having the top fat producing cow, with production of 1,123 pounds.

Gordon and Lori Hitz were recognized for having the highest protein producing cow, with 1,111 pounds. They also were recognized by having the largest average herd increase in milk production, increasing an average of 2,233 pounds last year.

The herd with the lowest somatic cell count belonged to Dave and Linda Bomberger.

Dan and Dave Groff were also honored for having the best quality corn silage, while Mark and Stephanie Patches were recognized for having the best high moisture ear corn.

The NEW LEADER L3020
Heavy Duty LIME SPREADER

For more than 50 years, New Leader has aggressively met and exceeded market demand by producing the most dependable, adaptable and durable spreaders in the industry. The heavy-duty L-3020 spreader is a direct result of New Leader's unmatched experience in the agricultural equipment field.

Designed for high-volume applications of ag-lime and gypsum, the rugged and resilient L-3020 is also suitable for spreading fertilizer and hauling aggregate material. Equipped with an optional swinging rear endgate, the L-3020 can be quickly and efficiently converted into a controlled discharge, no-hoist dump system for stockpiling. The L-3020's standard 30-inch-wide conveyor system virtually eliminates the material bridging that's common with narrower conveyor spreaders. The versatile L-3020 broadcasts ag-lime at rates up to six tons per acre and fertilizer at rates as low as 150 pounds per acre.

Other Available Features:
- Complete body in 304 or 409 stainless steel
- Mounts on vehicles equipped with highway, semi or full flotation tires
- An optional ladder that attaches to either the left-or right-hand-side of the unit
- Optional heat-and petroleum - resistant conveyor belting available for transport and application of hot asphalt.

It's Drizzlin' Pure Maple Syrup In Somerset County

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SALISBURY (Somerset Co.) — "Stack about three of them hot pancakes on a platter and pass the maple syrup, please. While you're at it spear me a couple links of sausage to go with 'em."

Some folks would insist upon grammatical correctness in that request but they couldn't inhibit the gusto of that first savory bite tantalizing their palate.

Every year around this time that fare rises to glorious heights of popularity as visitors to the Pennsylvania Maple Festival converge upon Meyersdale and Salisbury to sample pancakes and maple syrup served by local Lions Clubs.

It's a time of jubilation, when old and new friends celebrate the Creator's simple gift to mankind — sap from sugar maple trees. With the help of gravity it drips prodigiously when late winter nights are cold and the days are pleasantly warm.

If a spile has been inserted in the tree's lower trunk, sweet water rolls out the little spillway, splashing drop by drop into a collection vessel. It's boiled down, filtered several times, monitored and checked some more until, finally it reaches syrup density and a beautiful amber color.

According to official reports Somerset County ranks first in the state in maple production. Yet, the state's overall production lags well behind all of New England, New York, Ohio and even Michigan.

Somerset County, however, has an extremely high concentration of sugar maple trees and maple producers who take the season seriously. Some of the backyard tacklers are never counted because the syrup they make is for personal use only, including farmers and non-farmers.

That's why some 35 members of the Somerset County Maple Producer's Association feel they've earned the right to celebrate. In the space of a few weeks they've given hundreds of thousands of gallons of sugar water the tender loving care needed to evaporate it into thousands of gallons of maple syrup. And that excludes time spent creating other taste-teasing by-products of the sticky stuff.

On April 22, 23, 28, 29 and 30, the 48th Annual Pennsylvania Maple Festival will be held in Meyersdale with a newly crowned queen, Rebecca Cogan of Somerset, reigning over the numerous events. She, her two maids of honor and court of princesses, will welcome the throngs of visitors and direct them to demonstrations, historical places, area maple camps and the ever-popular pageant "Legend of the Magic Water," presented at the Meyersdale High School.

The Maple Queen Scholarship Pageant won by Miss Cogan stresses education. As its winner she received a $5,000 savings bond from the Pennsylvania Maple Festival, Inc., and a $500 scholarship from the Somerset County Maple Producers Association, and many other gifts.

Danielle Svonavec, Rockwood, the first runner-up got a $2,000 savings bond while a $1,000 savings bond went to second runner-up Jennifer Brown of Friedens.

Gary Blocher, owner of Milroy Farms Sugar Camp is the current Maple King. His successor will be named on April 21, the day preceding the festival since Blocher is ineligible to succeed himself in that capacity.

The new king will have received the highest combined scores in classes of this year's syrup, sugar cakes, sugar crumb, sugar-soft (maple spread or cream); individual collective exhibit and gift pack. All entries must have been produced in Somerset County.

Blocher comes with an enduring maple background, from his late father, and his mother's family as well. He said this year's weather fluctuations hurt production elsewhere.

"Production-wise, Somerset County was fortunate this year," he said. "Some other localities were less fortunate with the weather conditions. The Northeast, for instance, was too cold then suddenly last week it got too warm."

He said that locally the quantity of production was about average, but the quality was really good.

Milroy Farms Sugar Camp is on the River Road, RD1, Salisbury, a family operation that includes his wife Frances, son Jason, and mother Thelma Blocher.

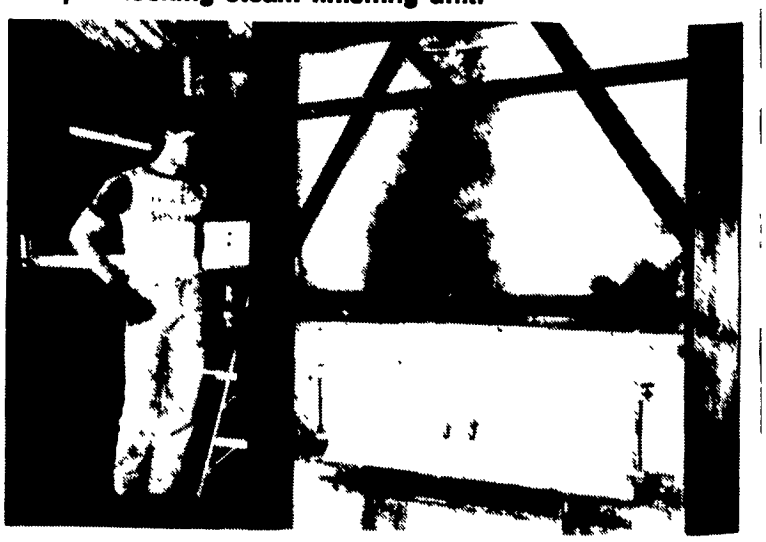
This is a familiar sight in Somerset County where trees are drizzling maple syrup.

Some Somerset County sugar camps have kitchen units and sales rooms attached to their modern facilities these days. Here, Dorothy Jeffrey, veteran of maple sugarin' exhibits the variety of by-products many county producers keep in their shops the year around.

This hand-crafted sugar wagon was constructed and used by William Wagner, great-grandfather of Dale Jeffrey who operates Wagner's Sugar Camp, West Salisbury. No longer used, the wagon is exhibited at the camp on the Tub Mill Run Road. Wagner's and many Somerset County maple producers welcome visitors to observe their operations.

HOMESTEAD NOTES

Dale Jeffrey, owner of Wagner's Sugar Camp, Tub Mill Run Road, West Salisbury, is testing maple syrup at the complex-looking steam finishing unit.



Making maple syrup in Somerset County is important business since the county ranks first in the state's maple production. Here, Brian Arnold, an employee at Wagner's Sugar Camp, West Salisbury is routinely checking the sap evaporation process in the "piggy-back" boiler.

Don't Top That Tree

UNIVERSITY PARK, (Centre Co.)—Early spring is a good time to prune many trees, but it is important to do this properly. Topping—cutting the crown off—not only makes a tree ugly, it can lead to its early death, says a Penn State ornamental horticulture expert.

"Many home owners assume that if they top a large tree, it will compensate by producing a new, healthy, lower-growing crown," says J. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. "It's not true. Removing the central trunk and the tops of main branches permanently destroys a tree's form and causes unnatural growth."

Topping severely weakens trees because it removes too many leaves. Without enough leaves to photosynthesize, the tree slowly starves to death.

When trees are topped, they develop bristling "water sprouts," or "suckers." To the untrained eye, this looks as though the tree is rejuvenating," says Nuss. "But suckers don't develop into substantial limbs or produce enough leaves. They remain weak and spindly, and snap off easily in storms."

Sometimes topped trees develop a double leader, or trunk. This new trunk often is weaker than the original and can be prone to splitting. The massive root system also is weakened because it no longer receives adequate nourishment from the crown. Trees in this condition are more likely to split or blow over in a storm.

"If you plan to top a tree in your yard because you fear it might blow over on your house, consider this: a mature tree with a healthy root system is much less likely to blow over than a weak one with damaged roots," says Nuss.

Topping a tree also creates large wounds where the crown and limbs are cut off. It takes years for these stubs to heal. In the meantime, they provide the perfect environment for harmful insects, disease and decay.

"Before you prune a tree, think about what you want to accomplish," says Nuss. "It's also important to learn about the tree's natural form, growth habit, growth rate, height and spread.

"Pruning is meant to remove dead, diseased, damaged or insect-infested branches and keep the rest of the tree healthy. It's also used to allow more air and light to reach the center of a tree."

On trees more than 20 feet tall, it's wise to hire a professional tree service. "If you're inexperienced and attempt to prune a large tree, you could injure yourself as well as the tree," says Nuss. "Tree services have the knowledge and equipment to do this job effectively and safely."

Utility companies often are forced to top trees growing under wires—the only alternative is to cut the trees down. "If you have utility wires crossing your property, it's best not to plant trees under them," says Nuss. "If you want to plant trees under wires, plant low-growing ones, such as dogwoods or redbuds."

Two free Penn State publications, "Pruning Ornamental Plants" and "A Guide for Selecting Shade and Flowering Trees for Pennsylvania Landscapes," provide additional information about choosing and maintaining trees and shrubs. Both are available from extension offices and the Publications Distribution Center, 112 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 865-6713.

Pancakes, sausage and maple syrup will be available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during both festival weekends in Salisbury and Meyersdale. Signs along Route 219 will point the way.

The Tub Mill Arts Association will host shows both weekends featuring artists such as watercolorist, Shirley Tataleba and wood carver, Ken Miller, whose love of Native American culture is expressed in his works. The gallery is at 117 Ord Street, Salisbury, a block off Route 219 and has plenty of maple syrup available, too.

SUGAR CRUSTED MAPLE CAKE

1 package yellow cake mix
⅓ cup cooking oil
1 cup water
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
½ cup maple syrup

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour 12-cup fluted tube pan. In large bowl blend cake mix, eggs, oil and water until moistened. Beat 2 minutes at highest speed. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 35 to 40 minutes until toothpick inserted into center comes out clean. In small saucepan, heat sugar and syrup until mixture boils and sugar is melted. Pour around edges of hot cake. Cool upright in pan 15 minutes; turn onto serving plate. Serve warm or cool. Makes 10-inch ring cake.

Rebecca Cogan, right, was crowned Pennsylvania Queen Maple XLVIII at the contest held in Somerset. She succeeds Katie Thomas of Meyersdale and will reign over the 48th Pennsylvania Maple Festival in Meyersdale on April 22, 23, 28, 29 and 30.

All Gardens Great & Small

by York Co. Horticultural Agent Tom Becker

Editor's Note: This week marks the first installment of a gardening column written by Thomas Becker, York horticultural agent for Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Becker has extensive knowlege on all types of gardening (ornamental, fruit, vegetables, and children's). He assists commercial producers and individual consumers with horticultural needs. The first five columns will be a series on World War II Victory Gardens and how that era of gardening applies to today.

We are all "soldiers of the soil," who "plant for freedom" and "hoe for liberty" because we love to "plant vegetables for victory."

These catchy phrases contributed to the war effort by encouraging more planting of gardens and harvesting your own produce. Locally grown farm market vegetable freed precious resources for the war machine. It may be hard to believe that our own private peaceful gardens can be used in warfare; but such is the case. A World War 1 poster filled with patriotic rhetoric declared that "beans and beets' are no less important than "bullets and battleships.'

During World War 11 war, kapok, used to fill life vests, was in short supply. As a replacement, common milkweed (Asclepias syriaca), a common and persistent perennial weed contained seed pods with a greyish, silky, seed fiber. This seed 'floss' was sufficiently waterproof and buoyant and was readily available throughout Pennsylvania's roadsides, open fields and pastures. But, large quantities of pods were needed.

The floss in two bags of milkweed pods filled a life jacket. Young, rural school children were avid collectors of milkweed pods. Students competed with each other to find the best fields containing the most milkweed. School-wide collections gathered truckloads of milkweed pods for the war effort. Bags of dried milkweed pods were stored in factory warehouses or hung up to dry in burlap bags.

Planting Tips 1943

Choose "Color" Vegetables: Victory gardeners were strongly encouraged to choose vegetables based on (1) those with the greatest nutritional value of vitamins and minerals and (2) how easy they were to grow. "Stick to easy to grow vegetables" was a common theme in every gardening bulletin of the time.

Vegetables everyone grew were:

*bush beans, *pole beans, *wax beans, *early beans, *late beets, *broccoli, brussel sprouts, *early cabbage, *mid-season cabbage, *late cabbage, red cabbage, savoy *cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, chineses cabbage, cucumber, eggplant, endive, *kale, *kohrabi, *lettuce, new zealand spinach, *onions, parsley, parsnips, pumpkin, early peas, late peas, *peppers, radish, rhubarb (pie plant), *summer squash, winter squash, *spinach, *swiss chard, *tomatoes and *turnips.

In addition, bulletins in the early 1940's suggested 'gardeners should choose vegetables that (1) satisfy your own taste. (2) that do well in your locality and (3) that fit in the size of the garden you design."

'Wild' License Plates Help Fund Penn State's Research

UNIVERSITY PARK (Center Co.)—When a Pennsylvania driver motors by and the distinctive image of a saw-whet owl and the phrase "Conserve Wild Resources" decorates the car's license plate, motorists can also get a glimpse of how to support research in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

To date, some 180,000 wildlife plates have been sold, providing more than $2.2 million to the Wildlife Resources Conservation Fund, which finances research and education related to Pennsylvania's native plants and non-game animals. The conservation fund is supported directly through sale of the license plates, a voluntary checkoff on Pennsylvania income tax forms and donations.

Over the past two years, Penn State scientists have received money from the conservation fund for such projects as the reintroduction of the fisher into Pennsylvania forests, a study of the distribution of mayflies as an indicator of water quality, research on the conservation of the state's butterflies and skippers, and many others.

According to Robert Brooks, associate professor of wildlife ecology in Penn State's School of Forest Resources, funding from the program allows scientists to see how insects, plants and less well-known animal species flourish in the state's varied environments.

Brooks, who has received funds to reintroduce the river otter and the fisher, a relative of the weasel, into Pennsylvania habitats, says the program is very popular because the public knows how the donations are used. "I have a 'Conserve Wild Resources' tag on my car and I always pass out an application for the plate when people ask me how to get one," he says.

Gregory Hoover, senior extension associate in entomology, is using conservation fund donations to study the distribution of mayflies across Pennsylvania. Mayflies, insects that live in rivers, creeks and lakes, can be useful indicators of water quality.

"We need to know what species exist in our aquatic environments so that we know how to conserve them for the future," Hoover explains. "Insects comprise three-quarters of all animals on Earth, but there hasn't been sufficient funding to study them as a part of the wildlife system. The Wildlife Resources Conservation Fund gives us a chance to see a bigger picture of our environment and helps us assess the quality of all our lives."

Another insect-based study focuses on developing methods to count populations of butterflies and skippers across the state. Richard Yahner, professor of wildlife conservation, sees the project as a critical link in understanding how insects—and butterflies and skippers in particular—fit into the food chain.

"Many people in the wildlife profession are becoming more concerned with studying how insects affect habitats," Yahner says, "The agencies that look at insects concentrate on them as pests. Less than 5 percent of our insects are pests, so clearly it's important to understand how the most abundant group of wildlife interacts." Other wildlife fund-supported projects conducted by Yahner and his students over the past three years have included studies on the rare northern goshawk and the threatened Allegheny woodrat.

Robert Carline, adjunct professor in the School of Forest Resources and William Sharpe, professor of the forest hydrology, have received grants from the conservation fund to study whether non-game fish species have declined in streams that are vulnerable to acidification.

"Similar projects on the loss of species have been done for game fish species," Carline says. "This kind of work with nongame species has not been done elsewhere because most of the funding agencies concentrate on game species."

"The Conservation Fund has opened up a wider range of opportunities to study small pieces of a much larger puzzle," says Charles Schaadt, assistant professor of wildlife technology at Penn State DuBois Campus. Schaadt and Christopher Haney, assistant professor of wildlife technology, have just finished a population study of bird species in Pennsylvania's old-growth forest. Schaadt is currently working on a similar project centering on small mammal species in old-growth areas. Both studies are funded by the conservation agency.

Nutritional Value

Leafy vegetables, swiss chard, kale and turnip greens were considered very important for their contribution of vitamin A, vitamin C, riboflavin, calcium and iron. Gardeners were told to plant a "color" garden with lots of green and leafy vegetables, yellow carrots and onions and topped off with tomato red trimmings.

While green beans and tomatoes were recommended because they produced abundantly and were easily grown and canned, others like onions and beets were recommended to make meals interesting because of their flavor and color.

Victory Farm Market Gardens

Victory gardens came in all shapes and sizes. In the early 1940's the consumption of vegetables was rising steadily. In addition, the number of truck "vegetable" patches rose in our area, a term still in use today in York County. Farm gardens were the norm in the county at the time. Representing the largest of the victory gardens, these gardens were a necessity to supplement farm income. Most of the produce was marketed directly off the farm or at farmers markets. For a current list of farm markets in your county, contact your county extension office.

They're busy plowing.

Earthworms, not farmers. Though some of them are plowing, too.

Unlike us human tillers of the soil, worms don't hitch up the horsepower—four-legged or four-wheel-drive—to a series of shiny, steel moldboards to turn the soil over. They just sort of chew their way through, more or less in a grazing mode.

I noticed the worms' work one recent damp morning, on the bare ground just off the front porch. Because of our big, old maple trees around the house, and their agressive root systems which prevent anything else growing beneath them except for some occasional weeds, the porch is surrounded mostly by bare ground.

But the normally flat, bare soil had erupted with clusters of bumpy hills of soil around small holes in the ground. Worm tracks, if you will.

As a young child, I HATED worms. Though I don't personally remember the squabbles, Mom has often related how my sister, Elaine, whould chase me around with a worm, while I screamed at the top of my small—but highly-vocal—lungs. Long ago, I outgrew that terror of wiggly and bug-like critters and now share with my sister our whole family's love of gardening and digging in the ground where worms live.

Much of my respect and admiration for worms came from learning to appreciate how valuable they are to that precious resource of all farmers and gardeners (and everyone who likes to eat, for that matter). As they munch their way through the underground, dining at microscopic buffet tables piled full of tasty things worms like to eat, they leave little tunnels behind everywhere they go. Conveniently, those little trails help aerate the soil and open it up. That helps our April showers that bring May flowers to more easily trickle down to their roots, where the moisture can most readily be used.

Worms also leave behind their waste material known as "castings." Scientists praise those little clumps of rich, recycled soil as incredibly useful for improving the soil's organic composition, texture and workability.

Actually, worms are such valuable little workaholics that I now rescue those occasional little wrigglers that inadvertently crawl toward their own destruction. During stretches of drippy, damp weather, we often find them on the porches, the garage's concrete floor, even the laundry area in the back portion of our basement. They crawl there escaping oversaturated ground and then become stranded as the area around them dries out. If not put back out on the ground, they will soon die.

Earthworms serve three other, extremely useful purposes.

Breakfast. Lunch. And dinner.

Mother Nature conveniently unearths worms—pardon the pun—from their winter hiding just about the same time the robins return in spring. It's fascinating to watch a robin stalk those underground crawlers out across the lawn. These perky, rusty-breasted birds will hop along through the greening grass, suddenly halt, heads cocked and then launch a split-second, sharp-beak attack on the unseen prey.

Do they hear the worms? Smell them? Feel the vibrations of their wiggling underground? How ever they do it, robins rack up an enviable success rate snagging those unseen, high-nutrient tidbits.

Some food extremists claim worms make great people-food, too. Nutrition-wise, they may. Appeal wise.....no thanks, I'm not hungry.

So celebrate the season. Take a worm to lunch.

Or invite it to go fishing.

"We have very little information on old-growth forest ecosystems," Schaadt explains. "Pennsylvania and three other states have what is likey the largest stands of virgin timber left in the eastern United States. If we know how old-growth systems function, then we can better manage the timber that is just now maturing. It takes about 400 years to make an old-growth forest and if we make a mistake it will be another 400 years before it can be fixed."

For those interested in getting a 'Conserve Wild Resources' plate, applications are available at PennDOT photo ID centers, state parks, state police offices and state liquor stores.

The plate costs $35, in addition to regular vehicle registration costs. The Wildlife Resources Conservation Fund gets $15 from the $35 fee and the state Motor License Fund receives $20. Those interested in applying for a wildlife plate should write to: Wildlife Resources Conservation Fund, PO Box 8764, Harrisburg, PA 17105.

Candy-Making Time

Easter candy is available in every shape, size, and taste imaginable to purchase. But, for many families, the best part about Easter candy is making it together. Many families continue annual candy-making traditions.

With today's microwave, thermometers and other time-saving conveniences, candy making is much less a chore than it had been for previous generations.

Just a reminder, using paraffin in chocolate is not recommended. Buy coating chocolate or follow the recipes for making your own.

HONEY MILK BALLS

1 cup oatmeal
1 cup powdered milk
½ cup honey
½ cup crunchy peanut butter

Combine all ingredients. Mix well. Form one-inch balls. Makes about 2½ dozen.

Stephanie Buck

PEANUT BUTTER MELTAWAY EGGS

7-ounce jar marshmallow cream
5 sticks butter
1 pint peanut butter
2 pounds confectioners' sugar

Mix together ingredients. Let set in refrigerator several hours until mixture starts to get hard. Then shape into eggs and place in refrigerator overnight. Dip into chocolate or white meltaway coating. Place in refrigerator until ready to eat.

CHOCOLATE PEPPERMINTS

1 cup semisweet chocolate chips
1 cup milk chocolate chips
¼ teaspoon peppermint extract
½ cup crushed peppermint candy

Line baking sheet with buttered waxed paper; set aside.

Melt both chips in heavy, medium saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly. Stir in peppermint extract.

Spread mixture in rectangle about ¼-inch thick on prepared baking sheet. Sprinkle with candy; press into chocolate. Refrigerate until almost firm.

Cut into squares (squares are easier to cut if chocolate is not firm). Refrigerate until firm before removing from paper.

COCONUT COOKIE NESTS WITH PEANUT BUTTER EGGS

2¼ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, room temperature
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1¼ cups flaked coconut
Peanut Butter Easter Eggs (recipe below)
Candy coated almonds, mini-candy eggs or jelly beans

Combine flour, baking powder, and salt; mix well. Set aside. In large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and vanilla. Add flour mixture; mix well. Cover and refrigerate dough 30 minutes or longer for ease in handling.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Shape dough into 1¼-inch balls; roll in coconut. Place 3 inches apart on lightly buttered cookie sheets. With back of teaspoon, make a deep indentation in center of each cookie. Bake until edges are light golden brown, 13 to 15 minutes. Cool one minute on cookie sheets; remove to wire rack. Cool completely. Store, covered, in airtight container. To serve, arrange Peanut Butter Easter Eggs or other candies in each cookie nest.

Peanut Butter Easter Eggs:

Beat ½ cup peanut butter and 2 tablespoons butter in medium bowl until smooth. Add 2 cups confectioners' sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, and 2 to 3 tablespoons milk; beat well (mixture will be crumbly). Drop by level measuring teaspoonfuls onto baking sheet lined with wax paper; shape into egg shapes. Cover and refrigerate until eggs are set, about 30 minutes.

To decorate, melt 12 ounces (6 squares) chocolate or vanilla flavored almond bark according to package directions. Using spoon or fork, roll eggs (a few at a time) in melted coating to cover completely. Place candies on wax paper. Decorate immediately, as desired, with assorted small candy decorations. Refrigerate until set, about 15 minutes. Store covered, at room temperature. Makes about 5 dozen.

Featured Recipe

The annual Ag Day buffet in Harrisburg's Capitol East-Wing Rotunda orginated about 10 years ago as an agriculture education program of Penn's Agri-Women.

Last week, about 1,000 legislators, staffers, and guests at the Capitol ate at the annual event, which served Pennsylvania-produced food. Featured on the menu were 70 pounds each of ham and cheese, 30 pounds bologna, 25 venison bologna, 4 dozen loaves of assorted breads, 800 tortilla, beef, spinach, and tomato roll-ups, 27 dozen red beet eggs, 6 ounds fresh mushrooms, dozens of marinated mushrooms, trays of fresh vegetalbes and 5 gallons dairy-based dips., four bushels apples, a variety of cakes and pastries, 500 half-pints of white and chocolate milk.

"Absolutely delicious," was the concensus of the crowd. One of their favorites was Tailgate Roll-Ups served by the Beef Council.

Here is the recipe for your enjoyment.

TAILGATE ROLL-UPS

8-ounces cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons milk
1 tablespoon prepared horseradish
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
4 8-inch flour tortillas
½ pound thinly sliced roast beef
2 medium tomatoes, cored and sliced very thin
½ pound fresh spinach, rinsed and well-drained with stems removed

In a small bowl, beat cream cheese until light and fluffy. Stir in milk, horseradish and pepper; mix well. If necessary, add more milk so mixture will spread easily.

Lightly moisten both sides of each tortilla with water. Lay tortillas on a flat surface and spread each with a generous portion of cheese mixture. Layer beef, tomatoes, and spinach evenly over cheese mixture.

Roll up each tortilla, jelly-roll fashion. Wrap each roll in a damp paper towel, then in plastic wrap. Refrigerate up to 4 hours. To serve, cut each roll into 2- to 3-inch pieces.

Makes 4 servings.

The Alphabet Soup of Company Benefits

As my husband and I reviewed our W-2 forms and prepared our 1994 tax returns, we also had a refresher course in what deductions our employers make on our behalf to various programs. How well do you know your company's resources? 401(k)s, EAPs, HMOs, PPOs—the alphabet soup of company benefits can be confusing.

But in order to get the most from his employment, each person should be familiar with his or her company's benefits. Be sure to include benefits available to you and also those available to family members. Things change regularly. Several years ago tax-deferred retirement programs like 401(k)s were only available to people in very large companies. Now companies as small as five employees have options.

According to a survey of over 1,000 major U.S. employers, the most common benefits that companies offer employees are retirement benefits, health-care coverage, paid time off, supportive work and family policies, and death and disability coverage. As "common" as these categories of programs may be, the individual policies in individual companies or organizations vary tremendously.

You have a responsibility to yourself and your family to know what if any insurance coverage, stock options, pre-tax accounts, training, and other resources are at your fingertips. In farm families, these resources may seem small, but many families have coverage through a farmer's association or through a spouse's employment. Even private insurance plans should be reviewed regularly.

The important task is to know what you have currently—not what you had 20 years ago. In you home records, you should have a file on health insurance that contains the policies that your family members are covered under. Often you will receive an update on coverage. Be sure to file this. Write on the folder the phone number where you can get further assistance in understanding the coverage if necessary. This is also a good place to keep paperwork relative to pre-tax payroll deductions and insurance claims.

Another folder should contain basic employment information—job description, contact, resume, handbook, and other benefits information. When did you last read your employee handbook? Does your company even print one? I think I know where mine is ...but I'm not sure. If you don't have a copy, request one from your employer.

You may have other services provided by your company that often go untapped. Does your company offer direct deposit to payroll savings plans? Does it offer a discount to employees on their own products? As an employee, are you allowed to use office meeting space for a community meeting during the evening? Does your organization offer scholarships for family members?

When benefits are introduced, many of us are unimpressed because we don't have a need for the program. Unfortunately, at other times we may be very unpleasantly surprised because we've assumed a procedure is covered by insurance when it is not. It's critical to stay informed. That's why a regular review of information is helpful.

Two other important actions for every employee to take are these: First, ask a lot of questions. Sometimes there are resources for an employee that may not be written down in a formal way. Make notes of the answers given, the date, and the person you spoke to. If you do not receive sufficient information, ask again. Secondly, set aside a special time to share this information with your partner or adult children. Would your partner know if you had a prescription drug program if you don't use medicine on a regular basis? Would he know where the appropriate identification cards are?

You can save yourself money and gain valuable support simply by taking the time to stay informed about your employer's resources and then tapping into them as needed.

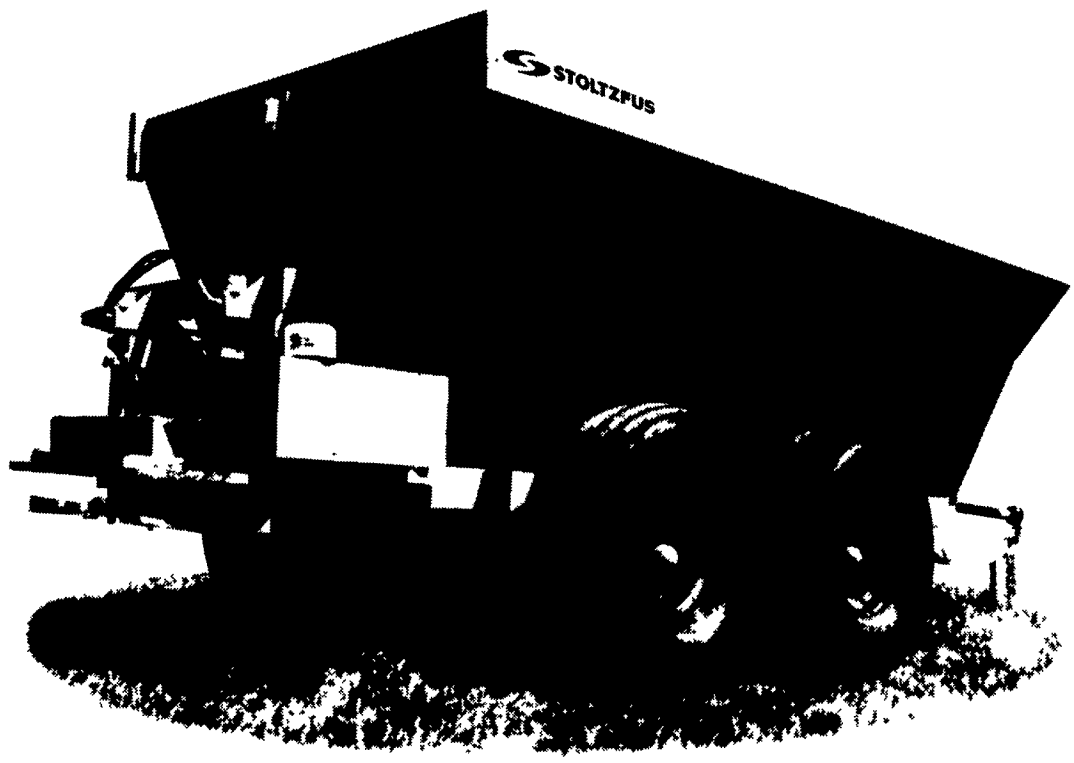
Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.



When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays for itself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

ANSWER — Dot Wibel, Lykens, wanted to know where to obtain citron seed to grow her own citron for seasoning recipes. Thanks to Bessie from Airville who writes an excellent source is Pinetree Garden Seeds, Box 300, New Gloucester, ME 04260 (207) 926-3400.

ANSWER — Janice Weaver, Astoria, Ore., wanted to know where to purchase instant Clear Jel. Does it come in a bottle or can? May she substitute another ingredient for it? Thanks to Leora Petet, Hollsopple, who writes that Clear Jel is a powder that may be purchased from bulk food stores and in some health food stores. It is used to thicken pie fillings and some puddings. Corn starch may be substituted in the same proportion, but Clear Jell doesn't break down or separate when reheated or when frozen or canned. Nor does it weep like corn starch. Leora prefers to use the regular instead of instant Clear Jel. Instant Clear Jell thickens as soon as it is combined with water. Mix dry Clear Jell with sugar before adding water or liquid. Clear Jel is not a fruit pectin and should not be substituted for Sure Jell or Certo.

ANSWER — Donald Love, Somerset, wanted a recipe for soft raisin-filled cookies. Thanks to Gail Moyer, Schuylkill Haven, for sending a recipe.

Soft Raisin-Filled Cookies

5 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup soft shortening
2 cups granulated sugar
2 eggs, unbeaten
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup sour cream

Combine flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt; set aside. In large bowl, beat shortening, sugar, eggs, and vanilla until light and fluffy. Mix in sour cream, then flour mixture — a little at a time. Refrigerate until easy to handle or overnight.

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. On lightly floured surface, roll dough ⅛ -inch thick. Cut with 3-inch round, scalloped or star cutter.

Place layer of cut-outs on ungreased cookie sheet. Add a rounded teaspoon of filling. Keep filling within ⅛ -inch of edge. Place another cut-out on top of filling and press edges together with fingers or floured fork.

Bake 8 to 10 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 4 to 5 dozen.

Raisin filling: Simmer 1½ cups raisins, ⅓ cup water, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch and pinch of salt, stirring until thickened. Cool before filling.

May substitute canned filling: raisin, peach, apple, cherry or blueberry.

ANSWER — Donald Love, Somerset, wanted a recipe for shoo fly cake. Thanks to Sarah Clark, Breezewood, for sending one.

Shoo Fly Cake

4 cups flour
¾ cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar
2 cups boiling water
1 cup molasses
1 tablespoon baking soda

Mix thoroughly the flour, shortening, and sugar. Reserve one cup crumbs for the topping. Add to the remaining crumbs the boiling water, molasses and soda. Mix these ingredients well. Pour the batter into a greased cake pan. Sprinkle the reserved crumbs over the batter. Bake at 350 degrees until it tests done, about 25 to 30 minutes.

ANSWER — Marie Jackson wanted some nourishing recipes and tips for farm women to take to men working in the fields. She wants to know how to keep hot foods hot when transporting them. Here is one recipe from Rita Strite, but we will publish more as we get them.

Hotdog And Egg Sandwich

4 hot dogs
8 hard-boiled eggs
1 tablespoon mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 small onion, chopped
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon pepper
⅔ cup mayonnaise

Chop hot dogs and eggs. Combine the remaining ingredients and add to egg and hot dog mixture. Spread into rolls or bread and wrap each in foil. Lay in bottom of roaster and bake 15 minutes at 400 degrees. Wrap roaster in large towel or newspaper to transport to field.

ANSWER — Linda Wiest, Lykens, wanted to know how to make homemade filled donuts and the method to fill the donuts. Thanks to Cindy Hoffman, Richfield, who writes that her mother made "the best donuts" every year on donut day. She doesn't have her recipe but she remembers how the donuts were filled. Cut out with a round cutter. Use a whoopie pie filling or cooked filling. Slice the donut open halfway and use a spoon or pastry bag to insert filling.

Her mother-in-law also makes filled donuts. She uses a small stainless-steel feed bin (holds about one gallon filling). It has a handle to push down and the filling comes out of a long thin metal tube in the bottom of the bin. She doesn't know the brand name or where she bought it.

Candy

CHOCOLATE BONBONS

3¾ cups confectioners' sugar
¾ cup sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup butter, softened
1½ cups flaked coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon coconut extract
1 cup milk chocolate chips
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, chopped
1 tablespoon shortening

Line baking sheet with waxed paper; set aside.

Combine sugar, condensed milk, butter, coconut, vanilla, and coconut extract in a bowl.

Shape scant 1 tablespoonful of the mixture into 1-inch balls; place on prepared baking sheet. Refrigerate 30 minutes.

Melt chips and chocolate with shortening in top of double boiler over hot, not boiling water, stirring occasionally. Cool slightly.

Dip bonbons, using dipping fork or wooden skewer, in chocolate to cover. Remove excess chocolate by scraping bottom of bonbons across rim of pan. Return to prepared baking sheet. Reheat chocolate over hot water if it gets too thick. Refrigerate until set, about 30 minutes.

Store in refrigerator. Makes about 36 bonbons.

SIMPLE MOLDED CANDY

12 ounces confectioners' coating
Food coloring (optional)

Melt confectioners' coating in bowl over hot, not boiling water, stirring constantly. Add food coloring, a few drops at a time, until desired color is obtained.

Spoon into molds. Tap molds on countertops to remove bubbles. Refrigerate until firm. Bring to room temperature before unmolding to avoid cracking molds.

Makes about 24 candies.

Hint: To make two-tone candies, choose molds with sections to allow for layering. Melt coating as directed. Spoon first layer of coating into molds; tap second layer into molds. Proceed as directed above.

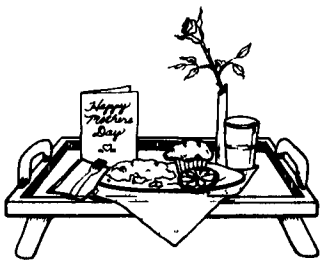
CHOCOLATE TRUFFLES

6 tablespoons butter
½ cup heavy or whipping cream
¼ cup light corn syrup
6 squares semisweet chocolate
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 tablespoon brandy extract
Unsweetened cocoa
Confectioners' sugar
Finely chopped nuts

In one-quart saucepan combine butter, cream, and corn syrup. Stirring frequently, bring to boil over medium heat. Remove from heat. Add chocolate; stir until completely melted. Stir in brandy. Pour into shallow baking pan. Cover; refrigerate about 3 hours or until firm.

Shape heaping teaspoonfuls of chocolate mixture into 1-inch balls. Roll in cocoa, confectioners' sugar or chopped nuts. Store in tightly covered container in refrigerator.

Makes about 4½ dozen truffles.



Students Operate Greenhouse

LORETTA GOLDEN
Cambria Co. Correspondent

EBENSBURG (Cambria Co.)—Spring is a busy season for any greenhouse or floral business and this is no exception at Admiral Peary Vocational-Technical School in Ebensburg. The horticulture classes here are in the midst of their Easter project, preparing spring bedding plants, and getting ready for Mother's Day (their busiest day of the year). Currently there are thousands of plants in the greenhouse.

Under the direction of instructor Clay Shriver, students learn theory and have "hands-on" instruction in floral design, greenhouse, and landscaping. The school day is designed as one half day at the "home" school and one half day at the Vo-Tech. There are currently 35 students from seven "sending" school districts as well as a few full-time adult students enrolled in the horticulture program. The adult students are there through a program known as TRA which allows for retraining of workers who have lost their jobs due to foreign imports. Two of these students are former workers in the garment industry.

Admiral Peary has recently undergone extensive renovations, some of which have benefitted the horticulture department. Greenhouse space was approximately doubled, and new retail and work area was added.

The Easter plant project was begun in October. Bulbs for hyacinths, tulips, daffodils, and other plants were potted and placed into cold storage. Lilies were planted right after Christmas. All of the work is done by the students.

During the next week, some of the Easter plants will be repotted and "dressed-up" with foil and bows. All of the marketing is done by the students with advertising being primarily by "word-of-mouth." The intent is not to compete with local florists but to give the students concrete experience in all aspects of the business. All proceeds from the sales of the Easter plants are put back into the "business."

Shriver pointed out that there is total automation of watering in the greenhouse but this is primarily only used on weekends. The reason for this is so that each student understands the proper method of hand watering. Fertilization methods are also taught.

Adult student Caroline Vasas of Mundys Corner enjoys the course. She explains that she has had a small greenhouse at home for many years but even at her age there is always something new to learn. She's learned about different fertilization and watering methods, "pinching" plants, different techniques for making cut-

Chicken Lays Incredible Eggs

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Adam Huegal gathers eggs every day from the family's flock of 23 chickens. He's accustomed to gathering extra large eggs, but recently he was flabbergasted when he found an egg in the nest that was larger than a goose egg.

Two days later, he found another huge egg. Two days after that, another one showed up in the nest.

That day a chicken died and since then, Adam hasn't found another egg that matches that size.

He suspects laying such large eggs caused the chicken to "floop the coop."

When Adam's mother Shirley cracked one of the eggs to use in baking, she was in for another surprise. Inside the egg shell was a perfectly formed egg plus another perfectly-shaped whole egg — shell intact. She cracked open the second hugh egg, and found an identical situation.

"I've been raising chickens for 27 years and I never saw anything like it," she said.

Neither have the people she contacted.

The Huegals weighed the egg found inside the egg and found that it went higher than the scale's measurements.

Although the Huegals don't know how much the eggs weigh, Shirley measured them and found they are 7¾ x9¾ inches.

The chicken that laid these amazing eggs was from a flock called Red Sexlinks, known for being good layers, and the same breed that the Huegals always raise. The company that sells the breed wasn't aware of such large eggs being laid before.

Although Shirley did find a triple yoker on occasion, she can't figure out why the chicken laid such large eggs three times in a row. The chickens are fed laying mash with some chop added.

"Because chickens will eat anything, we also throw our garbage to them," Shirley said.

Maybe it was nutritional garbage.

The Huegals also raise geese in the meadow, but those eggs are white. The chicken eggs are brown and the chickens are penned in a shed. So it couldn't be a relocated goose egg.

In addition to chickens, Adam helps his dad Ed take care of 60 rabbits, 14 geese, four lambs, two steers, 12 turkeys, and a constantly exploding population of guinea pigs that his mom raises to sell.

About 5 to 10 bunnies are usually born to the rabbits, but one time, 16 bunnies were born from one mother rabbit.

Generally the offspring are sold, but occasionally Adam or his mother find one that is particularly endearing and they refuse to part with it.

That was the case of Red Ryder, born as a runt two years ago. The male rabbit is so huge now that one would never suspect it was once a runt.

Shirley said that she was raised on a farm, but it's her husband, formerly from the city, who most enjoys raising animals on the family's two acres.

The parents think it is good training for kids to have chores and animals to attend to every day.

Adam wrinkles his nose at that statment because he prefers to play baseball, soccer, and football. Everyday he rushes through his chores and heads for the neighboring Amish farm.

"They have 12 kids, and they're better at baseball than the kids at school," Adam said.

It isn't that Adam doesn't like the animals. He does, when he doesn't have other things to do. But he doesn't like cleaning out pens on Saturday.

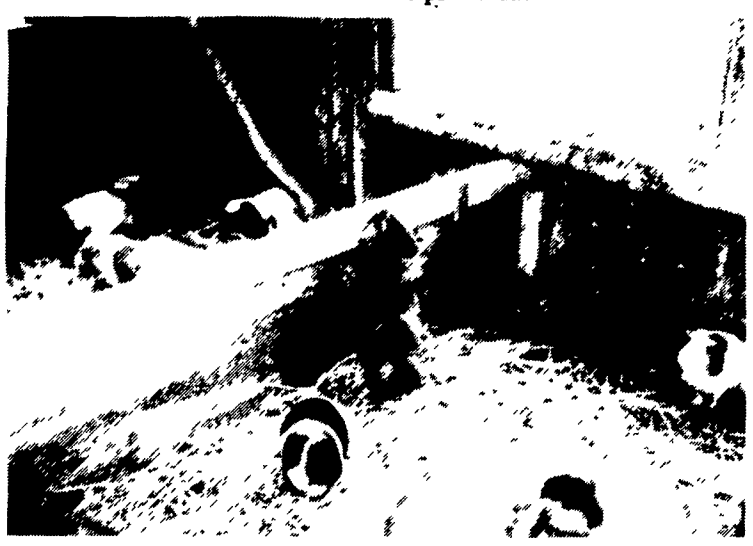
Adam's favorite subject as a fifth grader at Fritz Elementary School is math. He plans to be a banker.

Every week the family goes to Green Dragon, a farmers' market. While his dad watches the auction and his mother "goes everywhere," Adam buys and trades baseball, basketball, and football cards. He has 1,000 baseball cards.

Adam isn't sure what he will do with the one remaining egg. But he's been checking the "Guinness Book of Records" and found that the largest egg ever recorded had nine yolks.

Imagine!

Amazing! Adam compares an extra-large size egg on the right with one of the huge eggs one his chickens laid.



Can you identify Butterscotch, Skunk, Cocoa, Milky Way, Reeses, Holstein, and Mud.

For the first time in almost 30 years of raising chickens, the Huegals found eggs that contained a perfectly formed egg within an egg in addition to a yolk and white.

Kids: Surprise Your Family!

Kids, surprise your mother, father, grandma or grandpa, by sending us a little write up about them. If you have a photo, please include one with the story. If you prefer to draw a picture, you may include that also.

You Ask You Answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know whom to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

QUESTION — Tim Paulus, Pittstown, N.J., has an old wooden-box Oliver single-disk grain drill. Where can he find replacement disk and bearing assemblies #B1824A and left and right shoes?

QUESTION — A "regular" reader wants to know where to buy extra strong flat webbing for lawn chairs.

ANSWER — Shirley Jean Ash, Bridgeport, W.V., wanted to know if strawberries may be canned in a light syrup like other fruit. Thanks to Leora Petet, Hollsopple, and to Rachel Lapp, Lebanon, who sent recipes for canning strawberries.

Canned Strawberries

1 heaping quart berries
1 cup sugar
½ cup water
Boil mixture 5 minutes. Add:
1 tablespoon Clear Jell mixed in a little water. Bring to a boil. Pour into quart jars. Can and seal.

Three Quarts Canned Strawberries

3 quart boxes hulled and washed strawberries
2 cups sugar mixed with
4 tablespoons Clear Jell
Add sugar mixture to crushed or sliced strawberries. Mix well. Fill quart jarts. Fasten lids. Boil 10 minutes in boiling water bath. Let set in kettle 10 more minutes before removing jars.

ANSWER — Ressa Owens, Beech Creek, wanted recipes for making and keeping baby food. Thanks to Brenda Breisch, Bloomsburg, for sending these recipes that she received through this column previously. To store baby foods, Brenda finds it best to freeze in small containers. Ball makes ½ -pint canning jars that work in the freezer. You many use clean sterilized used baby food jars. One reader suggested freezing it in ice cube trays.

Meats For Baby

½ cubed cooked meat
Dash salt
2 tablespoons formula
Put all ingredients into blender. Process on low until smooth. Makes one serving. To test for smoothness, put a small amount between your fingers and rub together. You should not feel any large particles.

Vegetables For Baby

½ cup freshly cooked vegetables
2 tablespoons formula
Dash salt
Put all in blender. Process on low until smooth.

Fruits For Baby

¾ cup freshly cooked fruit
½ teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoons liquid from fruit
Put all in blender. Process on low until smooth.

How To Know You Are Growing Old

Everything hurts, and what doesn't hurt doesn't work.
The gleam in your eye is from the sun hitting your bifocals.
You feel like the morning after and you haven't been anywhere.
Your little black book contains only names ending in M.D.
You get winded playing cards.
You join a health club and don't go.
You know all the answers, but nobody asks you the questions.
You look forward to a dull evening.
You need glasses to find your glasses.
You turn out the lights for economic reasons rather than romantic ones.
You sit in a rocking chair and can't get it going.
Your knees buckle but your belt won't.
Your back goes out more than you do.
You have too much room in the house and not enough in the medicine chest.
You sink your teeth in a steak and they stay there.
YOU WONDER WHY MORE PEOPLE DON'T USE THIS SIZE PRINT.

MY GET UP AND GO

How do I know my youth is all spent?
Well, my get-up-and-go just got up and went,
But in spite of it all, I'm able to grin,
When I think of where my get-up has been.

Old age is golden, so I've heart it said,
But sometimes I wonder as I get into bed,
With my ears in a drawer, my teeth in a cup,
My eyes on the table until I wake up.

Ere sleep dims my eyes — I say to myself,
"Is there anything else should have laid on the shelf?"
But I am happy to say as I close my door,
My friends are the same, perhaps even more.

When I was young, my slippers were red,
And I could kick my heels right over my head;
When I grew older, my slippers were blue,
And I could dance the whole night through.

Now, I am old, my slippers are black;
I walk to the corner and then I walk back.
The reason I know my youth is all spent,
Is my get-up-and-go just got up and went.

But I really don't mind when I think with a grin
Of all the places my get-up has been.
Since I've retired from life's competition, I busy myself with complete repetition.

I get up each morning, dust off my wits,
Pick up the paper and read the obits,
If my name is missing, I know I'm not dead,
So I eat a good breakfast and go back to bed.

Mrs. Helen Mary Beavers

ANSWER — Vernon Bryant wanted a formula for old-fashioned whitewash or a new one that will last and look really good. Thanks to M.V.Runklers III, Parkton, Md., who writes that he has log and stone outbuildings that he whitewashes on a regular basis. He uses autoclaved lime (the lime that plasterers use for the the white coat) as it has less stones and other impurities in it. He mixes it with milk instead of water. He puts it on with a 4 or 5 inch horsehair brush and finds that two thin coats lasts longer than one thick coat.

Thanks also to Carol Pretz, Middleburg, who found this whitewash in a very old book, which stated that it makes very good whitewash that is permanent: ½ bushel lime soaked with boiling skim milk, 3 quarts salt.

For inside walls, dissolve one pound white glue in water.

Sweet Surprises Found At The Country Confectioner

LOU ANN GOOD

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — What does an outhouse, a pacifier, and a deviled egg have in common?

If you see those items at The Country Confectioner in Manheim — they're chocolate.

These realistic items with hundreds of other surprises are made at a unique little candy shop situated along a winding mountain road.

According to proprietors Darlene and Les Stauffer, they make custom candy for any and every occasion.

While they offer a full line of traditional chocolate candy, it's unusual pieces that catch most customers' eyes.

Indeed, many of the items appear to be real toys rather than edible goodies.

A boxed tool set that looks just like the toy tool sets and a toy cosmetic kit with it's hair brush and comb are completely edible.

Many of the pieces appear too delightful to eat. But those who taste the candy become faithful customers of The Country Confectioner.

The Stauffers have developed several unique combination candies such as "avanlanche" in white or brown chocolate and "mint bark."

The Stauffers began their candy making business three years ago when Les was laid off from his job he held for 18 years as a painter and paperhanger.

Darlene had previously taken a one-hour candy-making class and liked dabbling in candy making for fun.

His reaction was "This is fun. Maybe we can sell this."

The couple started by taking orders from friends and acquaintances.

For the first few months they cooked, stirred, and formed batches of chocolate in the kitchen.

"After that first Easter, I knew we must get out of the house," Les said.

The couple remodeled an attached summer kitchen and shed. The light airy rooms now offer plenty of space for making and displaying the candy.

The couple has about 2,000 molds but enjoy mixing and combining the molds to come up with unique designs.

Some pieces such as the outhouse that is made in 13 different parts, must be pieced together.

Les said that his previous job experience comes in handy when he paints chocolate.

"I don't really like to use the word 'paint,' because people think, what in the world do you do to the chocolate?" Les said.

Basically what Les does is color white chocolate to imitate the colors found in the original item.

The couple has no set schedule other than for store hours.

"We do whatever needs to be done at the time," Darlene said.

Before Easter the Stauffers geared up intensely to build up stock by making candy 12 to 15 hours a day.

"I think it is easier hanging paper than doing all that needs to be done to keep the business going," Les said. "It's a big challenge — especially the paper work."

It's also a challenge to figure out how much to make of each variety. Some items that the Stauffers expect to be good sellers are not, and some that they don't expect take off.

Sometimes it's a matter of eye appeal. Occasionally a slow-moving item will take off when the color is changed.

In addition to the usual assortment of chocolates, rabbits, crosses, and eggs, items available are lollipops shaped in every imaginable form from flowers and clowns to fudgesicles and cows. Novelty chocolates are found molded into shapes such as tooth brushes, carrots, trucks, tractors, paint brushes, chickens, tic-tac-toe games. . . .

An assortment of realistic fruit that the couple arranges into fruit baskets is available in candy form.

The couple have two children, 7 and 8 years old. The children's candy eating is closely supervised.

Les said, "Sometimes I sneak them a piece of sugar-free candy and they are perfectly content."

Primarily, Darlene takes care of the selling. That's her duty, she explained, "because customers seem to feel more comfortable buying candy from a woman, and besides I'm a people person."

Her husband does most of the packaging and labeling and "he's great with laying out displays," Darlene said.

During candy holidays such as Valentine's Day, Christmas, and Easter, the Stauffers also sell from a cart at Park City in Lancaster.

Darlene does most of the candy making but her husband needs to take care of it when she works at the Park City location.

Sometimes, candy-making becomes a bit sticky. Les, who is always looking for shortcuts, confessed that one time he tried to make a double batch of their "famous peanut butter brickle," but he did not calculate the proper measurements. The peanut butter brickle never hardened and he had to discard 16 pounds of it.

The Country Confectioner is open year-around at their home store located at 1972 Mountain Rd., Manheim. September through May store hours are Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., and by appointment. Telephone number is (717) 664-4796.

A cart filled with products from The Country Confectioner is located in the Sears Mall at Park City. The cart is manned during Park City's hours but the Stauffers only have the cart opened for one month during the Easter, Christmas, and Valentine seasons.

A hobby turned into business for Darlene who enjoys making chocolate in unique shapes such as cows, tractors, outhouses, pacifiers, and tennis racquets.

Husband And Wife Demonstrate Historical Crafts

Bavarian Folk Art By Elsa

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Elsa Huber lives smack in the middle of Pennsylvania Dutch country, between Schaefferstown and Myerstown.

In her country home she has an art studio where she has revived an old-style Pennsylvania Dutch art called Bavarian Folk Art.

According to Elsa, this type of painting originated in the Alpine regions of Germany, Switzerland, and Austria during the 1700s.

"The bright, colorful flowers that are characteristic of this folk art are formed from a single stroke. Every stroke is actually a comma painted in a variety of positions, including an inverted S-stroke.

"If you can master the strokes in different positions, you can paint Bavarian Folk Art," Elsa said of the fancy, colorful painting.

"This type of painting was developed by peasants in Europe and is known for its inspiration rather than artistic ability," Elsa said.

The painting was found most often on soft wood pieces such as pine furniture. This helped to preserve the soft wood.

Many fine pieces were decorated in this style, although some pieces were quite crude-looking because the furniture makers lacked artistic painting ability.

Some of the more elaborate pieces included flowers, scrolls, and birds.

These designs are popular today on blanket chests, chairs, tinware, and wooden boxes.

Elsa said her own interest in the art was kindled while living in Germany with her husband John Huber in 1980.

After she married, her husband gave her some oil paints. Later, he encouraged her to take a class in Bavarian Folk Art.

"I signed up for the class just to please my husband," Elsa said. "But when I saw the paints and the designs, I was so excited."

Elsa discovered she had a knack for painting flowers and birds with the brightly colored paints.

During the couple's seven years in Germany, Elsa perfected her skill in Bavarian Folk Art.

At first, Elsa practiced pages and pages of basic strokes. Later she traced some patterns, but now she paints freehand.

When the couple returned to Pennsylvania, Elsa noticed that most Americans preferred softer colors rather than the bold colors used in true Bavarian Folk Art.

To please American tastes, Elsa adapted her color schemes when making gifts for the family.

About five years ago, someone asked Elsa to participate in a craft show. Her inventory sold out within a short period of time.

People praised her work profusely and after that, many people stopped by her home to buy things.

Their encouragement resulted in her showing her work at more craft shows.

Although she paints on almost any surface, she prefers to paint on old things.

"The art is so old, I think an old piece complements it," she said.

Some favorite surfaces for the folksy art are milk cans, pie tins, cheese boxes, coal buckets, irons, wooden spoons, and cast iron pieces.

Elsa's artistic interest was evident as a child when she begged her grandmother to teach her to crochet and sew.

When Elsa was 16 years old, she painted an outdoor scene. Her mother and other family members said it was "so beautiful." Then her mother's cousin, an artist, stopped by. When he saw Elsa's painting, he said it was too pretty.

Crushed, Elsa did not paint again for many years.

"Now, I understand what he meant. It needed depth and work. It was too fakey looking," Elsa said.

The folksy look of Bavarian folk art suits Elsa just fine.

Her work is available at her home studio called Bavarian Folk Art by Elsa, R.D.#2, Box 433L. Myerstown, PA 17067 or call (717) 866-6152.

Elsa demonstrates the strokes needed to perfect the painting style of Bavarian Folk Art.

Huberhaus Pottery Offers Traditional Redware

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — "A Dutchman is always on the go. He gotta stay busy," said John Huber of his reason for taking up a new line of work after his retirement from the army as a lieutenant colonel.

In fact, it wasn't until his retirement that John discovered he had an artistic bent to carry on the tradition of his forefathers — making redware pottery.

"I don't know if it's in my blood or if I picked up an artistic inclination from watching my uncle, the late Charles Huber," Huber said of his ability to deftly form bowls, pots, cups, and other pieces on the pottery wheel.

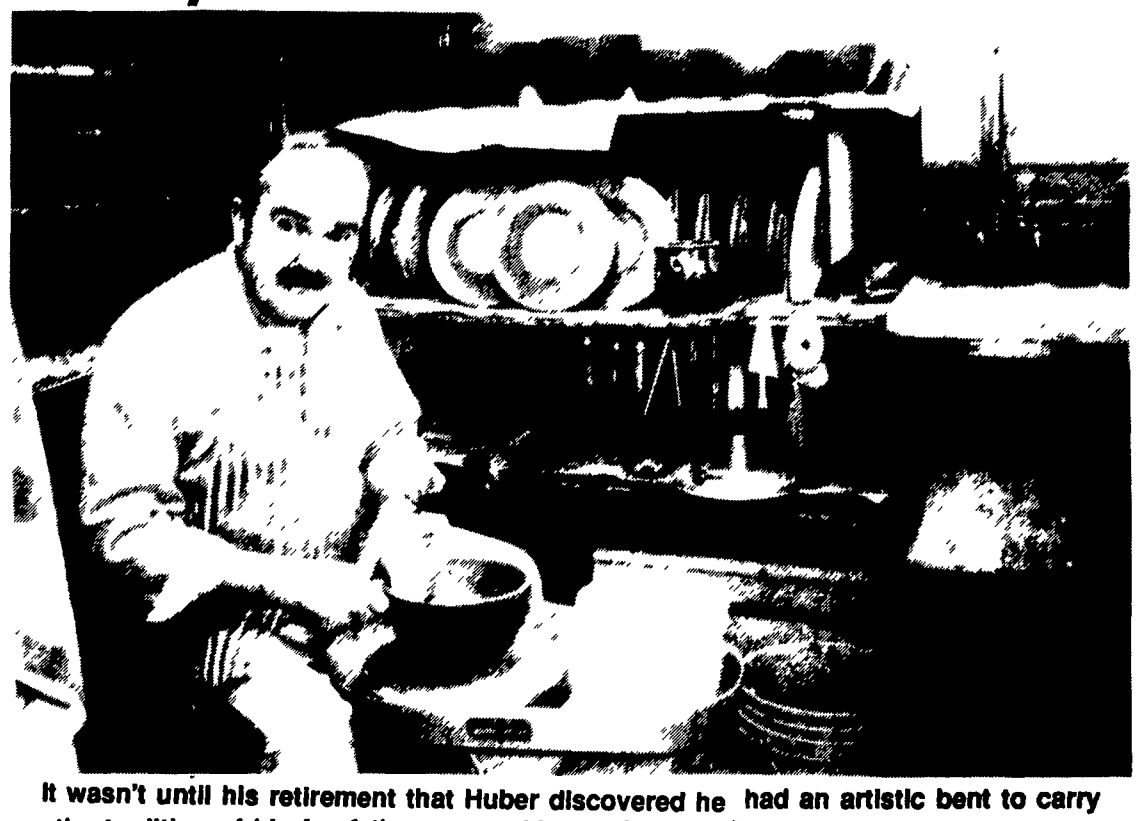
Huber is proud that he can trace potters in his lineage back to the Revolutionary War and beyond that to Stephen Huber from Burgsalach, Germany.

Redware pottery dates back to America's colonial period and is one of the earliest forms of pottery to be produced in the colonies.

"In the early days, redware pottery was the primary type of bowl used in the area," Huber said.

Red clay was predominate in the riverbeds of eastern Pennsylvania. Usually each settlement had a potter who provided various sizes of plates, mugs, jugs, bowls, candlestickes, roof tiles, pipes and even toys for the early German settlers.

Redware pottery was simple, functional, and is often referred to as utilitarian pottery because it was used daily by the colonists. Old redware pottery was glazed only when necessary and simply decorated, if at all.



It wasn't until his retirement that Huber discovered he had an artistic bent to carry on the tradition of his forefathers — making redware pottery.

The problem with redware is that it is very porous and chips and breaks. As travel became more advanced, potters were able to accumulate clay along the coast, which produces a higher quality product that is harder and less able to chip.

For this reason, potters stopped making redware in quantity about the mid 1800s.

"Being Pennsylvania Dutch says a lot. We're unique, from the values we picked up to the work ethic," said Huber, who was raised in Schaefferstown until he was in 10th grade. His family then moved to Florida.

"My Pennsylvania Dutch accent was so thick you could cut it with a knife. That wasn't very popular among my schoolmates in the South. I tried desparately to get rid of it," Huber said without a trace of the accent.

Then he lapsed into an accent so thick and heavy, evidence of his Schaefferstown heritage as he said, "But if you are Pennsylvania Dutch, no matter where you go, you can always turn it back on, no matter what."

Sometimes when Huber demonstrates redware pottery making, he dresses in historical garb and talks Pennsylvania Dutch in his most authentic accent.

Huber said that during his Army travels around the world, he longed for Pennsylvania. "I guess I got a case of terminal roots," he said.

(Turn to Page B17)

It took some conjuring to convince his Panama-born wife to move into the area, but she now loves the area as much as he does.

When he returned to the area, he had no intentions of becoming a potter. However, his Uncle Charles Huber, who was the local historian and who had painstakingly developed a unique, traditional approach to redware pottery, asked him to buy his business.

"I seemed to have an inclination for doing it. I liked doing it and I liked the rustic redware style that's my uncle's trademark," said Huber, who purchased his uncle's business in 1991.

According to Huber, each potter has a certain style or technique that identifies his pottery.

Huber said that his own style is similar to his uncle's but as the years go by, his own style is becoming more prevalent.

"Our style" is utilitarian pottery that serves function — it's made to be used. It's more than "just for nice," Huber said as he fingered a pie plate. The redware has a doily imprint in it — a trademark carryover from his uncle.

He does some sponge painting on redware, popular today and also centuries earlier. Almost every size of pie plates, bowl, jug, crock, cup, pot, pitcher, candlestick, dog dish, bird house, and serving dish is part of Huber's stock. What he doesn't have, he will custom-make.

The Hubers like to search for original redware. Most pottery is unmarked. Because the early potters were often in a hurry, they seldom cleaned off the bottom of the clay pot and fingerprints are often evident.

Although most pottery was not decorated, slip trailing was sometimes used on plates and then glazed. The clear glaze turned yellow after firing.

A few pieces show elaborate designs and have humorous sayings slip-trailed on them. One saying written in German is used occasionally by Huber that translated, reads: "I cook what I can. What my pig doesn't eat, my husband will."

Some potters dated the pottery and some even wrote comments on the pottery, such as "It's a sunny day today," or, "I saw my first robin."

The most stirring comment that Huber found on a piece of dated pottery made by a potter named Stahl read: Nazis invade Poland."

Comments such as that increase the value of the historical piece.

Huber occasionally inscribes a message on the bottom of his redware.

In the Huber's backyard is a pottery shed where he does all the work.

After the pottery is formed on the wheel, it is fired in a kiln at 1,900 to 2,000 degrees.

"Other clays take higher temperatures, but redware will melt if fired at a higher temperature," Huber said.

Redware pottery is dishwasher, microwave, and oven safe.

In the colonial period, potters often had dual occupations, such as farming and pottery making. Throughout the winter, they worked on their pottery. A few pieces were made in advance but most were special orders from settlers' wives who had broken a crock or bowl and needed a replacement or for additional kitchen ware.

The colonists often needed to wait several months until the potter had enough pieces to fill a walk-in, beehive kiln. It was a slow process that took three days to start a fire and reach the high temperature. When the fire reached the right temperature, it sounded like a train whistle.

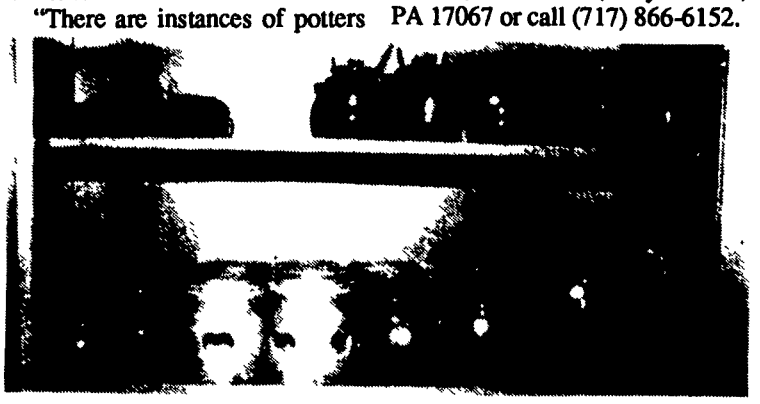
"There are instances of potters being killed from exploding kilns," Huber said.

If it is not glazed, the redware pottery may be stacked for the firing process.

Huber doesn't gather his own clay at the riverbanks like his ancestors did. Instead, he orders processed clay from a Pittsburgh source.

In addition to demonstrating at historic shows, Huber teaches pottery at schools and holds classes for students during summer months.

Huberhaus Pottery is located at R.D.#2, Box 433L, Myerstown, PA 17067 or call (717) 866-6152.



The shelves are filled with redware ready to be transported to a show. According to Huber, "Redware pottery pie plates make the best pie because the crust is nice and flaky."

tings and how to properly use insecticides. Her granddaughter is getting married soon and Caroline proudly points out that she will be doing all of the flowers for the wedding.

Most of the students really enjoy the floral design part of the course. On display were quite a few silk flower arrangements, wreaths, and swags for spring. These were set up in the retail section of the shop. Senior students are in charge of the retail section and must learn to handle the interruptions in their work to take care of customers. Shriver explains that this is an ideal situation for marketing. While sometimes the interruptions can be annoying during a theory presentation or work period the students learn that this is how business operates. There are "rush" orders and "special" orders and the students have to meet deadlines.

Because of the retail business, bows are continually made during the school year. These can be quickly added to a plant, wreath, or corsage. These will also be used for the prom flowers that the students do for fellow students. Again, all proceeds from sales is put back into the "business."

Freeze-dried flowers are used in a few of the arrangements on display. Admiral Peary was fortunate to acquire the piece of equipment used to do this. Shriver explains that it acts as a vacuum to take the moisture out of the flowers. The end result is dried flowers which can be used for a variety of things. Not many florists have this equipment available to them so the students are learning to work with a fairly new echnology. One service offered by florists who do have this dryer is to freeze-dry wedding bouquets.

Adult student, Caroline Vasas, in the retail shop, proudly displaying a wreath which she has made. This is a "kitchen wreath" and even has wooden spoons on it!

Landscaping is also a part of the course and the practical "hands-on" experience comes from doing the landscaping on the Admiral Peary grounds. They are also in the process of honoring a request from the adjacent Central Cambria buildings to help them come up with a plan for Earth Day.

The Admiral Peary Vo-Tech is affiliated with VICA and students in the horticulture classes are looking forward to VICA competition. They compete in the areas of theory as well as practical application problems.

PA Beef Backer Program

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—The Pennsylvania Beef Council is accepting entries for the eighth annual "Beef Backer" Award program. The Beef Backer Award program, established in 1987, honors restaurants and their distributors/purveyors, on a national and state level who exhibit leadership in beef menuing and merchandising.

"Perhaps it's your favorite neighborhood restaurant that fixes up pot roast like mom used to make. Or maybe it's your favorite steakhouse that delivers mouthwatering steaks to your table.

Restaurants are judged on how they incorporate beef into current menu trends, market/promote beef to their customers and show evidence of beef dominance on the menu. If you have a restaurant in mind, contact the Pennsylvania Beef Council with your recommendation. Call (717) 545-6000.

ANSWER — Brenda Fouts wanted to know how to remove baked-on grease from an electric frying pan. Thanks to Carol Pretz, Middleburg, who writes that Sokoff, which may be purchased at a hardware store works great.

ANSWER — Carl Humer, Dover, wanted to know how to remove multiflower rose that is choking out a meadow. Thanks to Hazel Spamer, Baltimore, Md., who writes that her huband guarantees that if you use a bulldozer and push them out, that will kill them. You do not need to have the blade in deep.

Tim Paulus, Pittstown, N.J., and another reader said they remove it by cutting it off and piling it up. When new shoots appear in the spring, spray with Roundup, a grass and weed killer, or spray without cutting it off. Either way Roundup will eventually kill it, but it's a long, hard problem to allieviate. Follow directions carefully especially if farm animals are involved.

Another reader cautions that multiflower rose provides a natural cover for wildlife so be careful how you remove the weed.

ANSWER — Mary Ann Reich, Beaver Springs, wanted to know why bread doesn't turn out as well for her in an electric oven as it does in a gas oven. Thanks to M.V.Runklers III, who writes that with a gas, coal or wood stove one of the products of combustion is water vapor that increases the humidity inside your oven. To get good bread, one needs a moist oven. With an electric oven, there is no combustion and you therefore have a very dry oven. Even cakes will be less moist in an electric oven.

Cumberland 4-H Sheep

The second meeting of the Cumberland County 4-H Condoquinet Sheep Club was held on March 15 at the Witter's home.

The president, Wendy Holtry, called the meeting to order. Zach Reed led the Pledge to the Flag and John Witter led the 4-H Pledge.

Hocker passed out the copies of the by-laws and roundup rules. Mrs. Witter passed out the benefit auction packets and gave instructions on completing the forms.

A committee was formed to plan the June 10 Sheep Clinic Workshop. The club voted to purchase T-shirts for all members.

Two members joined the club this year. Their names are Natalie Lobo and Greg Ellerman. The club also has another leader this year, Mrs. Ethel Myers.

The next meeting is set for April 19 at 7:30 p.m. at Mr. Hocker's home.

The March meeting of the Cumberland County 4-H Livestock Club was held at 7:30 p.m. at the West Pennsboro Fire Hall on March 13.

The meeting began with a workshop that required the 4-H'ers to identify the different body parts of goats, sheep, steers, and swine. At 8:30 p.m., the business meeting was called to order by President Michelle Comman.

The 4-H pledge was led by Rick Foreman and the Pledge of Allegiance by Lucas Nailor. At 9:05 p.m. the meeting was adjourned. Refreshments were served by Suzie Lieb. Newspapers and food were collected for a community service project.

Lancaster County 4-H Swine Club

The Lancaster County 4-H Swine Club will be meeting April 13 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster.

There will be a movie shown called "Questioning of Ethics," and there will also be a business meeting.

If you would like to raise hogs as a project, it is not too late to sign up for this year's show season. Anyone who is eight years old as of January 1, 1995 is welcome to join our club.

For more information, call the Farm and Home Center, at (717) 394-6851, and ask for Chester Hughes.

Broken Bit 4-H

The Broken Bit 4-H Horse and Pony Club met on March 16 at the Mt. Airy Fire Hall. Fifteen members and three leaders were present.

The 1995 teen leaders will be Kristy Frybarger, Samara Shuster-Edelson, Jodell Stahl, Lisa Pannabecker, and Heather Moyer.

The club is planning a driving clinic, showmanship clinics, and a trip to Penn National.

The April meeting will be on the 20th at 7 p.m. at the Mt. Airy Fire Hall. Tammy Long will be doing a first-aid clinic and demonstration for the kids. Tammy works for Edelson and Thaler Equine Associates, who are donating some of the materials for the first aid kits.

For more information about our club and club activities, contact Helen Farrington, (717) 626-7258.

Bucks County 4-H Goat Club

This year the Bucks County 4-H Goat Club has been reorganized. This includes officers, special programs at each meeting, and a new leader who judges goats and has his own goat farm, Dan Torrison. The club has 24 members enrolled and is still growing.

Our club includes dairy goats: Nubians, Togenburgs, Alpines, and Sanens; fiber goats: Cashmeres and Angoras.

If anyone is interested in this program, please contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension, Bucks County, at (215) 345-3283 and ask for Marian Eurich.

Bucks County 4-H Youth Honored

Bucks County 4-H members were recently honored at the 79th Annual Meeting of the Penn State Cooperative Extension, Bucks County.

The members received recognition for outstanding record keeping in their various 4-H livestock project areas, including sheep, goats, dairy, swine, rabbits and cavies.

The awards were sponsored and presented by the Keystone Farm Credit Association of Silverdale for junior members 13 years and younger and for senior members 14 years and older.

Extra Special Puppy Club

The Extra Special Puppy Club had a regular meeting. Mrs. St. Clair had refreshments.

On March 10, Mrs. Fierer from the Susquehanna Service dogs came and gave a demonstration of how they train their dogs (services they provide for the handicapped.)

On March 20, a few club members went to Harding Elementary School to do a demonstration for the 1st graders. Every child was interested, but mainly just wanted to pet the dogs. They listened very well and had a lot of questions.

Club meeting is on April 20. The club also is going to the Harrisburg Airport April 22 at 10 a.m.

Clover Bunch 4-H Prep Club

At the last meeting of the Clover Bunch 4-H Prep Club, the Finelli family of Sergeantsville, N.J. brought in all types of horse equipment to show to the club. The club learned parts of the saddle, bridle, and even how to put it on the horse. The group also learned why this equipment is needed on the horse. Afterward, the club divided into groups and had a contest to see who could put a bridle together.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Ida's Notebook

Long ago when I worked in an office with all male employees, I listened to a lot of stories about hunting and fishing. So it seemed natural that I would follow suit and buy a rod and reel at the local hardware store. I still have the original receipt for $3.14 for the whole outfit. I also borrowed my father's rifle and went hunting. Now, I too had stories to share.

One time while I sat on the bank of the Conestoga River, at that time it was called a "creek," a weasel came running along and ran over my legs as I sat very quietly. Another time I threw my line in the water and immediately had two nice-sized catfish. Now that was a pleasant surprise.

I was also lucky enough to line up two cockbirds in our garden and shoot both with one bullet from the 22 rifle. For many years I went deer hunting with my husband but never managed to get one, although I missed a few.

Now my husband has become interested in fishing, too and often plans trips when I have other work, but I go along. Our last trip was to Cowans Gap in Fulton County. One problem was the fact that the sun never came out and the wind really blew. So, it was quite cold and the 14 men that I saw fishing around the lake did not appear to be catching any fish—neither did we. So we drove to Caledonia State Park to eat the lunch that I had packed.

On the way we stopped to see James Buchanan's birthplace. It is marked with a triangular stone monument that states his birth in 1791 and his death in 1868. It is in an isolated and wooded area and it is difficult to realize the heights to which he climbed.

We even tried fishing at Laurel Lake. Here, too, we only got very cold as we watched the wild geese.

Raised Garden Beds Offer Advantages

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Looking for a better way to grow vegetables this year? Consider installing a raised bed. The advantages far outweigh the initial investment of time and money, says a Penn State specialist.

Raised beds are easier to maintain and promote better plant growth.

To install a raised bed, choose a sunny location and decide on the size and shape you want. Some gardeners till the soil before building raised beds to prove additional room for root development.

Construct the frame with a non-toxic building material, such as stone, cinder blocks, bricks, untreated wood or fiberglass. Avoid pressure-treated lumber and creosote-treated railroad ties. Some garden catalogs and centers offer raised bed frames that snap together and can be taken apart easily.

The frame must be between 12 and 16 inches high and sturdy enough to hold together when filled with soil. If you use boards, they must be secured at the corners with metal braces or screws or nailed to a reinforcing block of wood inside the corners — if you nail into the ends of the boards, they will split.

Fill the frame with a good-quality lightweight soil mix and add a generous amount of compost. Soil from the garden is usually too heavy and doesn't allow for proper drainage.

A well-constructed raised bed should last for years, and soil fertility can be maintained by adding organic matter.

After $10 Investment, Quilt Brings $2,200

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The quilt that Mary Deiter of Lancaster made from profits earned by growing spring onions and green beens brought $2,200. The quilt sold to the highest bidder at the Pennsylvania Relief Sale in Harrisburg on April 1.

Her quilt brought the highest price out of the 430 quilts sold as part ot the Mennonite Central Committee's fund raiser.

Altogether, the sale raised $315,000 this year, which is $7,000 more than last year's sale.

TOP 10 REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY A TANCO BALE WRAPPER

TANCO	COMPETITION
1. Five (5) points of support on turntable: Four heavy duty rollers add stability and support to the perimeter of the turntable in addition to the main central shaft. This allows Tanco wrappers to safely wrap the heaviest silage bales on rough or uneven ground.	Competition uses one central shaft to support the entire turntable mechanism
2. Single solid belt on turntable: The single belt enables Tanco wrappers to effectively wrap misshapen or soggy bales providing a positive surface for bale rotation.	Competition uses either no belts between rollers, or multiple belts which can allow bales to sag and slip.
3. Adjustable extendable axle: On trailed models the extendable axle provides a wide, stable wheel base when loading bales. Eliminates the need for counter weights.	Competition must add counterweights or tandem axles as options to effectively handle silage bales
4. Top rollers on turntable: Extra rollers provide security to keep bales in place when wrapping at high RPM's (25) or on uneven terrain.	Competition - None
5. Unloading ramp on trailed models: The ramp allows bales to be unloaded gently. When a wrapped bale falls hard it can "burp." Once it "burps" the bale does not re-seal. The ramp gives a smooth transition between the ground and turntable.	Competition - optional drop mats or ramps available
6. Optional "High Rise" axle kit for soft ground conditions.	Compare!
7. Models available to fit every individual need, including machines to wrap big square bales. Tanco was first to build a large square bale wrapper, and continues to produce advancements in bale wrapping technology.	Limited product lines.
8. Positive bale positioning: While being wrapped, bales are rotated the exact distance required to obtain optimum coverage.	Competition uses continuous hydraulic advance. Bales can slip or over-rotate giving an uneven wrap
9. Durability: Tanco's subframe is one of the heaviest of any machines available in North America. The low profile design keeps silage bales closer to the ground with a low center of gravity for stability. Tanco's features are the result of years of experience and input from hundreds of individual, and commercial users.	Competition - Compare!
10. Price: From a basic 3 point Model AW200, to the trailed Model AW400 with automatic cut & start, bale and batch counter, and tractor seat controls, Tanco prices are very competitive. Pay less for more features and durability than any other bale wrapper on the market.	Competition - Compare!

We hear you.

We know that making hay can be one of the hardest, hottest, dustiest jobs a farmer has to face. And a big gamble, too, when bad weather is on the horizon.

So when you asked for a tractor with the power and versatility to handle every haying operation from cutting and conditioning to baling and transporting, we heard you.

When you said you needed a tractor with a full complement of features, yet sized just right for utility applications, we heard you.

And when you told us you needed the kind of reliability and durability that'll never leave another windrow stranded in a wet field, we heard you.

And we responded with even more improvements to the industry's most advanced mid-range tractors, the Case International MAXXUM® 5200 Series.

That's why you'll now find a handy "neutral" position built into the standard full-power MAXXUM shuttle shift, allowing you to put the tractor in neutral without using the foot clutch - a real convenience when tying off round bales.

The MAXXUM cab is now more monitor-friendly than ever, with easy rear-window cable access and two new mounting points in the cab - a definite advantage when working with productive, monitored haying equipment.

And as always, every MAXXUM is built big-tractor heavy, with 2 1/2 in. thick cast frame rails, 7700 lbs. of rear-hitch capacity, and an expansive cab with 44 sq. ft. of glass - an indispensable benefit when keeping an eye on the windrow or working with high-productivity tools like the Case International 8312 Disc Mower Conditioner.

What size MAXXUM is right for you? With four models ranging from 80 to 112 PTO hp, you'll have a lot to discuss with your Case IH dealer. And remember to ask about Total Product Support, our commitment to the service and parts that turn a sale into a true partnership.

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

Flexible Harrows Offer Versatile Designs To Match Your Specific Needs:

- Ring maintenance for smooth, well prepared traction
- Pasture renovation, by breaking up and leveling heavy soil
- Root aeration, for better water infiltration and growth
- Covers broadcasting seed for effective incorporation
- Works in fertilizer to both spread and maximize effectiveness
- Herbicide incorporation as it levels the ground and seals herbicide in for maximum killing action
- Scarifies hay and pasture land to stimulate new growth as it loosens crusted surface to allow better moisture penetration
- Self-cleaning action spreads straw and heavy residue without plugging the tines
- Saves time and fuel as the harrow can be pulled behind tractors, jeeps, pickups, ATV, 4-wheelers, etc.
- Eliminates crusting, breaks up clods and smoothes cultivated ground

Tough tillage conditions have met their MAX

Terra-Max penetrates deep and saves residue.

Terra-Max I works with lower horsepower requirements.

The double-shank Terra-Max II and the single-shank Terra-Max I fracture even the hardest soil for compaction-fighting aeration, maximum root penetration, moisture permeation, and seedbed preparation. Residue remains virtually intact to minimize water and wind erosion.

Adjustable, 20" spring-loaded coulters slice the residue. Next, Worksaver's unique heat-treated steel, helical shanks shatter hardpan as deep as 20".

Finally, an optional roller/conditioner breaks up clumps, works residue into the ground, and levels the seedbed. Secondary tillage usually is unnecessary.

Individual shank rows adjust to popular row widths. One person can easily adjust the gauges to regulate the working depth.

DAIRY AND ANIMAL SCIENCE — FOCUSING ON THE FUTURE

Daniel R. Hagen, Head Department Of Dairy And Animal Science

The Department of Dairy and Animal Science of the College of Agricultural Sciences at The Pennsylvania State University is undergoing extensive change.

Over the past few years, the department has experienced serious financial problems. Those problems resulted largely from a reduction in funds without changes in the size of the department's programs in resident education, extension education, and research.

Over the past six months, the faculty have developed a solution to the immediate problem and are developing a long-term plan for the department. The immediate financial solution calls for reducing the number of animals at each animal unit — dairy, swine, horse, sheep, and beef — to the number required to meet our programmatic needs. Those reductions will lead to a reduced labor force, but will not close any farm or eliminate any species.

Daniel R. Hagen

As these changes began to unfold, Dr. Stanley Curtis stepped down as head of the department to assume responsibilities in research and teaching. Dr. Paul Wangsness, an associate dean in the College of Agricultural Sciences and former head of the department, served as acting head during February. Effective March 1, I was appointed to serve as interim head until a permanent department head is recruited.

The faculty are currently developing a strategic plan for the future to focus our resources on specific priority programs. Clearly, we will not be able to do everything we have done in the past. However, our faculty will be more able to carry out the department's mission with vigor and a firm sense of direction.

Please contact us at (814) 865-1362 if you have a specific question or concern.

This Year, Fair To Be Held At Kutztown Fairgrounds

Reading Fair To Move To County's Ag Center

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Now that the big department store is moving in, the fair is moving out.

Sometime in the next few months, construction will begin on a Montgomery Ward store in back of the Reading Fairgrounds Mall, former site of the Reading Fair. Also tentatively planned is a car repair center on the ground where a barn housed dairy and beef animals for exhibit at the fair.

As a result, the Reading Fair has plans to move, in 1996, to a 70-acre site in back of the Berks County 4-H Center, off of Rt. 183 near the Berks County Extension Center. At the site will be a series of exhibit barns and parking for thousands of fair visitors.

If everything goes right, said Wayne Readinger, agriculture chairman and publicity director of the fair, the first fair at the new site will be held in September 1996. The land, owned by the county, is being leased until March 1996.

The Reading Fair this year will be held at the Kutztown Fairgrounds from Sept. 25-Oct. 1, a week later than the previously announced date. A contract was established for a one-year term, according to Readinger.

According to Dave Souders, first vice president of the fair, plans are to tie the proposed facilities to the 4-H center and to hold various fundraising and other activities at the site. Initially, according to Souders, under phase one of construction, a pole barn measuring 60-feet by 310 feet will be built, he said. Later on, in phase two, the barn will be expanded another 100 feet. In phase three, the pole building will measure 60 feet by 610 feet, he said.

Now, the land for the site in Bern Township is under review by the state DER (they are looking at the effects on the streambed that flows at the eastern end of the land) and a study is being undertaken by PennDOT on traffic flow into the area. Traffic will enter from the Hilltop Road side of the proposed site.

In the next several months, a site plan will be drawn up. Plans are for a modular layout that will have modules that connect to the main complex. Modules will be set aside for aspects of the fair such as the rides, the exhibition area, The Grange Cookery, and other aspects, according to Souders.

By 1996, the fair committee hopes to have at least the main phase of the pole-building up, according to Souders. When it is finished, the new site will house enough facilities and parking area for approximately 2,700 cars.

Plans are still "in the rough yet," said Readinger. The fair agricultural chairman said that 30 years ago, if fair grounds were needed, there was no problem getting them. These days, permits are necessary to build any types of facilities in the county.

Already, the Reading Fair committee has secured water and sewer permits for the site.

Souders indicated that contributions are welcome to help defray costs for the new buildings. The plan keeps admission and entertainment free for the Reading Fair.

Farmers' Experience Provides 'Recipe' For Composting Success

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — What's the "recipe" for compost success?

Try this:

Take 15 tons of fresh layer manure, 15 tons of steer manure, one ton of straw, and ½ ton of mulch hay. Add 10 cubic yards of topsoil and special clay (divided up in two parts to one part, respectively). Add seven cubic yards of carefully chopped wood chips.

Lititz poultryman J. Robert Keller entered the composting business and hopes to market his finished product to retail and wholesale outlets.

Mix material and spread into a 150-foot windrow. Turn once a day for the first 10 days, making sure there's enough moisture, then about twice a day for the next eight weeks. Take care that the pile's internal temperature is steady at 140-150 degrees Fahrenheit. Cover each day.

When finished, load and sift through special screens. Fifty-five ton rows, in the end, each yield 35 tons of compost.

Then sell your finished product for about $32 a scoop, or $55 a ton, retail. Of course, you could also use the finished chicken compost as a silage substitute for your steers, at 12 pounds per day per steer on an as-fed basis.

Sound reasonable? It's entirely possible. Just ask Lititz poultryman J. Robert Keller, who entered the composting business about three years ago and hopes to market his finished product to retail and wholesale outlets in the coming years.

Keller's initial plan: to deal with the problem of flies in the chickenhouses and to get rid of too much manure.

"We were thinking about how to solve the problem of too much manure," Keller told a tour group of 40 who signed up for the On-Farm Composting Conference and Tour sponsored by Penn State last week. "That's what got us thinking about composting."

Three years ago Keller used a front-end loader and a manure spreader to make a couple of short windrows, about 50 feet long. Every day, no matter what the weather, the piles would be turned using the loader. While it was time-consuming, it satisfied Keller's goal to get the manure out of the chickenhouse and turn it into a form that could be spread or sold.

He told the tour group members that "it didn't take too long to learn that composting isn't a real easy thing — there's a lot of work involved." He wanted to figure out how to do it exactly right, which involved trying various manure additives to build the carbon:nitrogen levels up so the composting process was speedy and efficient.

In the meantime, a 200-foot square area was graded to stockpile the windrows. The windrows are worked in segments according to age.

"My goal is not to spread any raw manure anymore," Keller told the group. The farm wants to be able to spread only compost and is working toward that goal.

In all, from raw manure to finished product takes about 10 weeks on the Keller farm. They compost only in the spring, summer, and fall — winter composting is simply too much hassle, according to Keller, because of the cold, ice, mud, and snow.

Keller is developing a market and is targeting "landscapers, nuerseries, vegetable growers, and retail," he said.

What takes the most time is making sure the piles are aerated so the microbacteria can do the work, and proper moisture is present, according to compost experts who spoke before the tour. That ensures that the carbon:nitrogen ratio is good (too much nitrogen and ammonia is released; too much carbon and the natural material breakdown temperature won't be sufficient). Also, it's important that carbon dioxide is vented in the pile by turning the pile regularly (at least once a day) or using special methods to rid the piles of the gas.

Special study

A special study was recently conducted by the Rodale Institute that examined the composting methods and results of four farms in the region. What the study found was that the bulk of the cost of using compost was in collecting the materials needed — materials cost made up 30-50 percent of the total cost of the operation, compared to raw manure spreading or liquid manure storage, according to Cary Oshins, compost specialist with Rodale.

Oshins, who provided details about the study to the tour group, indicated there is more work to be done to examine the cost-effectiveness of using composting compared to other methods, such as simply storing the manure. In all cases, spreading raw manure was the least expensive compared to composting and liquid storage, but the compost has a marketing potential that can be exploited by farmers.

In the Rodale study, the farms were diverse. They included:

• Farm A, a 95-acre poultry operation with 68,000 layers and 175 steer. Materials used in the operation included sawdust, cow fodder, steer manure, and leaves. Equipment used included a manure spreader, a skid loader, and a dozer. Compost amount generated was 1,200 tons per year. A skid loader was used to turn the piles.

• Farm B, a 100-acre dairy farm in Franklin County, maintains 30 milking cows. Materials used included corn fodder, straw, and newspapers. The farm built a homemade turner and used a manure spreader and skid loader. Compost amount generated was 300 tons per year.

• Farm C, a 172-acre certified organic vegetable farm in Schuylkill County, manages 300-350 hogs. Materials used included leaves, straw, and rock phosphate. A manure spreader and front loader were used. The phosphate was used to maintain the nitrogen in the pile. Compost amount generated was 75 tons per year.

• Farm D, a 200-acre farm in Lancaster County, manages 80 milking cows, 7,000 turkeys, and 20,000 broilers. They use mulch hay, sawdust, straw, wood chips, topsoil, and an inoculum. They used a specially constructed self-propelled turner, a manure spreader, and a front loader. They generated 250 tons per year of compost. They also used a special tarp-like material as a covering to shed water and to allow oxygen to permeate and the carbon dioxide to filter out.

While the start-up costs varied farm to farm, in the end, it was about $3,000 less for costs to simply spread the raw manure on Farm D, and about $4,500 less to store the liquid manure in a structure (estimated costs), than composting, according to Oshins. A breakdown of the results will appear in a report to be issued this summer.

Labor costs were also significant in implementing and managing a compost operation on all four farms.

"There are more case studies we need to do," Oshins said, "to build up a database and get it generalized. These are the kinds of studies, about what costs are involved, to collect to make those comparisons."

It all depends on the compost manager's decision about what the finished product will be used for to determine the economic feasibility of using compost.

Fritz Farm

If using a compost operation, what is the reason for doing so? is the important question to ask, according to Tim Fritz, Montgomery County agent, who spoke about marketing compost materials.

Fritz, who helped conduct a tour of his family dairy farm in Bridgeport that uses a composting method, urged those who want to implement a composting process to consult the "On-Farm Composting Manual" available for $10 per copy at Penn State Extension offices.

"You want to talk to your customers," said Fritz. He emphasized the importance of setting specific, measurable, attainable, rewarding, and timed goals. Also, it is important to clearly define the tactical plans, as in what will be done, who is reponsible, where, and when. For marketing, timing is critical.

At the tour, Jack Fritz spoke to the group about how composting was started on the family's 72-acre, 162-cow (on test) dairy. Composting began about two years ago. The piles are turned about three times per month.

Tim said the reason composting was begun was to reduce the amount of material as pasture topdressing to about one-half the amount. The piles are made and turned year-round, according to Jack.

Tim Fritz picked up a handful of the finished compost, which is dark brown in texture, has no smell, and works well as a soil amendment.

Zurin Farm

The tour group also stopped at Ken Zurin's Dairy Farm in Mount

(Turn to Page C5)

Tim Fritz picked up a handful of the finished compost, which is dark brown in texture, has no smell, and works well as a soil amendment.

In all, from raw manure to finished product takes about 10 weeks on the Keller farm. They compost only in the spring, summer, and fall — winter composting is simply too much hassle, according to Keller. Here, a turner is getting ready to work the windrows.

On the Fritz farm, composting began about two years ago. The piles are turned about three times per month.

Composting Success

Joy. There, four windrows are made and turned about three times a day. Zurin manages about 285 cows, about 300 steers, and a large poultry operation.

The piles are worked twice a day by a 60 HP turbodiesel windrow turner (cost is about $25,000). Zurin began composting the manure, which is marketed off the farm, about three years ago, after realizing that he had to deal with the amount of manure generated on the 500-acre farm.

The solids are separated by the dairy manure. The liquid, from a 500,000-gallon holding tank, is applied to the fields. The solids are extracted and worked into the windrows for composting.

Cost-Sharing

At the meeting, Cary Oshins reviewed some of the registration fees that are applicable to certain operations. Also, Don Robinson, administrator for the Lancaster County Conservation District, spoke about several cost-share opportunities in composting operations.

The following methods may be used by those who want to begin composting operations as a way to obtain financing:

- Agriculture Conservation Program (ACP) monies, from the Consolidated Farm Service Agency (former title, ACSC). Funding source is USDA. Limit is $3,500 per person per year. A "long-term agreement" or LTA is available at a maximum of $17,500, three to five years, but is very limited. Sign-up in Lancaster is at the Farm and Home Center office. Cost-share rates are 50-75 percent and can "piggyback" on Chesapeake Bay funds. The NRCS (formerly SCS) provides technical assistance.
- The Chesapeake Bay Program is another source of funding, available from your county conservation district. Maximum is $30,000 per farm of cost-share assistance. Sign-up is at the conservation district office. The same cost-share rates apply, 50 percent for manure storages, and 75 percent most others. Technical work is done by the Bay engineer and technicians and by NRCS.
- DER Act 101 of the Municipal Waste Plan. This refers to Act 101 of Sect. 902. Municipalities can apply to purchase composting equipment and other facilities, and an agreement is made betwen the farmer and municipality to allow the farmer to use the equipment. Contact your regional DER office.
- Robinson indicated that plans are being considered for the state's Nutrient Management Act regulations to possibly allow some cost-share monies for composting operations. More information will be available when the regulations are finalized.
- Farmers in the Lancaster County Pequea-Mill Creek Watershed Program may also qualify, through ASCS, for a five-year LTA, with a maximum of $17,500 per farm, for a composting operation. Sign up by contacting the Pequea-Mill Creek office in Smoketown.

Dairy Parlor Solutions Joins Germania Team

WAUNAKEE, Wis.—Germania Dairy Automation, Inc. has announced the addition of Fisher and Thompson, Inc. of Leola, Pa. to its expanding authorized dealer network.

Germania Dairy Automation, Inc. specializes in all air-operated, all stainless, totally integrated milking parlor systems. The concept has been very successful throughout the country, positioning Germania as the leading manufacturer for top quality parlor equipment.

Beginning as a one-man basement operation in December 1973 by Rolf W. Reisgies, Germania has become known as the innovation leader in parlor automation.

Reisgies, noting the decision by Fisher and Thompson, Inc. to join the Germania network, said, "Fisher and Thompson, Inc.—through their owners Amos Fisher, Rick Thompson, and Merle Ressler—exhibit the type of commitment that is required to be successful in our business today."

Fisher commented, "Fisher and Thompson has always emphasized to its employees the importance of attention to detail, quality of work, pride in a job well done, and customer satisfaction. We know we are making progress when we can develop loyal friendships with our satisfied customers."

The Germania product line will be marketed through a new division of Fisher and Thompson called Dairy Parlor Solutions.

Amos, Rick, Merle and their salesman, Marlin Martin, will be marketing Germania in southeastern Pennsylvania and northeastern Maryland. For more information on the services provided by Dairy Parlor Solutions, call (717) 656-3307.

Deere Honors Dealers

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.)—Yoder's Restaurant of New Holland was the site for the special recognition dinner for the John Deere dealers in southeast Pennsylvania and northern Maryland recently.

The year 1994 was the 30th anniversary of the John Deere Lawn and Grounds Care which began in 1963 with the introduction of the 110 tractor. The year 1994 was also special in that Deere celebrated its 10th anniversary of the Circle of Excellence recognition program for lawn and grounds care dealers. The Circle of Excellence program acknowledges outstanding performance by those dealers that achieve the Honors or Million goals.

Dealers achieving the Honors Circle Award during 1994 were George V. Seiple & Son of Easton; Kermit K. Kistler, Inc. of Lynnport; Lehigh Ag. Equipment, Inc. of Allentown; and A.B.C. Groff, Inc. of New Holland.

Dealers achieving the Million Circle Award during 1994 were Enfield Equipment, Inc. of Whiteford, Md. and Oxford, Pa.; Adamstown Equipment, Inc. of Adamstown; Pikeville Equipment, Inc. of Oley; M.S. Yearsley & Sons, Inc. of West Chester; and Landis Bros., Inc. of Lancaster, Inc.

Tom Campbell of George V. Seiple & Son of Easton accepts honors plaque.

Charles Smith of Enfield Equipment, Inc., Whiteford, Md. and Oxford, Pa. receives Million award.

Ron Kistler of Kermit K. Kistler, Inc. of Lynnport receives honors award.

Roger, Donald and David Angstadt of Pikeville Equipment, Inc. of Oley accepts Million award from Jerry A. Thomas.

Irvin W. Yearsley accepts Million award for M.S. Yearsley and Sons, Inc. of West Chester.

Jay Carpenter of A.B.C. Groff, Inc., New Holland, accepts honors award.

Mark Weaver of Landis Bros., Inc. receives the Million award for Landis Bros., Inc. of Lancaster.

Plant Earns Registration

RACINE, Wis—Case Corporation's manufacturing plant here has announced that its quality management system has been registered to International Standards Organization (ISO) 9001.

The plant, where Case IH Magnum tractors are built, received a three-year certificate after a rigorous audit of manufacturing practices, processes, and documentation conducted by QMI (the Quality Management Institute of Canada).

According to Dave Czerniejewski, manager, North America cost of quality, and Racine ISO management representative, the registration process took 14 months and covered 20 quality-system elements that make up the ISO 9001 quality standard. ISO 9001 is the most comprehensive ISO standard, confirming process conformance from the intital development of a product through production, test, installation, and servicing.

"The ISO standard allows us to demonstrate Case's ability to provide our customers with products that meet or exceed their expectation," he said. "We put various disciplines in place and in writing, such as our Quality Manual and Procedures and Work Instructions, in order to ensure that we operate to a set of prescribed quality principles. We write down what we are doing and measure, through audits, how we are doing. This tells us if we are still on the rigtht course on our continuous improvement journey."

Among the activities Racine undertook as it worked toward registration were refining procedures and work instructions to improve communication, calibrating measuring devices throughout the plant, and training plant personnel to conduct internal audits. According to Czerniejewski, who also served as ISO project leader, the end result has been improved quality and better communication throughout the organization.

A Case IH Magnum tractor rolls off the assembly line at the Case Corporation plant in Racine, Wis., which recently had its quality management system registered to International Standards Organization (ISO) 9001 by QMI (the Quality Management Institute of Canada).

C.B. Hoober & Son Recognized In Program

RACINE, Wis. — Members of the parts and service departments of C.B.Hoober & Son in Intercourse, PA., have been named a "Winning Combination" customer-support team by Case Corporation for the third time.

Dick Bomberger, parts manager, led the group in competition with 1,500 dealerships throughout North Amercia for one of 108 Winning Combination awards.

The Winning Combination program, formerly known as the Parts Master Club, was established to recognize outstanding customer support by parts and service departments in Case IH agricultural and Case construction equipment dealerships. Winners received a 10K gold Winning Combination ring and etched medallion plaque.

Statewide Emu Meeting Draws Farmers

MILLVILLE (Columbia Co.) — Approximately 100 current and potential emu farmers attended the first statewide Pennsylvania Emu Farmers' Association (PEFA) meeting held recently in Pleasant Gap.

PEFA members present introduced themselves to non-members at the request of PEFA President Joanne Long. The PEFA breeders list was passed out to non-members so they could contact various farms to learn about emu farming first-hand.

Guest speaker, Pierce Allman, executive director of the American Emu Association (AEA), spoke on the future market potential of the emu, as well as his recent meeting with USDA in Washington, D.C. In sharing statistical information, Allman indicated organic foods sales are up, and that emu meat, being low in fat and cholesterol, is prime for the U.S. health-conscience population. He noted the Texas Tech. University emu meat study should be complete in April.

On a worldwide perspective, Allman indicated that there are now large emu operations in China and France, with operations starting in Spain and the U.K. The Australians have been commercially producing emu for a number of years, supplying world demand for emu by-products.

Emu meat was prepared and served by PEFA members Pete and Carol Heth. The Heths have scheduled a Zone 7 meeting to be held April 29, 1995 at 1 p.m. at their farm in Columbia. Zone 2 will hold a meeting April 8 at 1 p.m. at the farm of Keith Solomom, Muncy.

To obtain information about joining the Pennsylvania Emu Farmers' Association or to attend an upcoming meeting, call (717)437-9185.

Implement Company Hosts Deere Day

MANSFIELD (Tioga Co.)—Northern Tier Implement Company, once again held a successful John Deere Day recently.

Included in the festivities was a special presentation to the top customers of 1994. Guests were honored and a special recognition was given to Virgle Trowbridge, the top customer of 1994.

Northern Tier Implement (NTI) thanks three customers who displayed their antique John Deere tractors: Burrell Morse, Jack Demming, and Robert Wagner.

The theme was "History In The Making" and it was clear there are many changes happening at NTI. With Dick Berner as service manager/director, Rob Peffer as parts manager and Fred Johnson as shop foreman, NTI is on the move to serve the Twin Tiers.

The sales department has new pricing guidelines as well as a new sales representative, Steve Stewart. Stewart will service the Bath, N.Y. area.

Southeast Pa. Forage Directory Available

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.)—Livestock producers in need of forage or bedding this season can find 27 more sources from a free Southeast Pennsylvania Forage Directory just released by cooperative extension. The sources are farmers from Ringtown to Wawa, with supplies of alfalfa and grass hay, haylage and balage, straw, corn fodder, or ear corn.

The Southeast Pennsylvania Forage Directory shows the producer, location, and phone along with the hay or straw, the bale type, and extras such as delivery or testing. The forage producers have indicated whether they sell pickup truck sized loads, farm truck loads, or trailer loads.

One of the newer forages to appear in the directory is called balage ("bale-age"), high-moisture hay wrapped in plastic. It undergoes the bacterial acidic fermentation of silage, but in a handier form than silo-fermented corn silage or haylage. In Lehigh County alone, balage production in 1995 is estimated to be 5,000 tons, up from negligible amounts three years ago.

Stop Plugging!

Fill faster with Lancaster Level-Flo.

You can blow in as much as three tons of haylage a minute — over 100 feet up — with a new 12" center-fill Gooseneck from Lancaster Level-Flo. High profile and 33" larger diameter reduce friction to make plugging a thing of the past. And the Lancaster Level-Flo 12" gooseneck is fully enclosed to make sure your silage and haylage go into your silo—not on the roof.

EARLY ORDER DISCOUNT

CENTERLINE BIG BAGGER

7' - 8' - 9' 10' Diameter

Design Permits Bagging Twice as Fast as other Models

Puts up to 15% more in the bag than bottom-pack units

Packs more punch from the center ... with less H.P. ... for tighter, more uniform bags of feed.

Note: One-man bag lift-loader and hydraulic cable rewind optional

Features...
- Wheels and tongue rotate to travel position
- Self-cleaning tunnel
- Cable up to 250'
- Rust-free chrome disc mechanical brake
- 540 or 1,000 rpm PTO • No hydraulics
- Mounted engines available
- Oil bath gearbox and drive chain
- #160 roller chain main rotor drive
- Safety first, V-belt-driven conveyor for side feeding Front-load hopper available
- Tongue centered for close bag spacing and road travel
- Up to 12' diameter by special order

What users report...
- "Produces a more even pack"
- "Up to 15% more feed in a bag"
- "Handles material with greater percentage of moisture."
- "Virtually eliminates 'juicing up' - as is experienced with bagging machines with rotors low to the ground to provide ground clearance."
- "Higher quality feed due to more even pack."
- "Machines with low mounted rotors must pack feedstuffs actually too tight in the lower area in order to get enough force to fill the bag at the top of the tunnel."
- "With a more even pack it's easier to remove the feedstuffs from the bag."

Silage Bags
- Triex Bonded Bags - White & Black
- Triex Bonded white 7', 8', 9', 10', 11' & 12 bags, length available 100'-275. Available w/24 months, 12 mo., and 90 day warranty

30'x100' With Big Jim Drive Thru

"The Big Jim is doing a fine job bringing the feed down. We really believe the drive-thru, Big Jim System is worth anyone's consideration. It is costing more every year to grow forages and we feel our minimal quality and quantity losses are easily paying for the additional initial cost of this investment compared to that of a bunker. We are throwing no feed away and the cows are milking the best they ever have." (over 90 lbs. per cow.)

Signed/Atwater Farms
Rick Atwater

Drive your truck or mixer-wagon under the 12' high floor for fast and efficient delivery of your wilted hay or silage. Eliminate conveyors from silos to mixer.

Call for an appointment to discuss your storage needs and assistance in completing the "Cost Analysis Worksheet" developed by the Crop Storage Institute.

RUFUS BRUBAKER REFRIGERATION

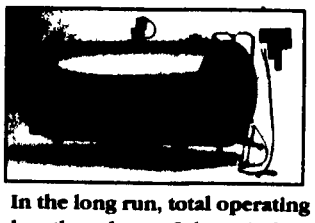
And...

MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment cost is not the only cost of cooling milk

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller® milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31,000	$28,000
Cost of electricity @ .08 kW for 12,000 lbs milk/day for 10 years	$17,550	$22,850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48,550	$50,850
Savings	$ 2,300

INTRODUCING...

SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

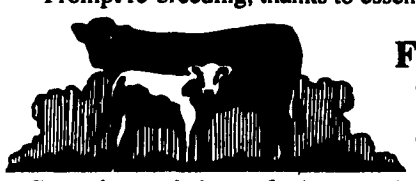
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

CANADIAN BISON BULLS

Take another look! Those big, heavily haired, extremely healthy, vigorous animals grew up in our harsh winters and contrasting seasons.

Canada was home for the great Northern Herd, 200 years ago. Today it is the home for some of the WORLD'S FINEST.

WHY NOT PUT A BIT OF CANADA IN YOUR HERD!

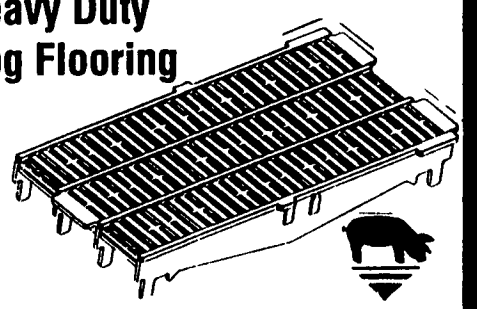
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? CHECK OUT Polygrate™

Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

- POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?

- More piglets survive until weaning
- Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- Heavier piglets at weaning
- Better conditioned sows at weaning

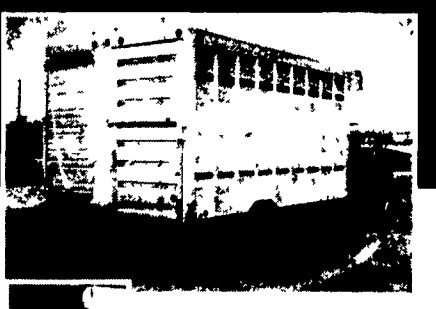
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

CAI AUCTIONEERS REALTOR APPRAISER

AUCTION or BROKERAGE CALL FOR THE ADVANTAGES OF EACH. WITH 26 YEARS OF EXPERTISE AS A CAI AUCTIONEER & REALTOR I CAN HELP YOU MAKE THE PROPER DECISION A VISIT TO EXPLAIN WILL COST YOU NOTHING.

YORK CO. New Listing, Over 650 acres with 2 houses, some woodland but the big attraction is the 1600 sow to fattening operation currently in operation. This operation is looking for an investor, Farmer or possibly a Partnership. The buildings alone would cost more than the asking price for the total acreage and all buildings. There is plenty of room to build a modern dairy, poultry houses and or veal or would also make an excellent Thoroughbred horse farm in addition to the Pork setup. This present operation has a methane digestor that save between $75 & $80,000 in electric every year. Be the first to see it. Some employees would like to stay w/a new owner if you need experienced operators as an investor

N. UMBERLAND CO. 278 Ac's of open farm or cropland ready for spring planting. Borders a prominent Creek and has great potential.

162 ac. older dairy which once had a milking parlor as well as stanchions This is riverbottom soil and is an excellent buy. Produces as well as Lancaster Co farmland and about 1/2 the price. Borders the river, seeing is believing.

BRADFORD CO. 268 ac. dairy farm w/3 silos, modern farm house and much more priced at: $350,000.00.

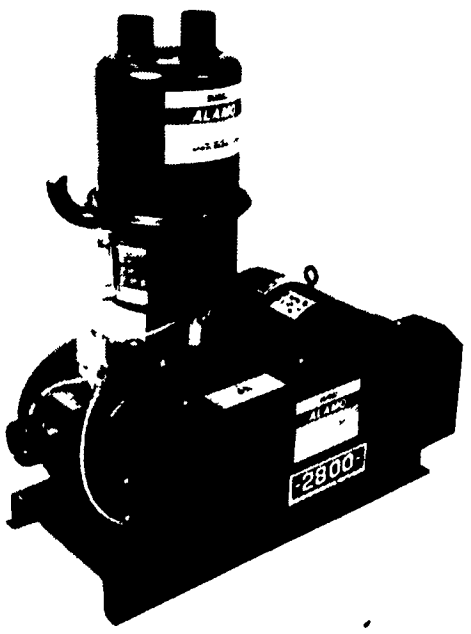
SURGE



Shown: Surge Alamo Belt-Drive 2800 Pump Package Complete With L-3 Oiler

Part or parcel... you'll save money with a Surge Alamo belt-drive vacuum pump.

Buy only the capacity you need now and expand your CFM as your requirements change. The Surge Alamo Vaccum Pump model 1400 PLUS produces 50 CFM (ASME) and can be converted to a model 2200 PLUS that delivers 78 CFM, or a model 2800 rated at 100 CFM by changing the motor and belt-drive package. Muffler and air filter are optional equipment.

Whichever model you choose, with these belt-drive pumps, you get quiet, smooth-running performance at a lower cost per CFM. That's Alamo reliability and Surge value.

For larger capacity vacuum systems, Surge Alamo direct-drive vacuum pumps offer CFM output ranging from 82 to 200 (ASME). Whatever size milking system you have, we can supply the proper vacuum system components.

Spring Seminar To Prepare For Grain Harvests

TREXLERTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — An evening Grain Marketing Seminar scheduled for Tuesday, April 18, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in Lehigh County will help area farmers decide how to handle the crop they're just about to plant.

The event takes place at The Pied Piper Restaurant on Rt. 222, about one mile east of Trexlertown. Cost is $20, which includes the seminar, grain marketing fact sheets, and a family-style supper (starting at 7 p.m.).

The seminar is entitled, "The Long and Short of Futures and Options." Dr. Kevin McNew, grain marketing specialist with the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service, is the presenter. The talk will give farmers a better handle on the role that the futures market plays in the local trade and whether and how to use futures or options contracts. A fundamental point McNew makes in Maryland is that farmers need to consider basis in their sell/store decisions for corn, wheat, and soybeans. He'll be explaining that concept.

McNew is researching USDA's pilot program in Iowa that uses put options (to set a floor on grain prices) as a replacement to the Consolidated Farm Services Agency's grain deficiency payment program. He'll comment on that research at this seminar.

He has published marketing articles in The Journal of Futures Markets and the Review of Agricultural Economics. He is an assistant professor of agricultural economics at the University of Maryland.

Make a reservation by calling the Lehigh County Cooperative Extension Office at (610) 391-9840 by 1 p.m. on Monday, April 17. Attendees will pay at door. Those unable to attend the supper can attend the seminar, which will start at about 7:45 p.m., for $10.

The event is sponsored by Lehigh County Cooperative Extension in conjunction with the Lehigh Valley Grain Marketing Club. The meeting is open to the public.

1995 Dairy Of Distinction Farms Sought

Kingston (Luzerne Co.) — Do you take pride in maintaining your dairy farm? Does your dairy farm project an attractive, wholesome image to consumers? If so, the Dairy Of Distinction Program of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania will consider your farm for the program's annual recognition awards.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program was first started in 1983 to recognize the hard work and dedication of the farmers who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by. The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas and manure management are other aspects of the farm operation taken into consideration. Roadside judging is conducted during the month of May. Former winners of past years are also rejudged to ensure they continue to meet the standards of excellence.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk. Applications are available from your state secretary, Pennsylvania: Paul Nichols, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., 239 Schuyler Avenue, Box 5 , Kingston, Pa. 18704, (717) 283-2204, New York: Carol Weddle, N.Y. Holstein Association, 957 Mitchell Street, Ithaca N.Y. 14851, (607) 273-7591, or New Jersey: August Knispel, R.D. 1, Box 325, Pittstown, New Jersey 08867, (201) 735-4989. All applications muse be completed and returned by April 15th, 1995.

The Dairy of Distinction program is financed in Pennsylvania by Dairy Farmers through the American Dairy Association Dairy Council and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, plus Agribusiness organizations. The Pennsylvania Dairy Of Distinction Program is conducted with advice and help by Penn State cooperative extension.

Application

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales which encourages public support for the dairy industry. The award gives recognition to the dairy farmer for maintaining a well-kept farmstead.

ELIGIBILITY

All Northeast dairy farms producing milk for sale are invited to make application for the award. Dairies receiving the 10 highest scores in each of the 91 districts will receive an 18" x 24" Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed in front of their farm.

APPLICATION

Your Name _____ Farm Name _____

Mailing Address _____

Phone Number (_____) _____

Cooperative or Handler (where you ship your Milk) _____
(Your Handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality)

Location (driving directions for judging team) _____

County (where your farm is located) _____

I hereby apply to the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Committee to have my dairy scored in accordance with the rules of the program for the purpose of obtaining a Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed on my premises. (No producer will be charged for scoring or sign expense.)

_____ Date _____
Signature of Owner/Operator

Return application by April 15. New York dairies send to Carol Weddle, New York Holstein Association, 957 Mitchell Street, P.O. Box 190, Ithaca, NY 14851; Pennsylvania dairies send to Paul Nichols, ADADC, Tower Business Building, 239 Schuyler Ave., Kingston, PA 18704; New Jersey dairies send to August Knispel, R.D. 1, Box 325, Pittstown, NJ 00867.

HOW IS YOUR FARM SCORED?

Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc.

Awards will be based upon neatness, good maintenance and other factors which can be controlled by the farmer. Attractive background scenery should not be weighed heavily in judging. All judging observations should be made from a vehicle at one or more points on an adjacent public highway (or if farm is off the road, the nearest lane). Judging should give equal consideration to old wood construction and new construction of metal or concrete block.

The award program may be used for subsequent advertising or promotion activities for dairy products or dairy farming. Farmers who apply for awards agree that; if selected they will cooperate with these activities and make all reasonable efforts to maintain both the exterior and interior of their properties in an acceptable condition.

HOW THE APPLICATION WORKS

The owner or operator of the dairy farm should sign the application and send it to NEDFBP secretary by April 15.

HOW THE JUDGING WORKS

Judging teams will visit farms during the month of May. Farms will be judged each year as the award is presented on an annual basis. Any dairy failing to maintain appearance standards will be asked to remove their sign. The Dairy of Distinction signs remain the property of the committee, not the property of the dairy farmer. All farms must achieve a compliance score of 90 percent on their Dairy of Distinction score card. Your cooperative or milk handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality.

RULES FOR THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION AWARD

1). The Dairy of Distinction sign remains the property of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Committee.
2). The post and bracket shall be supplied by and maintained by the dairy farmer. It is suggested that a wood post 4' x 4' x 12' or iron pipe 2' x 12' be used. Posts or pipe should be installed and maintained in true vertical position with 8' above ground. Top of the bracket shou'd be lower than six inches from the top of the post.
3). Sign shall be displayed in front of the dairy at roadside. An attractive post and bracket, or other frame, shall be used to display the sign. No more than three signs should be displayed from the sign frame or post, and all shall be of a style, general size and quality comparable to the Dairy of Distinction sign. Sign should be secured on all sides to avoid wind damage.
4). Signs shall not be moved to other premises. New owners of a Dairy of Distinction farm must apply to retain the sign.
5). Replacement of damaged signs shall be the discretion of the committee.
6). No producer shall be charged with scoring or sign expense.
7). Judges' decisions will be final.
8). Judging will take place between May 1st and May 31st.
9). Farms awarded a Dairy of Distinction sign in previous years will be judged between April 1st and April 30th. If they do not qualify, they will be rejudged between May 1st and May 31st so they have the opportunity to keep the sign.
10). Farms that do not requalify will return the sign to their regional Dairy of Distinction Committee.

Angus Sire Evaluation Simplifies Bull Selection

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—Bull selection can be easier with the American Angus Association's Sire Evaluation Report on diskette. John Crouch, director of performance programs for the association, said breeders using the service can obtain a variety of information and request it to fit their unique programs.

"Breeders can look up expected progeny differences (EPD) for specific bulls or they can run their own sire sorts using the EPD parameters they place on their herd," Crouch said. For example, a breeder can request a listing of bulls with a birth weight EPD less than +3, a weaning weight greater than +20, and milk EPD greater than +12. The computerized sire evaluation program runs a search and provides the breeder with a list of all the bulls in the report that meet those criteria.

The program can also list all bulls in ascending or descending order by a particular trait, such as yearling weight.

With the increased interest in carcass value, Crouch says many may use the program to select bulls with desirable values for carcass traits such as marbling, ribeye area, fat thickness, or carcass weight.

He said the service has been offered since 1984, and those who use it find it's much easier than flipping through the 204-page sire summary. The start-up program for IBM-compatible computers costs $25. It comes with bi-annual updates, just like the sire evaluation report, that cost $10 each.

To request your own Angus Sire Evaluation Report on diskette, write or call American Angus Association, Performance Program Department, 3201 Frederick Blvd., St. Joseph, MO 64506, (816) 233-3101. Be sure to specify whether you want a 3.5 inch or 5.25 inch diskette.

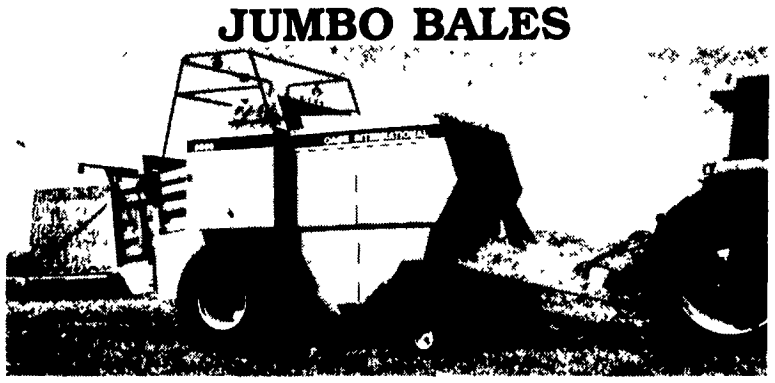
JUMBO BALES



A Case International 8580 large rectangular baler makes JUMBO bales – up to 2,000 pounds

It compresses hay equivalent to about 40 conventional bales into a single high-density package The high-end capacity and performance of the 8580 means you can push these big bales through the machine all day — every day That's a lot of hay!

And it's quality hay, too The center-line design handles the crop gently to preserve nutritious leaves The bales are uniformly shaped for efficient handling and shipping

The 8580 also has a full list of standard features Low-profile pickup, pre-packer chamber, massive gearbox, heavy-duty components throughout, electronic monitoring, double-tie knotters and low maintenance And it's simple to operate

The Case International 8580 is a JUMBO value, too

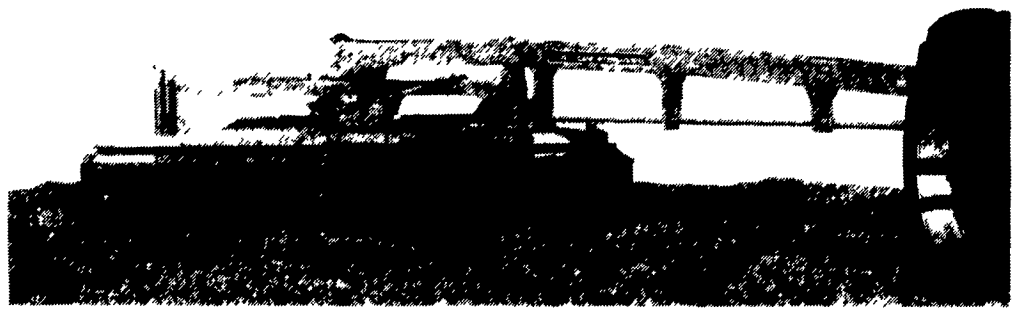
8315 Disc Mower Conditioner

15 Foot Swing Frame, Pull Type



First Of Its Kind

The 8315 is the first mower conditioner of its kind to combine a center-pivot tongue and mechanical drive with 15'3" (4.65m) rotary disc cutting performance. With its wide cutting width, the 8315 is designed to handle large acreage hay production.

A hydraulic center-pivot tongue and swivel gearbox hitch enables the 8315 to cut fields in both directions or turn corners with ease. Its rotary disc header features a heavy-duty spur gear cutterbar and 10 oval cutting discs that are powered by a belt and gearbox drive. High-speed discs are heat treated spring steel for durability and spin at 2,600 rpm to slice through the toughest crop conditions. Header tilt is also hydraulically controlled from the cab.

The wide 110" (2.79m) steel-on-steel intermeshing conditioning rolls feature automatic separation for non-plug operation, and adjustable roll spacing and pressure. A swath baffle and adjustable windrow forming shields are standard.

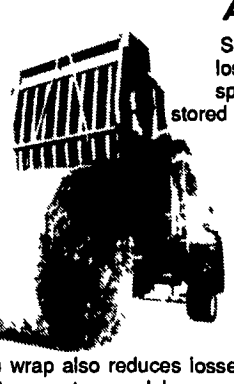
Mesh Wrap Attachment



Studies have shown that losses from handling and spoilage for a round bale stored outside can be as high as 30% more for a twine-wrapped bale as opposed to a bale wrapped with mesh. Mesh wrap serves as a barrier to moisture absorption. As a result, quality losses resulting from decomposition are reduced.

Mesh wrap also reduces losses during bale handling and transporting and because fewer turns are produced when wrapping versus tying with dual twine arms (2 to 2.5 wraps vs 10 to 15 turns), there is significant savings in the time required to finish a bale.

The optional mesh wrap is available as a field-attachment for the following round balers

- 8455 Tractor Hydraulic • 8465 AUTOMATIC
- 8465 Tractor Hydraulic • 8460 after Pin CFH0057418

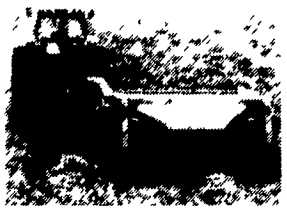
FULL-FEATURED PERFORMER



The Case International 8340 mower conditioner offers you features in a 9 foot plus cutting width that you'd only expect to find as options, or on a larger more expensive machine.

Features like a heavy box-beam frame and tongue that you hydraulically position from the tractor. Quickly steer around field obstacles or switch between field and transport positions. Low maintenance describes the 1700 stroke per minute sickle. Sickle sections bolt-on for quick and convenient replacement.

A five-bat reel feeds the crop uniformly into the conditioning rolls Rolls automatically separate to reduce the chance of plugging

And there are even more features that make the Case International 8340 a truly deluxe high performance mower conditioner. Stop in and see them all

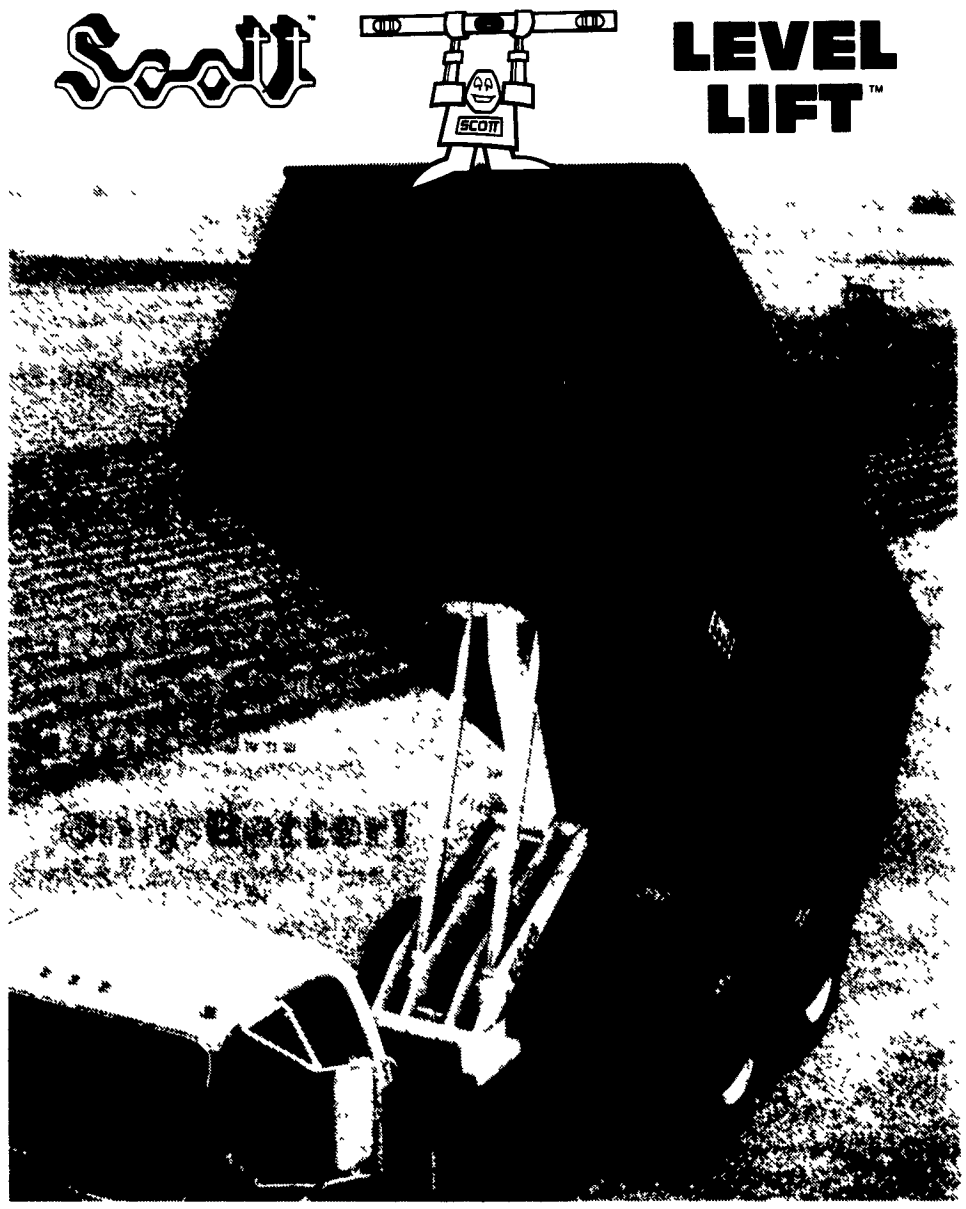
Don't Forget Binkley & Hurst Bros.

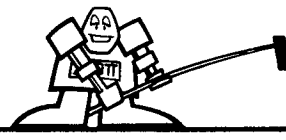
Is Your Dealer For The Ultimate In Level Lift Truck Hoists

There Is A Difference!

We Sell:

- Grain Truck Bodies
- Ensilage Truck Bodies With Hydraulic Lift End Gate
- Scott Level Lift Hoists Truck Accessories





WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW BEFORE BUYING ANY HOIST

SCISSOR

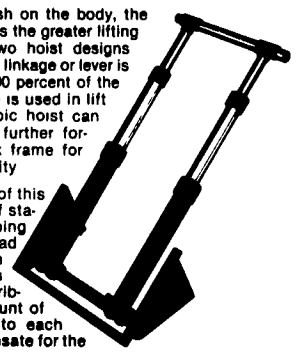
The main advantage of the scissor hoist is its greater stability

The lever action design however, robs 30% of the hydraulic cylinder s energy just to operate the linkage Therefore it requires a larger hydraulic system Another drawback of this design is that it must be mounted farther back on the frame to obtain a good dumping angle On larger bodies this creates undue stress which could cause frame and body failure

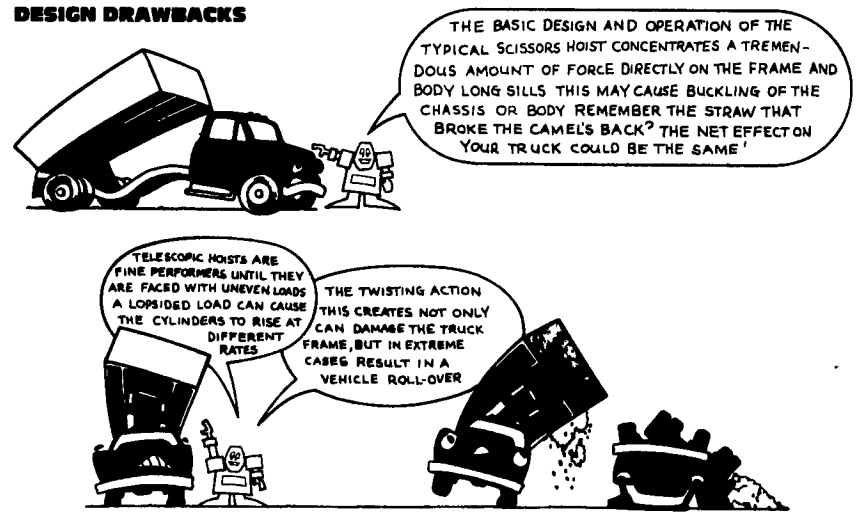
TELESCOPIC

Using a direct push on the body, the telescopic hoist has the greater lifting capacity of the two hoist designs Since no additional linkage or lever is required, almost 100 percent of the hydraulic pressure is used in lift ing The telescopic hoist can also be mounted further forward on the truck frame for more lifting capacity

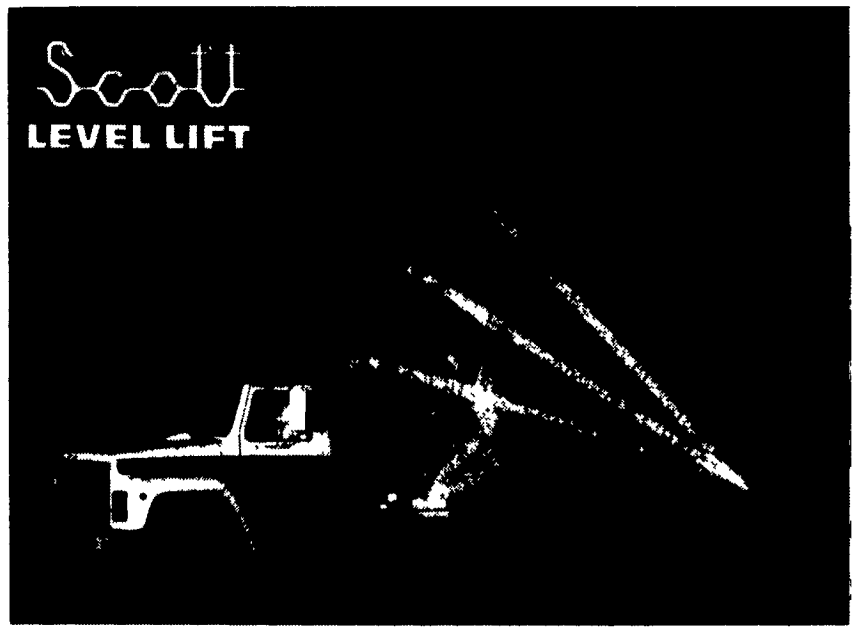
The disadvantage of this hoist is the lack of stability when dumping with an uneven load or when dumping on uneven terrain It is impossible to distribute the same amount of oil and pressure to each cylinder to compensate for the above conditions



DESIGN DRAWBACKS



THE BASIC DESIGN AND OPERATION OF THE TYPICAL SCISSORS HOIST CONCENTRATES A TREMENDOUS AMOUNT OF FORCE DIRECTLY ON THE FRAME AND BODY LONG SILLS THIS MAY CAUSE BUCKLING OF THE CHASSIS OR BODY REMEMBER THE STRAW THAT BROKE THE CAMEL'S BACK? THE NET EFFECT ON YOUR TRUCK COULD BE THE SAME!
TELESCOPIC HOISTS ARE FINE PERFORMERS UNTIL THEY ARE FACED WITH UNEVEN LOADS A LOPSIDED LOAD CAN CAUSE THE CYLINDERS TO RISE AT DIFFERENT RATES
THE TWISTING ACTION THIS CREATES NOT ONLY CAN DAMAGE THE TRUCK FRAME, BUT IN EXTREME CASES RESULT IN A VEHICLE ROLL-OVER



The Scott Level Lift is a unique combination of a telescopic and scissors hoist designed to incorporate the advantages of both into one all-purpose hoist. It utilizes twin telescopic cylinders mounted within a new superior designed scissor frame, and is built to give maximum torsional strength in order to handle uneven loads

For auxiliary transmissions with offset drive shafts, the LL-2000 has wider cylinder clearance.

LOW PROFILE
The low profile of the Scott LL-1000 and LL-2000 eliminates the need to cut out body crossmembers in most cases

BUILT TO LAST
The Level Lift cylinders are high polished and hard-chromed for durability, long wear and anti-corrosion

VERSATILE
These hoists may be mounted in either direction for installation versatility The lower frame mounting brackets are designed to self-align the hoist when installing, eliminating the chance of misalignment. The hoist can be positioned closer to the truck frame crossmembers than comparable hoists.

HIGH STRENGTH-TO-WEIGHT RATIOS
The LL-1000 and LL-2000 have extremely high strength-to-weight ratios. The LL-2000 provides up to 30 tons of capacity with certain box and CT configurations and weighs only 960 lbs , plus 40 quarts of oil The LL-1000 weighs only 650 lbs , plus 27 quarts of oil. These weight savings mean greater pay loads and greater profit for you. Both hoists utilize a high-pressure hydraulic system with either a high-pressure piston pump or an optional high-pressure, high-volume gear pump, and supply 3300 PSI at recommended speeds

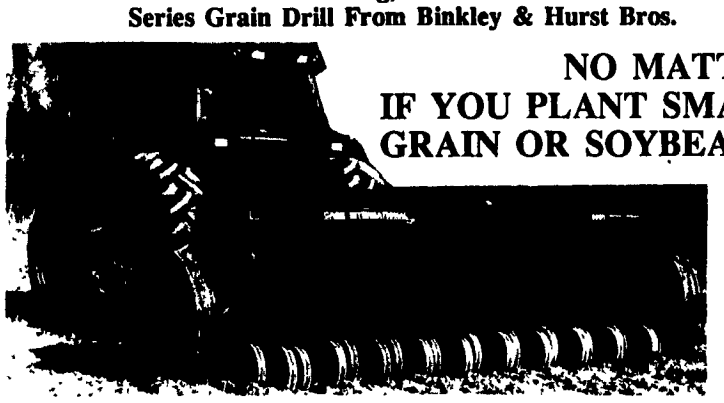
WE HAVE NEW CASE IH SOYBEAN SPECIAL DRILLS IN STOCK... BUY THE BEST!

If You Want Precision Seeding, You Need A New Case IH 5300 Series Grain Drill From Binkley & Hurst Bros.

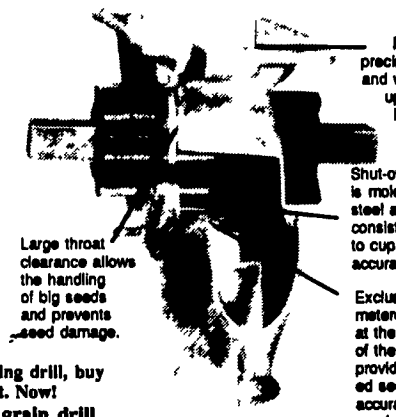


NO MATTER IF YOU PLANT SMALL GRAIN OR SOYBEANS!

A Special Feature For All Case IH Grain Drills

Fluted Roll Feed Cup Assemblies Save Seed and Save Time

A Known Fact That Case IH Die-Cast Zinc Alloy Feed Cups Are Superior To Other Competitive Brands Long Life Comes From Oil-Impregnated, Molded Sintered Metal Inserts Acts As A Positive Bearing Surface To Surround And Support The Fluted Roll



Flutes roll is precision-molded and won't freeze up during the idle periods.
Shut-off block is molded of steel and delivers consistent cup to cup seeding accuracy.
Large throat clearance allows the handling of big seeds and prevents seed damage.
Exclusive tapered metered edge at the bottom of the feed cup provides unexcelled seeding accuracy, even seed flow, and more uniform spacing.

For replacement parts for your existing drill, buy Case IH quality from our Parts Dept. Now!

Precision engineered to fit your grain drill exactly!

Why settle for inferior look-alikes when you can have genuine Case IH fluted roll feed cup assemblies — renowned for accuracy, smooth operation and long life.

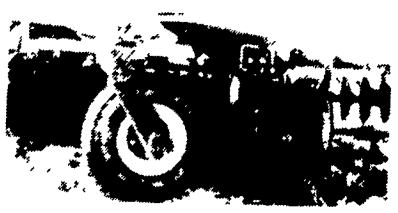
The Secret To A Level Field Is The Sunflower GAUGE WHEELS



A trademark on all FLEXIBLE Sunflower Discs is Front-Mounted Gauge Wheels. This Important Feature Prevents the Front Gangs Of The Wing Frame From Gouging, Buckling or Cutting Deeper Than The Other Gangs, Promoting A Level Ridge Or Furrow-Free Field. The Heavy Duty Gauge Wheel Features A 5-Bolt Hub And 8.00x10 Ply Tire and Tube.

DOUBLE OFFSET DESIGN

Eliminates center ridging while cutting the entire width at an even depth. Self-leveling hitch provides fore & aft leveling at any working depth.

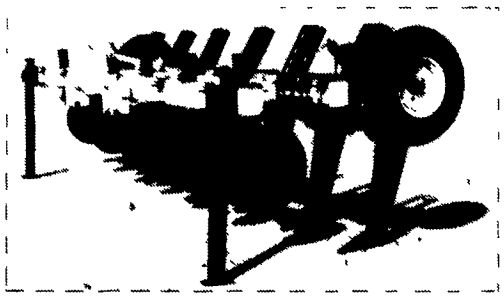
SUNFLOWER EQUIPMENT WILL EXCEED YOUR EXPECTATIONS!

AS YOU WELL KNOW - THE TWO MAIN CONSIDERATIONS RELATED TO YOUR 1993 CROPLAND ARE:
1. Eliminating Soil Hardpan
2. Maintaining Residue Cover

SUNFLOWER AND BINKLEY & HURST BROS. INC.

YOUR SOURCE FOR SATISFACTION!

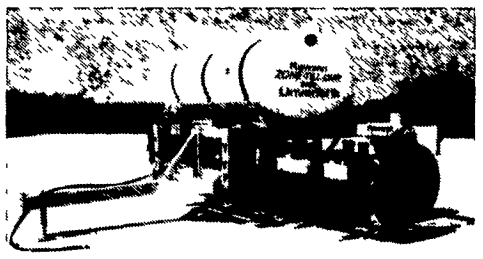
Maximum Compaction - Shattering Action, Minimal Surface Disturbance, Maximum Residue Cover - For More Information See Binkley & Hurst Bros. Today! Equipment Shown Is In Stock For Immediate Delivery!



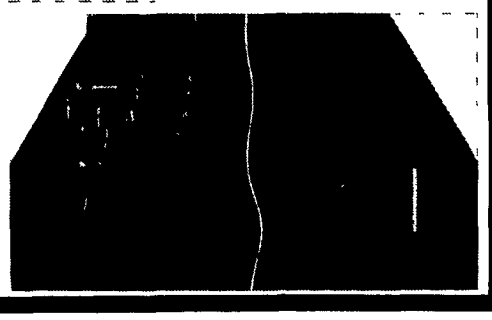
The Rawson Zone-Builder™ digs down and through hardpan to create a passage that allows plant roots and soil moisture to move freely into the subsoil.

Is Zone-Tillage an acceptable practice for conservaton compliance programs? Yes. It meets all requirements for soil conservation and residue management while still allowing the producer the opportunity for conditioned seedbed preparation.

The Rawson Zone-Till Cart is the quick switch to Zone-Till. It can be attached to your existing planter or drill in just minutes, without modification to your equipment.



In Stock Ready For Delivery



The ideal seed-placement position is on firm soil at the base of the tilled zone as shown above. Liquid or dry fertilizer can be placed on either side of the seed.

ZETOR TRACTOR DEMONSTRATIONS

See and Drive Three of these Great New ZETOR Tractors

APRIL 10 to APRIL 22
8 A.M. to 5 P.M. Daily

Right here next to our dealership

Don Macmillan, the author of John Deere Tractors & Equipment wrote about Hans Becherer, the Deere company chairman who announced, in late 1993, an agreement with ZETOR the Czech Republic tractor manufacturer to market eight models as a low price line for emerging markets, particularly in Asia, Australia and Central and South America. Most of these tractors ZETOR builds for these countries are painted green and have yellow wheels with John Deere on the hoods. ZETOR tractors must be good!

ZETOR Tractors & Parts are warehoused in the Harrisburg area for quick access.

For The Way You Farm Today

The advanced air-cooled engines in the 7600 Series eliminate 40% of the parts that cause engine downtime. No gaskets, no radiators, no water pumps, no hoses, no thermostats, no anti-freeze. Just hassle-free maintenance. Precision individual Bosch fuel injection pumps provide quicker starts, better fuel economy and greater productivity. These high performance 89 to 128 PTO hp tractors also come with 24F/12R transmissions for more versatility. With all-wheel drive and comfortable operator cabs, you get maximum efficiency. Plus, they're backed by a strong AGCO warranty – four years or 4,000 hours as standard. See your local AGCO Allis dealer today, and ask about flexible AGCO financing.

...a Boom Sprayer for multi-crop produce farmer that is affordable and will do the job from sweet corn to melon crops.

With features like...

- 24 ft. one-side boom that allows for 50ft. coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2ft. to 7 1/2 ft. for sweet corn.
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop.
- 280 PSI, 15 GPM diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup.
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height.
- Rubber mounted boom to absorb shock

With the high cost of chemicals, the right Sprayer is needed

Pump and Blast!

SERIES 5000 LAGOON PUMPS
32', 42' and 3 pt Hitch

Here's the answer to breaking up the thickest crusted pits or lagoons. the new Series 5000 Lagoon Pumps from Van Dale. They have the most impressive performance of any pump in their league, with agitation speed up to 5,000 G.P.M., to blast a stream of manure up to 100' or more!

The ability to work with smaller tractors (85 HP minimum) and operate in vertical wall pits from 8' to 14' deep, is what gives the Van Dale Series 5000 3-Point Hitch Pump the advantage over other pumps. Its short 16' length is extremely maneuverable, and the unique double joint drive shaft provides excellent articulation for up to 60° pumping angles. This allows you to pump different depth pits with one pump. And the 3-point hitch pump will easily operate in sloped wall lagoons as well.

CHECK OUT THESE FEATURES
√ Hydraulic Control from the Tractor Seat
√ Aggressive, 28" High Pressure Impeller
√ Dependable Bearing Assembly
√ Heavy-Duty Drive Shaft
√ Adjustable Nozzle

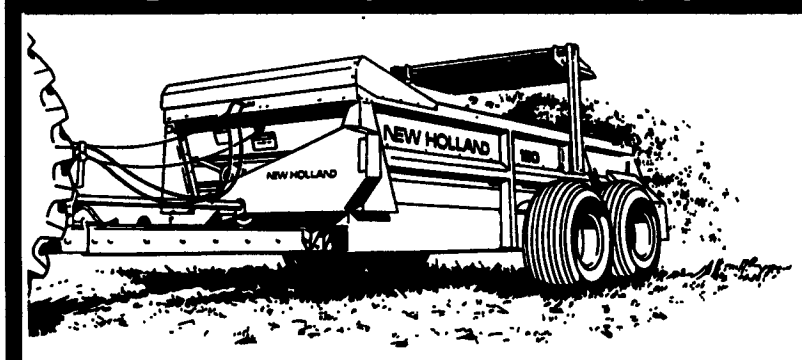
CAPACITY PLUS



NEW HOLLAND STRONG BOX

Here's New Holland performance in a new size...the Model 190, with 400 cu. ft. capacity (368 bushels).

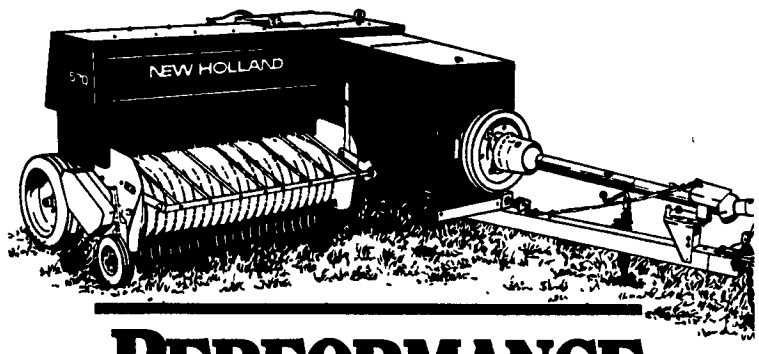
Consider these features competition just can't match:

- Exclusive Bonded Protection 12-year warranty on floor and sides
- Exclusive HDPE floor made from 1700 recycled plastic jugs
- Unique "floating-floor" design reduces stress
- Best spread pattern in the industry

Compare the Model 190. Stop by today.

NEW HOLLAND

BEST-IN-CLASS



PERFORMANCE AND CAPACITY

The "570" New Holland square baler brings together performance, reliability and capacity.

- Rotary feeding system. Adds consistency and bale quality.
- Faster plunger stroke. 93 SPM. A Cat. six drive-line and increased slip clutch setting add capacity.
- Wide Super-Sweep™ pickup. 65" wide to get those big scattered windrows.
- Stronger materials. In bale case and plunger.
- Gear-driven tying mechanisms. Wire or twine.

Ask for a demonstration of the New Holland "570" baler...the best-in-class square baler.

Brillion YIELD ENHANCER

TILLAGE TOOLS AND SEEDERS

THE PULVERIZER LEADER

Brillion has manufactured pulverizers since 1895 and has long been the industry leader

Brillion Pulverizers provide the ideal seedbed by crushing clods, eliiminating air pockets and firming the soil for better sloil-seed contact. This allows moisture to be drawn into the plant by capillary action The loose surface mulch retards evaporation and conserves moisture. Brillion's ductile iron wheels are 2 5 times stronger than gray, cast-iron wheels used by other manufacturers and carry a five-year limited warranty.

The Real Fat Problem

The trend to leaner meat, including closer trimming of external fat, means that intake of fat from meats has been declining. The biggest problems of fat intake lie with increasing consumption of fat-laden snack foods, baked goods and desserts and with increasing use of fats and oils. A USDA report shows that average use of salad and cooking oils increased 66% from 1970 to 1992, and average use of shortening increased by almost a third.

Focus on Food Safety

Concern and confusion regarding food safety continue to plague the Beef Industry. To address these concerns, the Pennsylvania Beef Council has launched a series of educational programs aimed at consumer thought leaders and public health officials.

In March, the Pennsylvania Beef Council cosponsored a Hazard Analysis Critical Point (HACCP) Foodservice Seminar for local heathcare professionals in Harrisburg. Food safety remains a top concern among dietitians and hospital food service personnel, and the seminar led to an opportunity to present a second food safety program in May during the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Dietetic Association.

Realizing the important role public health department officials play in providing food safety information to consumers, the PBC has instituted an aggressive educational campaign entitled the Public Health Initiative. The first element of the Initiative consists of providing information to county health department officials across the Commonwealth. One recent Beef Countil mailing resulted in thousands of requests for educational materials. To expand the informational base, brochures are also being sent to WIC program personnel and county extension agents.

Additionally, copies of a recently produced video entitled "Parenting in the 90's" was distributed to Extension Family Living Agents in February. Three out of four segments in the video addresss food safety issues and discuss preventing food borne illnesses.

While food safety is a critical issue facing the industry, diet/health concerns among many consumers also continue to represent a marketing challenge. Continuing a successful program initiative last year, the PBC works closely with medical schools and physican groups to strengthen the nutritional knowledge of healthcare providers.

Dr. Kris Clark, a respected sports nutrition authority, will address physicians at Hershey Medical Center during a combined Prediatrics/Medical student nutrition symposium cosponsored by the PBC and Hershey Medical Center. Clark, who will discuss the importance of meat in the diets of teenage athletes at the nutrition symposium will also meet with local school district coaches and health teachers following the seminar.

Several additional physician seminars are currently being planned with teaching hospitals in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Altoona. Programs will be "partnered" with other health organizations to both add credibility and extend program dollars.

Vegetarians Do Eat Meat!

National Study Reveals What Americans Really Eat

Is vegetarianism a real trend?

A question of utmost concern to many cattle producers, especially with all the reports that suggests the number of vegetarians is on the rise. The Eating in America Today II dietary intake and attitude report conducted by MRCA Information Services and funded in part by Pennsylvania cattle producers, found that most self-proclaimed meat avoiders and vegetarians do eat meat!

Although meat's role in the diet has been changing, we're still a nation of omnivores. More than 99% of the population eats meat. Less than 1% did not consume any meat during the 14-day period recorded for the study. still, about 5% classify themselves as "meat avoiders" (say they never eat meat) and 2% classify themseves as "vegetarians" (always on a vegetarian diet). Although vegetarinism may appear to be an increasing trend, in actuality, it is not.

The checkoff-funded study also found that most Americans don't follow the government's Food Guide Pyramid, but eat a diet that resembles a pyramid ready to topple-structurally unsound and top-heavy from too few fruits and vegetables and too many fats, oils and sweets. The Meat Group is the only food group consumed within the recommended dietary guidelines. Average daily meat intake by self-reported "meat eaters" is 3.5 oz., self-reported meat avoiders is 2.3 oz., and self-reported vegetarians is 2.3 oz.

In addition, meat eaters, avoiders and vegetarians have the same pattern of caloric intake by food groups. All segments get the most calories from the Bread Group; followed by the Meat Group; Fats, Oils and Sweets; Milk Group; Vegetable Group and the Fruit Group. The study found that all three segments consume more than the recommended 30% of calories from fat: meat eaters 37%; meat avoiders, 34%: vegetarians, 35%. On average, the meat eaters' saturated fat intake is 23.9 grams per day, meat avoiders is 19 grams; and vegetarians is 22.4 grams.

Perceptions about meat consumption:

The clamor of change in the American diet has lead to confusion about the role of meat. According to the EAT II report, 52% of adults disagree with the statement, "Adults should eliminate meat from their diets," while 25% agreed with the statement and about 23% didn't know. "Eat II clearly shows that some people simple aren't aware of what they're actually eating," said Barbara G. Ford, R.D., M.P.H. coordinator of health and nutrition programs of the Pennsylvania Beef Council." The study also indicates that consumers are confused about meat's role in the diet."

'Because there is a general misunderstanding about nutrition, there is a significant dietary imbalance. Some people think they should cut back on meat to avoid fat, but this isn't a wise strategy because lean meat provides many essential nutrients," said Ford. "Increasing the consumption of fruits and vegetables makes more sense."

The Eating in America Today II report was funded in part by the Pennsylvania beef producers and conducted by MRCA Informationa Services. It is the only survey that links food consumption, nutrient intake and attitudes of the same consumers.

BEEF
IT'S WHAT'S FOR DINNER®

All cattle sales are subject to checkoff

Here's a reminder. Every time a bovine changes ownership $1.00 must be checked off (deducted from the sale price) and remitted to the Pennsylvania Beef Council. The seller is responsible for paying while the buyer should collect and remit it to the state beef council.

The law says it makes no difference what breed the animal is, how old it is, or how it is sold. Transactions involving all of the following are included: All private treaty sales, purebred sales, dairy cattle sales, club calf sales and cattle for export.

Cattle resold within 10 days of purchase do not require a checkoff on the resale if the reseller completes a non-producer status form and provides this to the buyer. The buyer must include this non-producers form and information on the Monthly Report Form when reporting this transaction to PBC. If you have questions about whether cattle are subject to the checkoff, contact PBC at 1-717-545-6000. Thank you for your cooperation. Checkoff dollars fund the many consumer demand building programs conducted by the Pennsylvania Beef Council.

Ford receives Fellow designation

Barbara Ford, R.D., MPH, consulting dietitian for the Pennsylvania Beef Council, has been named a charter Fellow of the American Dietetic Association (FADA). In its initial year, the applicants were evaluated by their peers based on education, work experience, professional achievements, professional role positions, professional role contacts and approach to practice. The fellow designation certifies registered dietitians who practice at an advanced level and who demonstrate exceptional professional abilities and expertise. Only one hundred and twenty-one dietitians nationwide have received the Fellow designation.

- Revolutionary 3 lug/pitch design improves traction and ride
- Computer designed "natural" shape casing improves body life
- Radial construction provides better traction, lower fuel and overall cost

DYNA TORQUE II

High Traction efficiency, Long Tire Wear
- Excellent drawbar pull with long-bar, short-bar lugs for improved traction
- Designed for improved stability and roadability, plus reduced vibration
- Strong angle-braced lugs have self-cleaning design

GOODYEAR
#1 in Tires

MONTHLY MAINTENANCE TIP

Sidehill Work

When working back and forth on the side of a hill, the rear tractor tires will alternately be on the down side. It is recommended that the inflation pressure in both rear tires be increased by 4 PSI under such conditions. When one tire is continuously operated in the down slope position, it is only necessary to increase the inflation pressure in that tire.

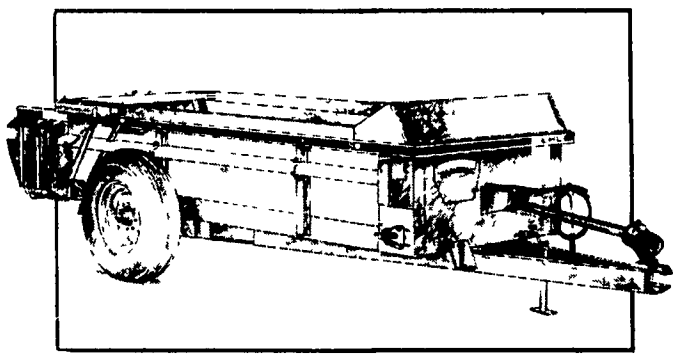
GEHL®

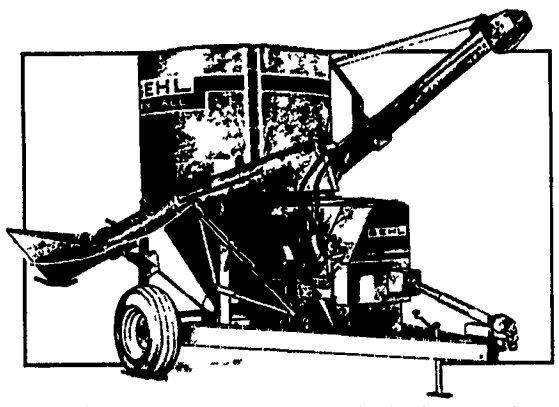
EVEN WHEN IT'S EMPTY...IT'S LOADED



When you're checking out box-type manure spreaders, look to Gehl for a better spreader! Gehl box spreaders are available in five sizes ranging from 135 to 425 bushel heaped capacities. Gehl box spreaders deliver these and many more advanced features:

- Gehl-Tuff flooring is slippery so manure slides out easily.
- T-bar apron chains are extra-strong for durability.
- Galvanized steel sides are more corrosion resistant
- Single or tandem axle models available.
- 10-year warranty on sides and floors.
- Hydraulic apron drive (optional) to match your specific application needs.

THE #1 NAME IN FEEDMAKING



Gehl Mix-All® portable grinder-mixers have been leading the industry for over 30 years. Now the new Gehl Roller Mixer combines proven Mix-All features with a commercial-grade roller mill to produce the best possible feed for your livestock.

- Total hydraulic control – Self-contained hydraulic system allows infinite speeds to power the discharge conveyor, unloading auger and in-feed attachments.
- Remote controls – Operate the unloading conveyor from the tractor seat or from the rear of the machine.
- Electronic scales – For precise ration weighing.
- Customize your machine – With a wide variety of options and attachments.

BUFFALO WINGS AND BIOTECHNOLOGY

Dr. Roland M. Leach, Jr.
Professor Of Poultry Science

In science, as well as everyday life, we do not appreciate the importance of things until we have to do without them.

At Penn State, we have been studying a small protein found in many cells called FGF. Although it is found in the most primitive forms of life, FGF was discovered only 20 years ago.

Once discovered, it was quickly recognized that FGF was present in many cells in the body, including cartilage cells. The latter observation led to our interest in FGF and its possible relationship to normal skeletal development as well as skeletal abnormalities that are prevalent in rapidly growing broilers and turkeys.

In normal tissue, we have found FGF to appear, disappear, and reappear. In tibial dyschondroplasia (TD) it disappears at the wrong time, which may account for the development of the TD lesion. Therefore, we are continuing our research in an attempt to gain a better understanding of what controls the appearance and disappearance of FGF in skeletal tissue.

Speaking of abnormalities, we now know how fast food restaurants may someday be able to triple their supplies of buffalo wings through the application of FGF biotechnology.

Information about FGF is also mushrooming because of its importance in other areas of science. It may play a key role in the development of mammary and prostate cancer. It plays an essential role in embryonic development with inappropriate disappearance being responsible for many birth defects and the most prevalent form of human dwarfism.

Because FGF appears very early in embryonic development, embryologists have been conducting some clever experiments with FGF. Implanting FGF-soaked beads in specific locations at early stages of embryonic development leads to the development of extra limbs.

Site of implantation determines whether the limb is a wing or a leg. With the rising popularity of buffalo wings, we can readily see the application of this technology.

We could develop chickens which produce six buffalo wings instead of two. Suppose some entrepreneur develops a big demand for buffalo drums. This could lead to chickens looking like centipedes running around the broiler house.

Ratite Seminar April 22-23

MATAMORAS (Pike Co.)—As spring draws near, the 1995 NERA Spring Seminar on April 22-23 here in Matamoras is just around the corner.

An interesting line-up of professional speakers will address the issues which concern ratite farmers. Speakers include:

•John A. Crawford—Managing Editor of the Ostrich News. Mr. Crawford will be discussing our transitional market, inroads being made to insure a future for the industry, and how we as investors can profit in the commercial market.

•Vern Bracket—Creola Bird Ranch. Mr. Bracket will be discussing how to go about selling our birds and our industry.

•Dan Lyons—Lyons Ostrich Ranch. Mr. Lyons' interest is in the development of a northeastern cooperative in association with a USDA certified slaughterhouse to give farmers a convenient avenue to get their birds to commercial production.

•Zoogen—The Zoogen corporation will be represented by Lloyd Gibson who will discuss ratite genetics of the future and line-breeding.

•Purina Mills—As one of the Patron Sponsors of the seminar the Purina Mills Corporation will be represented by Bruce Stewart, District Manager. Mr. Stewart will be talking about how Purina is progressing along with the ratite industry to meet the needs of the commercial market. Mr. Stewart will also touch on the development of specific feeds and be available for questions.

•Alan Strickland—Pharmacist. Mr. Strickland has been involved in the research and development of Emu Oil in commercial products.

•Kenneth Copans, C.P.A.—Mr. Copans is an expert on the tax benefits of ratite farming not only because he is an exceptionally smart accountant (and he really is!) but also because he owns the big birds himself.

•Michael Reeves—Outback Secrets International. Mr. Reeves will be discussing the great success of Emu Oil products in the U.S., especially in sports medicine, and how this relates to the acceptance of our industry.

•Agway Inc./Muenster Milling—Patron Sponsors. Agway Inc. has recently announced the signing of a licensing agreement with Muenster Milling of Muenster, Texas. Agway will manufacture and distribute the Perfect Balance brand of Ratite feeds throughout the Northeast via the network of Agway Retail dealers. Representing Muenster Milling will be Dr. Tim Mason who will be speaking on the nutrition needed for ratites entering into the commercial market. Representing Agway will be Jim Sours, Agway Product Manager and Lucy Gillichbauer of De Frank Llamas and Emus to answer questions about Muenster Feed.

On April 22 at 7:30 p.m., there will be a social gathering with cash bar and ratite meat hors d'oeuvres available to all seminar registrants.

Bull Enters Select Sires Proving Program

PLAIN CITY, Ohio—7H5147 Plushanski BT Yankee-ET, a young sire bred by Charles Plushanski, Kutztown, Pa., has been chosen to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sire sampling system.

Based on his outstanding pedigree, 7H5147 has been selected as one of 200 Holstein bulls from throughout the United States to enter the program in 1995.

7H5147 is one of the early Belltone sons to be sampled at Select Sires. His dam is a Very Good (88) Ned Boy daughter with a tremendous 4-1 record of 41,676M 5.0% 2,072F 3.5% 1,463P in 365 days. This Dam of Merit has impressive genetic values of +64PTAP and +.12%PTAP. The second dam, scored Very Good (88), has two records over 33,000M, 1,700F and 1,050P. She is also a Gold Medal Dam and Dam of Merit. The third dam in this elite pedigree is Plushanski Chief Faith. This Gold Medal Dam is scored Excellent (94-4E) with an Excellent mammary that has produced several records over 32,000M and 1,600F. This cow family is noted for its consistent transmission of high components and has many sires in A.I.

ABSOLUTE REAL ESTATE AUCTION

Wed., April 19, 1995

1:00 PM

Sylvania, Pa at intersection of Route 6 and the Porter Road (LR 08045)
Route 6, 11 miles east of Mansfield and 3 miles west of Troy, Bradford County, PA

REAL ESTATE

Consists of 26,213.8 square feet (0.602 Ac.) per survey completed October 31, 1986. Fronts on U.S. Route 6. Property more fully described in the Bradford County Court House in Deed Book 699 at page 694.

Situated on the property is a frame and block building currently being used as a garage, show room and craft shop. It is built in three sections, all one story with varying ceiling heights, the floors are cement, walls are paneled and ceilings are panel or drywall. The building is heated by a natural gas forced air system. It was built in approximately 1960 and contains 4,950 square feet of usable space. The property is easily accessible and has good visibility from the highway. There is an existing on site well and septic system. 1994 taxes were $820.56. Topography is level. Steve and Lisa Mellott

Mercersburg, PA
Franklin County

The Mellott farm is located in southern Franklin County, and is made up of about 450 acres of ground being utilized mainly for corn and alfalfa haylage. Steve and his wife, Lisa and their children milk about 100 cows. They also care for about 100 replacements.

Lisa and Steve Mellott

Bunk balanced for 75 lbs. Milk

43½ lbs.	alfalfa haylage	$52/ton	$1.13/cow
13 lbs.	corn silage	$26/ton	$.17/cow
18 lbs.	high moisture shelled corn	$75/ton	$.68/cow
.57 lbs.	buffer	$330/ton	$.09/cow
4½ lbs.	Purina 36% Concentrate	$279/ton	$.63/cow

4½ lbs. Purina Super EXT

$235/ton $.53/cow

Total Cost/cow/day $3.23/cow

The Mellotts have averaged 80 lbs. of milk/cow/day over the last year and feed cost/cwt. of milk is $4.04

Listed below are some of Steve and Lisa's DHIA records while feeding with the Purnia Program:

Date	Cow#	RHA Milk	%Fat	Fat Lbs.	% Protein	Protein Lbs.
9-85	99.2	18,646	3.7	685	3.1	575
9-89	122.8	20,191	3.8	759	3.2	645
9-91	123.6	20,754	3.7	771	3.2	672
9-92	130.5	22,636	3.7	839	3.1	722
9-94	122.8	23,566	3.8	896	3.2	750
3-95	115.2	25,789	3.7	948	3.2	821

The Mellotts have fed Purina feeds for many years and when asked why this is what Steve shared:

- "I feed Purina because of the consistent results I've gotten."
- "I've been to the Purina research farm and have seen how Purina gets its nutritional numbers for dairy cows. I feel when they come out with new products its to help improve my bottom line - not just a marketing gimmick."
- "I've had good Purina representatives to work with over the years."

Thanks Steve and Lisa for feeding Purina. We Wish you continued success in the dairy business

Dairy Council Celebrates Seventy-Fifth Anniversary At April Annual Meeting

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.)—On Thursday, April 13, 1995 several hundred guests are invited to attend Dairy Council's 75th Anniversary celebration at the Buck Hotel in Feasterville, PA. For three quarters of a century this local Dairy Council unit, funded by the dairy farmers in the region, has provided nutrition education to the tri-state area of southeastern and south central Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, and the state of Delaware. Joining the organization's Board of Directors on this occasion will be dairy, agricultural, educational, and health professional leaders who have worked closely with Dairy Council over the years.

According to Jan Stanton, Dairy Council's executive director, this meeting's program will highlight the three threads which have woven a pattern of success for this organization over the last seven and a half decades—creativity, scientific integrity, and professional alliances. Grover Silcox, one of the Delaware Valley's most innovative actors and an Emmy award winning comedy writer, will be the master of ceremonies for the anniversary program. There will be a special appearance by Dairy Council's own "Geraldine," the famous fiberglass cow, who has helped teach children about farming and dairy products for over 30 years. Many of the organization's original songs that date back to the 1920s are being arranged and will be performed during the program.

Jan Stanton pointed out that it is in one of Dairy Council's earliest annual reports —1939—that we first read of this organization's commitment to produce scientifically based nutrition education materials and services: "Carefully—let us repeat—the Dairy Council tells its story. Checking and rechecking its facts and figures before presenting them to the public, it is doubly sure that when it speaks, it speaks authoritatively. It makes no over-statements that must permit of modification on close examination. It makes no under-statements that would cause facts to lose their value. For these reasons the Dairy Council has acquired an enviable reputation among educators everywhere for the absolute accuracy of its reports and its real and thorough knowledge of the field."

This supplement will feature many of the creative projects, materials and programs Dairy Council developed. It will highlight the partnerships formed with National Dairy Council, professional associations and institutions in the tri-state area, and vital contacts with the media.

A Message Of Gratitude To The Dairy Industry

JAN B. STANTON
Dairy Council Executive Director

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.)—The dairy industry has always provided the financial foundation for Dairy Council's work of nutrition education. Our earliest records state "that in February 1921 voluntary deductions were made at the rate of 1 cent per cwt. from farmers, and the dealers who bought the farmers' milk also paid 1 cent. This 2 cents for each 100 pounds of milk from cooperating farmers and dealers gave the Dairy Council its financial support."

Today, our dairy farmers through mandate give 15 cents per cwt. to promotion and within this framework, nutrition education. With this support, today as in our past, we are committed to working creatively and productively with the trust placed in us.

A Message of Gratitude To The Dairy Industry

In the following chart we can see a comparison of how Dairy Council worked yesterday and today. It is apparent that the similarities of how this organization has worked over the years far out-weigh the differences.

Yesterday...	Today...
In the 1920s, Dairy Council gave nutrition classes in schools to help address the problem of under-nourished children.	Dairy Council staff works to promote school breakfast in the schools—an issue which addresses the problem of hungry children.
In the 1930s, Dairy Council nutritionists logged their first radio broadcasts.	In 1993, Dairy Council staff logged over 27 hours of free radio and 15 minutes of free television time, reaching nearly 29 million consumers.
In the 1940s, Dairy Council provided defense plants with posters on good nutrition.	In 1990, Dairy Council's video, Barbershop Talk, was ordered for the American military serving in Desert Storm.
In the 1950s, Dairy Council helped initiate the Dairy Princess Program in Pennsylvania.	Today, Dairy Council nutritionists help, through workshops, to prepare the Pennsylvania dairy princesses to include nutrition information in their presentations.
In the 1960s, "Geraldine" began to spread her nutrition message.	In 1994, Geraldine became a television star when she made a public plea for a new home where she can continue to help teach young children about nutrition.
In 1972, the first Dairy Council school curriculum, Big Ideas, was published.	In 1993 - 1994, Dairy Council offered the new curriculum, Nutrition It's Elementary, to all second and fourth grade teachers in our service area.
In 1985, an ice cream parlor and children's theater were opened at the Philadelphia Zoo.	On June 21, 1992, Dairy Council opened the new Dairy Corner in the Philadelphia Children's Zoo.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and Dairy Council, Inc.

Partners for 75 Years

For 75 years, Atlantic Dairy Cooperative has shared a special bond with Dairy Council, Inc. in supporting nutrition education and dairy promotion programs. It was Atlantic's predecessor, the Inter-Sate Milk Producers' Association, along with the Philadelphia milk dealers, who organized Dairy Council through a joint venture in 1920.

Dairy Council's original functions were health education, publicity and quality control. The organization worked closely with area school systems, teaching nutrition and health education programs. Dairy Council also participated in milk promotion and advertising. And during World War II, staff members helped the effort by selling war bonds.

Much of the credit for early milk quality control measures goes to the original Dairy Council. In the early 1920s, the city of Philadelphia did not control the quality of milk coming into the city. This soon became the job of Dairy Council through its Quality Control Department. The department, initially charged with educational work to improve milk quality, was organized in early 1924 and was given the duty of inspecting farms, milk plants and milk supplies. The quality control work was eventually turned over to the Inter-State Association.

Today, Dairy Council continues its work primarily in health and nutrition education, working with school groups and area businesses. A major undertaking is an educational exhibit at the Philadelphia Zoo, which features milking demonstrations with live cows donated by Atlantic Dairy Cooperative members.

The partnership between Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and Dairy Council is still strong after 75 years. The two organizations continue to join forces to address public concerns about dairy and nutrition issues. They jointly maintain the Philadelphia Zoo dairy exhibit and work together to keep the farm community and general public informed of issues affecting their health and livelihood.

We wish our friend and partner a Happy 75th Anniversary and continued success in the years to come.

Dairy Council Founded In 1920 In Response To The Needs Of The Times

"In World War I, poor nutrition was found through a physical examination system to be principally responsible for American soldiers' defects People had to be educated in proper nutrition principles Vitamin importance was just then being recognized by research workers. Some food carriers were believed to be high in nutritive value

Philadelphia Dairy Council started out to promote an increase in the consumption of not only milk, but also very definitely of other nutritional foods (both of which are necessary for a sound nutritional program) Milk was not to be over-emphasized

Your nutrition girls are free to conduct their own sound program without feeling that their initiative is stifled, so long as what they teach is sound and in tacit accordance with Dairy Council Criterion "

Mr. C. I. Cohee, Dairy Council's board president, in a talk to the staff September 8, 1945

The founding of Dairy Council (originally called the Philadelphia Inter-State Dairy Council) was due in large part to the efforts of F P Willits, president of Inter-State Milk Producers' Association and later Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture

In 1915, National Dairy Council had been founded in Chicago to nationally promote knowledge about the food value of dairy throughout the land It was soon discovered, however, that working only nationally was not the best way of reaching this objective. A plan was developed that local Dairy Council units should be formed across the country to help in this mission In some instances these units would be formed within state lines; in others it was seen as more appropriate to build them around milk markets.

Within these guidelines, in 1920 Mr. Willits worked to establish a Pennsylvania-based Dairy Council, funded through dairy farmers and distributors each paying one cent per hundred pounds of milk produced or purchased. Following "the milk to market," this new organization would work throughout the tri-state area of southeastern and south central Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey, and the state of Delaware

Activities Outlined In 1920 Through Which Original Goals Would Be Accomplished

Development of sound nutritional practice
Health and food demonstrations
Dramatic presentations carrying a health message
Motion pictures
Newspaper and trade press
Suitable literature, posters, etc.

As the first step in fulfilling their nutrition education mandate, Dairy Council staff met with the superintendent of Philadelphia Schools and offered to provide a pint of free milk to undernourished children in the schools A nutritional survey of children in the Philadelphia Public Schools showed that there were about 20,000 children who were 13% or more underweight During the first year of this work, Dairy Council contributed over $13,000 worth of free milk and conducted nutrition classes. This was a forerunner to Pennsylvania's School Lunch Program

Their first year in operation, Dairy Council reached over 280,000 school students through nutrition classes, plays, brochures, and posters. Dairy Council established its Dramatic Department, writing and producing its own health plays and original songs.

One popular play, The Milk Fairies was staged in nearly every school in Philadelphia.

Dairy Council Launches Milk Quality Control Program

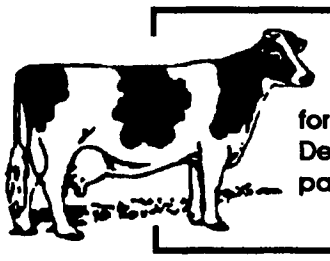
In the 1920s, Dairy Council worked with the Philadelphia Board of Education to help establish nutrition guidelines for all school children underweight or not. The Board of Education said that they were not willing to promote the sale of milk in the school system unless it was better treated (sanitarily) than the Philadelphia milk supply was at present. Dairy Council responded that it would set aside 1/3 of its funds to improve the quality of Philadelphia milk. The Board of Education then agreed to cooperate in the promotion of nutritional programs in the schools, including milk with lunches and snacks.

This launched Dairy Council's quality control program. Mr. C. I. Cohee was "lent" to Dairy Council from DuPont's Agricultural Department to stabilize this new program. The Dairy Council staff often went to the dairy farms, giving demonstrations on milking, straining, and cooling milk In 1923, Dairy Council hosted the World's Dairy Congress, attended by 1,000 dairymen worldwide. In 1924, two Dairy Council representatives went abroad at the request of the Milk Publicity Council of England to assist in beginning activities there.

By the mid-twenties, Dairy Council had 48 employees. From the beginning, this new organization used paid advertising techniques. As the other nutrition work of Dairy Council increased in volume and importance, it was felt that this type of paid publicity could not be continued profitably and was eliminated. However, the groundwork for using local advertising in the dairy industry was established in this area, and continues to be an important part of dairy marketing.

Helping the dairy farmer through a Milk Quality Control Program was an early part of Dairy Council's history.

Advertising, both on a national and regional level, served as a way to get the message out concerning milk and its importance to the total diet and good health.



In 1920, farmers were receiving $3.22 for every hundred pounds of all milk sold. Delivered to the homes, the consumer was paying 33 cents per half gallon.

Strength in numbers, It's one of the benefits you receive when you belong to a group, especially a group like the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau.

Representing more than 26,000 farming family members from every segment of the industry across the state, PFB serves the collective interests of its membership - everything from regulatory issues to the selection of health care coverage.

Membership in the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau means you'll also receive the same comprehensive, affordable health care coverage provided to our members by two of the most widely recognized names in Pennsylvania - Capital Blue Cross and Pennsylvania Blue Shield. Your coverage includes:

- First dollar coverage for 365 in-hospital days
- One million dollar Major Medical coverage with a $500 deductible.
- Dependent children covered to age 19, or 23 if a full-time student
- Mail order prescription drug program
- Optional dental/vision coverage

So, no matter your specialty - cattle or crops, nursery or dairy - you'll benefit from the experience and strength in numbers that your membership in PFB includes.

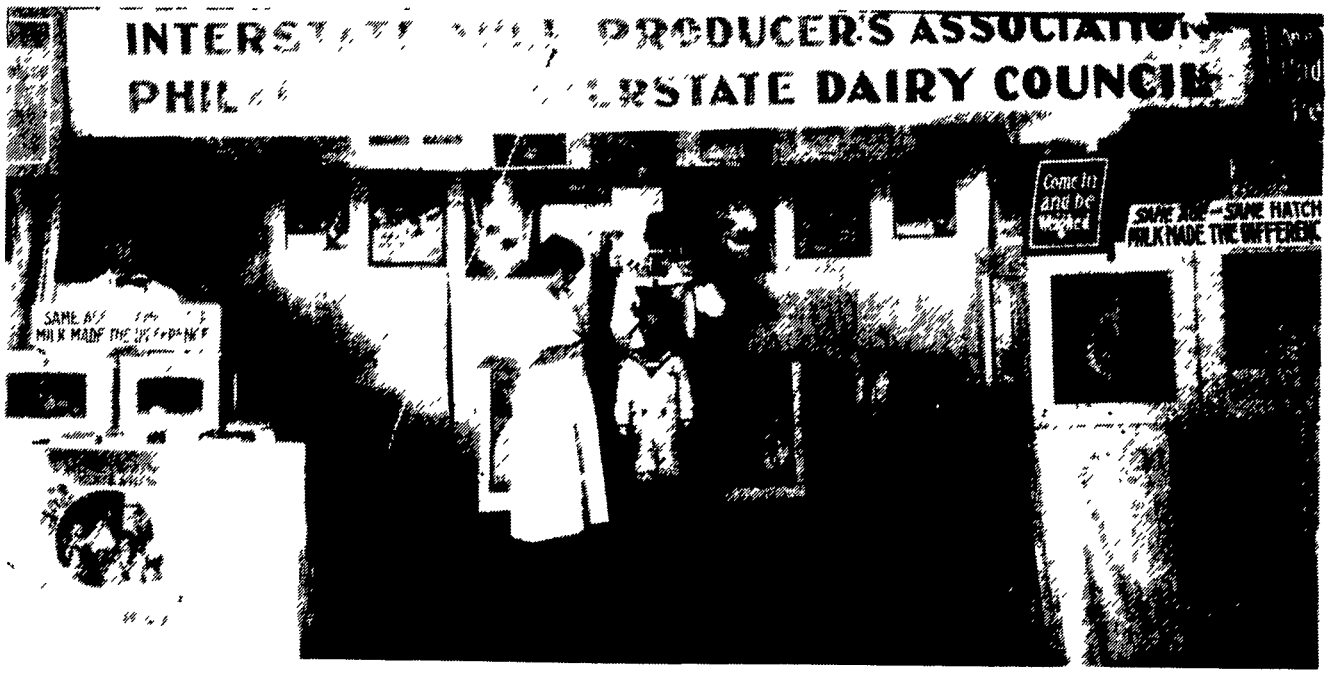
Dairy Council In The 1930s
The Depression Years



Underweight children were a major problem in the 20s when Dairy Council was founded and became more acute during the Depression years. The staff worked closely with the Philadelphia Public Schools to provide free milk to undernourished children. Records from those early years documented the success of this work, and tracked the weight gain of the children.

At the beginning of this decade, Dairy Council combined its nutrition and dramatic staff into one department of health education The staff responded to the needs brought by the Depression by continuing to provide free milk to school students In the 1933-1934 school year, 87% of the school population in the Philadelphia area was reached by Dairy Council through plays, stories, lectures, etc.

The Dairy Council "ladies" developed literature teaching how to feed a family on a very low budget Nutrition posters were developed by Dairy Council for the major department stores in the Philadelphia area—Bonwit Teller, Gimbel's, Lit Brothers, John Wanamaker, and Strawbridge & Clothier Free milk was provided to their undernourished employees

In 1935, DCI placed an exhibit at the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia which had both motion and sound. This exhibit traced the steps in the modern transportation of the city's milk supply.

In 1936 alone, 327 school teachers came to the Dairy Council office to ask for assistance with their school health programs

In 1933, the first Dairy Council puppet shows were developed. The first show was presented in Trenton, NJ.

The puppets became more popular as the decade progressed and flourished in the 40s and 50s.

The ingenuity and creativity shown by the staff continued in the form of literature, plays, and music.

In 1936, Dairy Council established a "Dairy Dell" at Philadelphia's Franklin Institute. The first year, over 500,000 people bought health sandwiches, gingerbread, milk, and ice cream at this model lunchroom.

This same year a dairy barn with live cows was opened at the Philadelphia Zoo. More than 100,000 visitors flocked in a single day to view the bovine residents. This began a working relationship with the Philadelphia Zoo which has continued into the 90s.

Staff members were on top of the new technology, and in 1932 did their first radio broadcasts. In 1933, posters were distributed to point of purchase sites — such as drug store fountains for mirror posting. By 1936, 600 drug stores displayed Dairy Council posters advocating the use of milk shakes and milk drinks.

Throughout this decade, consumption of milk was higher in Philadelphia than in the remainder of the state, and 50% higher than the average in the United States.

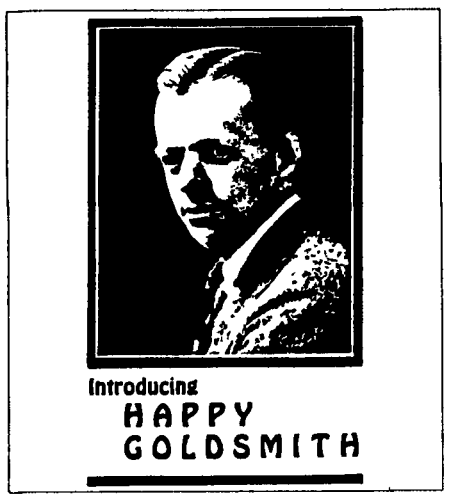
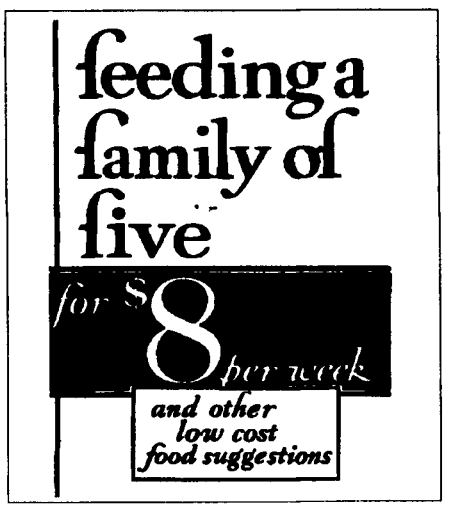
Creativity On A Very Reduced Budget

During this decade, Dairy Council continued its work with educators and health care leaders.



Happy Goldsmith, a national lecturer on children's health, was brought to area schools by Dairy Council. For eight years he spoke continuously in the junior and senior high schools of this country on the simple rules of healthy eating.



"When money is scarce careful planning, thoughtful marketing, and skill in preparation of meals are necessary if you are to live within a small food income without lowering the resistance of your family to disease."

There were national celebrities, such as Shirley Temple, who endorsed milk as a healthy product, especially for children.

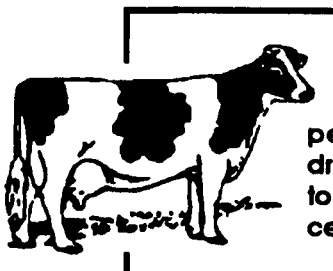
Because of the surplus of butter in the early 30s, Dairy Council even produced brochures for the farmer's wife, telling her the advantages of using butter with every meal.

During the Depression, the Dairy Council pointed out in their materials not only that dairy foods were nutritional, but also, economical.

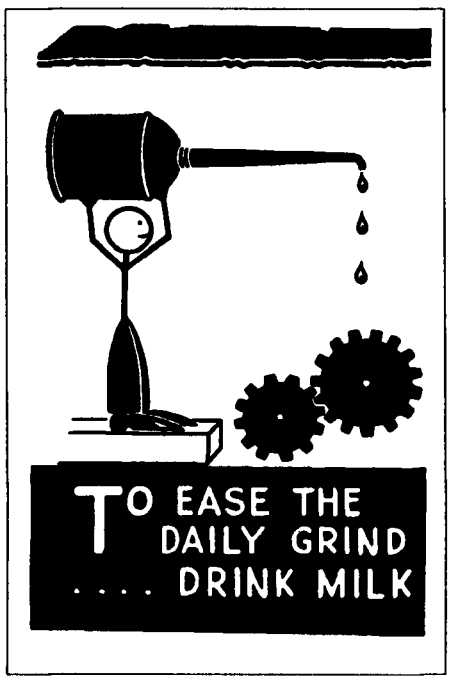
"Butter is economical because you get more for your money in butter than in any other food fat--flavor, energy, and liberal amounts of two important vitamins."



In 1930, farmers were receiving $2.21 per hundred pounds for all milk sold, a drop of 30 percent in 10 years. Delivered to the homes, the consumer was paying 28 cents per half gallon.

Dairy Council Marches Through The 1940s

Before Dairy Council employee Robert McKinley donned his World War II uniform, he is seen speaking to a group of high school students.



"This is a cooperative type of organization. We are to feel that Dairy Council is ours as much as any other contributing staff member's. Dairy Council is custodian of trust funds put up by farmers and dealers with responsibility of carrying out this program of sound nutrition according to our capabilities for which we all have been carefully selected Every staff member (whether of dramatic, nutrition, or office staffs) is to feel that the Philadelphia Dairy Council is a democratic family." Mr. C. I. Cohee in a talk to Dairy Council staff, September 8, 1945

Dairy Council became involved in the military effort by purchasing war bonds. Robert McKinley, one of the key staff members at the time, was called to duty in the U.S. Marine Corps. The remaining staff kept busy with the war cause.

In 1942 alone, 451 plants were supplied with nutrition posters—reaching over 360,000 employees. One Dairy Council staff person in 1943 spent almost her entire time making new contacts and maintaining old ones in defense plants.

The staff also furnished instructors for cadet nurse classes in nutrition and food preparation at the local Drexel Institute.

1940s

Continuing A Tradition As Nutrition Education Leaders

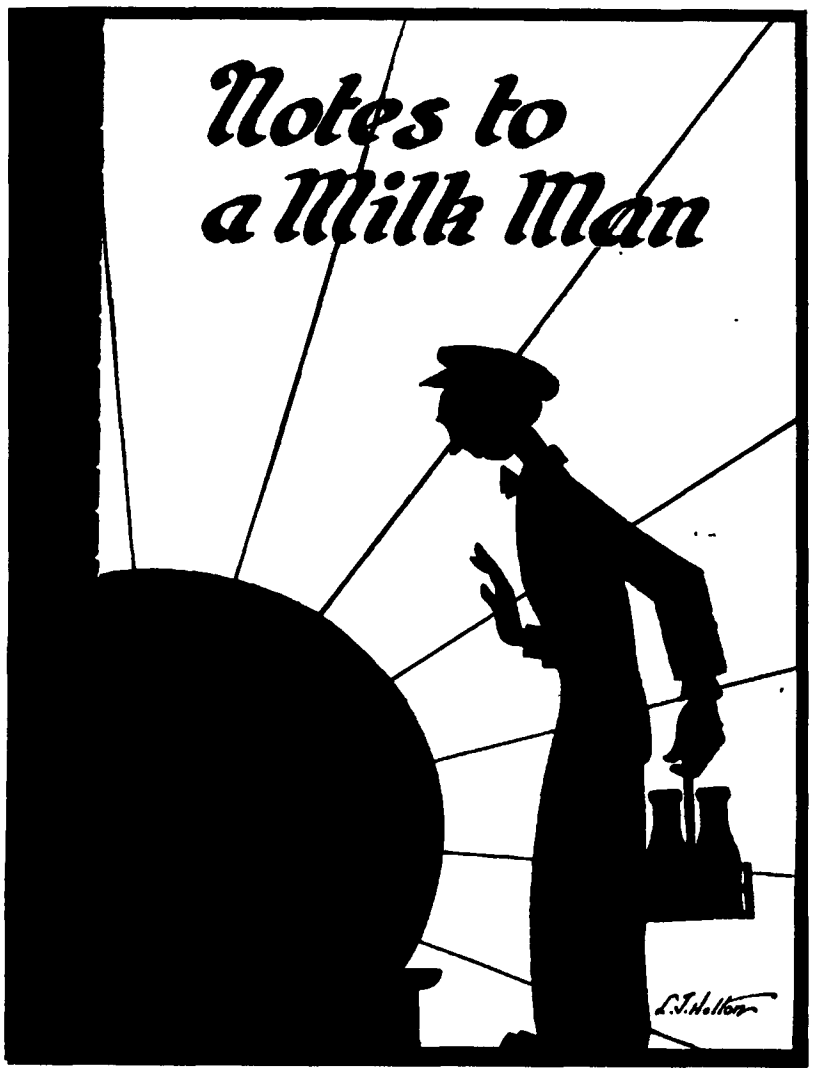
Because gas was rationed, the staff took to the street cars. They managed, somehow, to get from a nine o'clock puppet show in one section of the city to a rehearsal on the other side of town by eleven. Despite the transportation problems, over 1,700 personal visits were made to the schools in 1943.

In 1944. the first June Dairy Month luncheon was held for the press. By 1945, there were four nutritionists on the staff with degrees in home economics.

The eight staff members in the dramatic department gave over 2,000 puppet shows in the 1944-45 school year.

In 1946, Philadelphia Inter-State Dairy Council officially changed its name to Dairy Council, Inc.

By 1947, the Quality Control Department had dwindled, as the need for it had greatly diminished. The exhibit at the Philadelphia Zoo had been closed during the war, but it reopened in this same year.

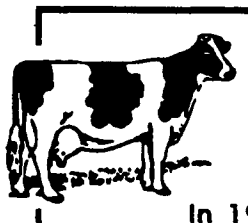


These flyers were provided to milk men in order to help them understand and market their product. Notes To A Milk Man is humorously dedicated--"To the fellow who told his customer that his company's milk had more bacteria than any milk in town."

Building Your Dairy/Dairy Council Trivia Knowledge

Did you know that...

- Children need three cups of milk daily to reach their RDA for calcium.
- It takes eleven pounds of fluid skim milk to make one pound of nonfat milk.
- Protein is the healthy muscle nutrient in milk.
- Delaware is the smallest state in which DCI works.



In 1940, farmers were receiving $1.82 per hundred pounds for all milk sold. And at the corner grocery, the consumer was paying 23 cents per half gallon.

The 1950s Prove To Be A Decade of Change And Creativity For Dairy Council

Yesterday...Wearing her crown and sash, a Dairy Princess from the 1950s pours a glass of milk for Mr. C. I. Cohee, Dairy Council's board president from 1937 to 1978.

Today...Jennifer Grimes, 1993-1994 Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, visits with guests at Dairy Council's Annual Meeting.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program

Dairy Council has been involved with the Dairy Princess Program since the early 1950s. In fact, DCI helped initiate the popular program in Pennsylvania, which later was emulated by other states. Since that time, the annual dairy princess winners, both on a state and county level, have represented the dairy industry at various social and business occasions. In addition, the dairy princesses currently work with schools helping to spread the word of dairy farming and also getting children interested in the importance of milk to their health.

Today, Dairy Council continues to work with the program by providing nutrition workshops and materials each year to the new princesses. One of the popular nutrition resources the current dairy princesses from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Delaware now use is Dairy Council's Book Loan Library. Through this resource they are able to borrow books on agriculture, milk, and food to read during their presentations at schools and other programs.

Today...Dairy Council's Book Loan Library is an important resource for the dairy princesses.

1950s

Dairy Council's Puppets Giving Howdy Doody Some Real Competition

This puppeteer shows you need both hands to put together an entertaining show. Lighting, sound, stage, and of course the puppets, were all part of the show.

DCI's puppeteer program, launched in the early 30s, became a large part of the work that the staff conducted during the 40s and 50s. Dairy Council staff had extensive training in learning how to work as puppeteers. The scripts and much of the music in these shows and plays were written by Dairy Council staff. Their collection of several hundred hand held puppets were worth thousands of dollars, and they took their show on the road to school children in the various counties in which they worked.

The popular puppet shows became larger than life in the 50s. They became television stars during that decade in a series of short films. These films were also shown in the elementary school classroom. They carried the important message of nutrition and drinking milk for strong bones and teeth.

Harry Kaufman, director of Public Relations for DCI, dressed up as one of the more popular puppets, Happy The Healthy. This puppet had such a following that he even had his own fan club.

The puppets were retired from service in the 1970s. Today, DCI proudly exhibits many of the puppets in its lobby. Their presence challenges the staff to search for creative ways to communicate the message of good nutrition.

Harry Kaufman, who wrote many of Dairy Council's plays, became a life-sized Happy the Healthy, carrying the puppet's nutrition message to that generation's young children.

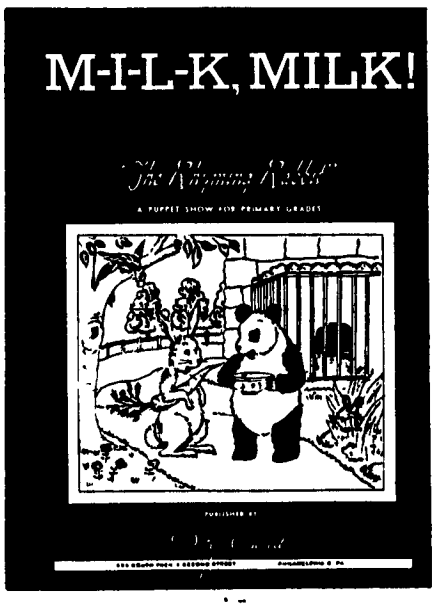
Materials And Services

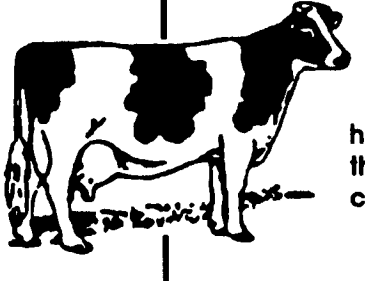
It was also during the 50s that Dairy Council began to extend its nutrition services not only to schools but to church groups, PTAs, and women's clubs.

DCI began distributing posters, pamphlets, and leaflets through large mailings to the area schools. Mailings were sent to doctors, dentists, and dietitians with information on the relationship between diet and heart disease.

Dairy Council continued through the 50s the tradition of writing and producing its own songs and plays. Much of the music was written by staff member Robert McKinley, who later became President of Dairy Council (executive director) in the early 60s. The staff took these plays and produced them in the area schools.



Today...Dental Hygienist Arlene Salkin, (left) is seen discussing with Dairy Council's Susan Snyder, materials she has kept since the early 1950s, when she worked with the School District of Philadelphia. Here they look at a dental poster which Dairy Council had sent out in a special mailing.



In 1950, the farmer was paid $3.89 per hundred pounds for all milk sold. And at the grocery store, the consumer paid 39 cents per gallon.

Providing Nutrition Ed at

We Learned How To Write, To Draw, To Print...

1941 Annual Report

Communicating the nutrition message through materials has always been a central part of Dairy Council's mission In recent decades, many of these materials have been produced by NATIONAL DAIRY COUNCIL® Whether it is a poster, a brochure, or a complete curriculum, all of these materials are ested nationally to ensure a scier' fically-based message designed for a specific target audience

However, on a local level, Dairy Council has never been at a loss for creativity and ingenuity in creating materials for specific audiences. In the organization's archives, there is found written in the 1941 Annual Report a basis for what Dairy Council continues to do to this day with materials

"Not forgetting that things are learned best when they are seen as well as heard, we developed a stock of literature, of posters, of projects, and of supplementary reading materials with which to further show many, many sides of our story Skilled artists translated our ideas into colorful posters—photographers used expert equipment to catch just the expression and height for depth of tone we desired Printers pulled proof after proof to perfect the dressing of our message This library has been of inestimable value to us in spreading our work to the far corners where we ourselves cannot go "

After decades of providing materials to schools, Dairy Council introduced the organization's first curriculum, "Big Ideas" in 1972 In 1977, with the introduction of the "FOOD Your Choice"™ curriculum, Dairy Council staff offered for the first time inservice programs to the teachers to accompany the package

By the early 1990s, over 300,000 pieces of materials were being shipped to Dairy Council's customers, many still provided by National Dairy Council On a local level, the staff was busy writing and designing some of their own programs, newsletters, posters, placemats and annual reports Not unlike their 1941 counterparts, they were "writing, drawing, and printing "

Since 1990, the unit has won five national and three regional awards for their locally produced materials For Dairy Council, materials continue to be one of the organization's greatest assets

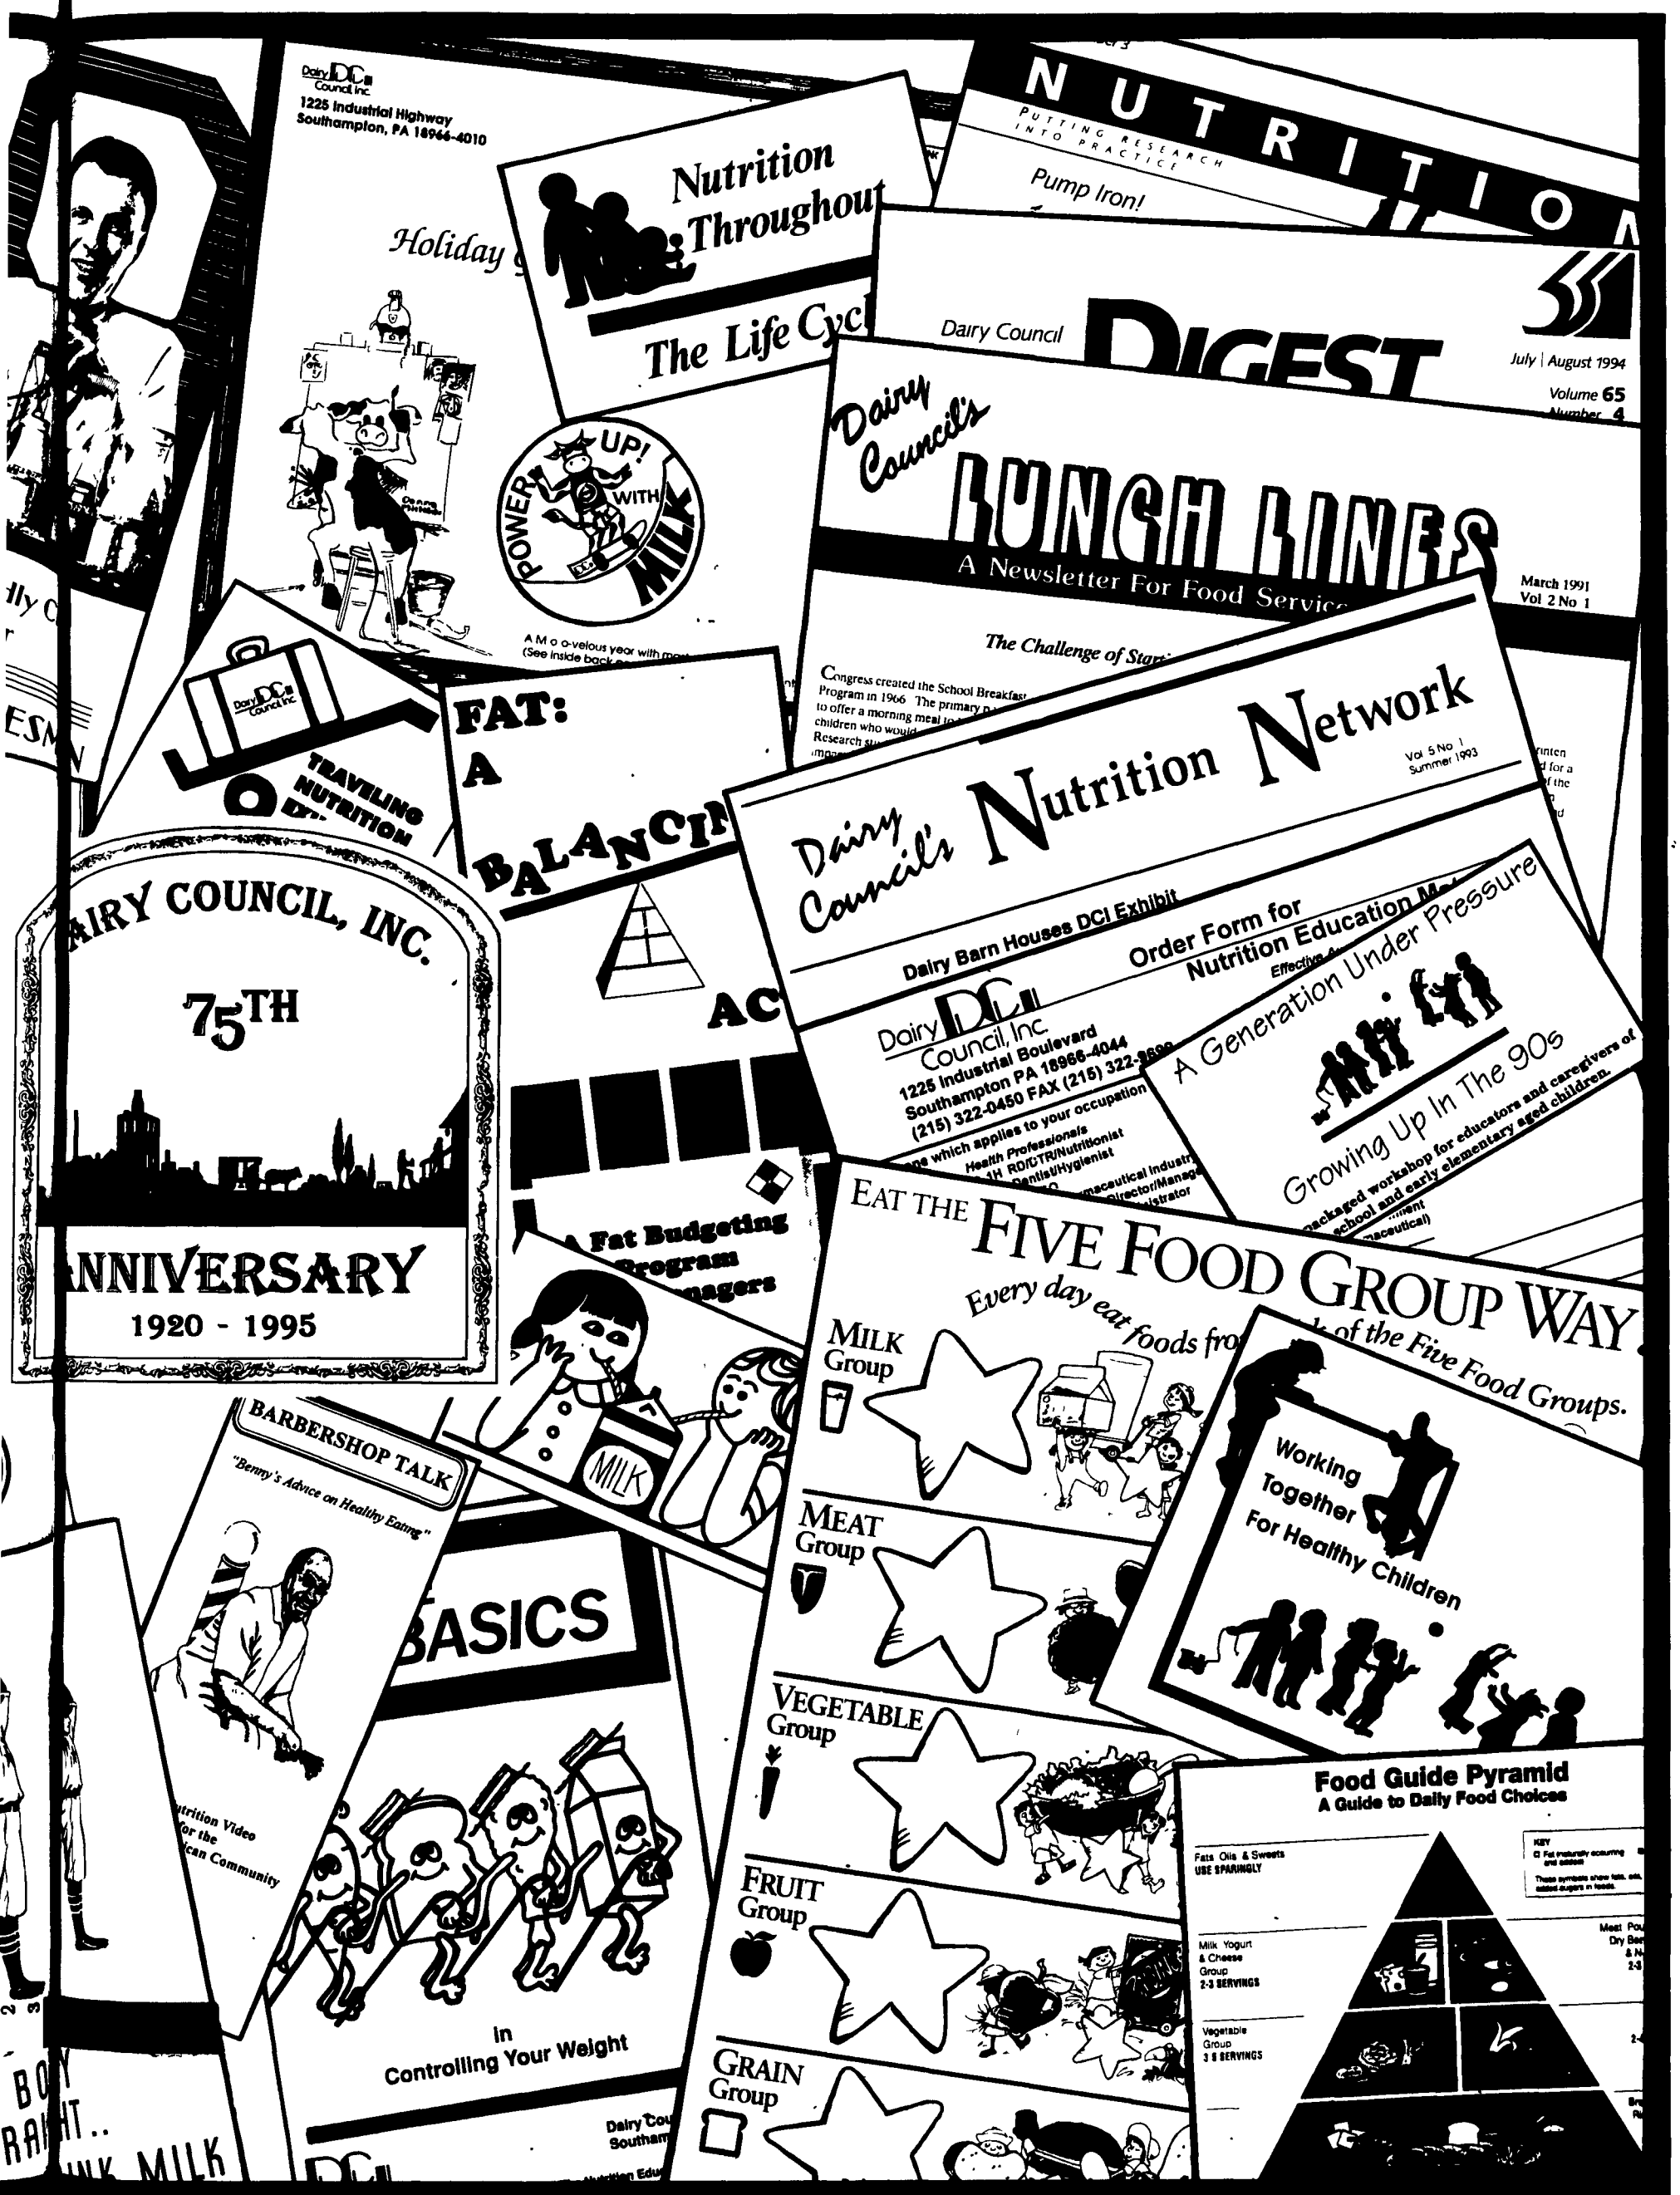
Education Materials Through The Decades



Dairy Council During The 1960s
Reaching Millions Of People With A Sound Nutrition message

Lifestyle Changes Affect Nutrition Education

Robert McKinley managed Dairy Council's staff through the 1960s into the late 70s During the 60s Dairy Council kept up with the nation's consumers as they were becoming increasingly interested in living a healthy lifestyle and eating nutritious foods. Through health talks, literature, and exhibits staff continued to provide information throughout the organization's tri-state territory. Many miles were covered by staff to reach people with a contemporary nutrition message.

In the later part of the decade, DCI developed programs for preschoolers. A "Country Breakfast In The City" was launched for the press. For the first time, Dairy Council produced materials in Spanish for the Puerto Rican population.

Dairy Council used the appeal of Phillies baseball player Curt Simmons during this decade to help capture the attention of teenagers. Speaking in the schools on the importance of milk and good nutrition, students listened with full attention.

Sponsoring sports figures still exists today, as the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association (MAMMA), together with Dairy Council, form partnerships to conduct breakfast promotions in many of the tri-state area's schools Currently, the Phillie Phanatic has been sponsored by MAMMA to make appearances at many of these successful programs.

In the 60s, Dairy Council had a unique logo designed to capture the mission of the organization. The decorative device is made up of ancient symbols called runes. The double branched character in the circle was the runic symbol for cattle; the three wavy lines signified learning. This logo remained until the late 80s.

Yesterday...Sixties Phillies star Curt Simmons, sponsored by Dairy Council, talked at local schools.

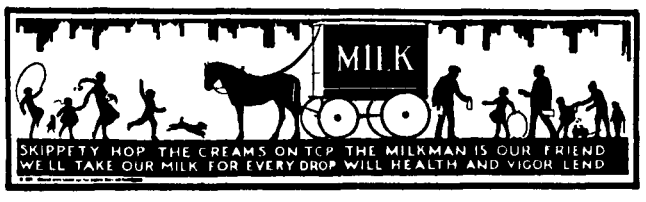
Geraldine M-o-o—ves On The Scene

Yesterday...Geraldine is seen here larger than life in one of her more traumatic travels. She tries to convince a Philadelphia Policeman to spare her from a traffic ticket.



Geraldine, Dairy Council's life-sized fiberglass holstein, came to Philadelphia from the west coast to join the staff of Dairy Council in late May 1964. In this decade, she began making public appearances throughout the Delaware Valley, showing school children and adults just how unique a cow can be.

On the way to one of her many appearances over the years, she received a traffic ticket when she had vainly stopped to have her picture taken in front of Philadelphia's City Hall. Another high point in Geraldine's career was her week-long appearance at the Cherry Hill Mall. This marked the start of her important appearances in public places where she could easily capture the attention of the community and in turn teach them the importance of milk and nutrition.

Today, Geraldine is still known to make personal appearances—most recently in 1991 at the Academy of Natural Sciences' "Cows: Fact & Fancy" Exhibit. Geraldine had made her permanent home at the Philadelphia Civic Center until its recent closing. It is the hope of Dairy Council that Geraldine can now find a warm and friendly place where she can be with children and continue her mission of helping to provide nutrition education.

Today...Getting attention 1990's style, Geraldine recently appeared on television to make an appeal for a new home in an educational setting. Here, Philadelphia's WTXF-TV 29 reporter, Gerald Kolpan, makes a humorous appeal for a "home" for Geraldine. Dairy Council received many calls in response to the television spot.

The Miracle Of Milk

The Miracle of Milk exhibit was fueled up and ready to go during this era. This mobile exhibit visited schools telling the story of milk from farm to a family's table. This 30-foot long trailer caught the attention of children everywhere.

The trailer would arrive about one hour before viewing was to begin, to allow time for positioning and making power connections.

Although it was designed for 4th, 5th, and 6th graders, it often found audiences in the summer months at fairs and shopping malls throughout the area.

Geraldine often made mall appearances with the Miracle of Milk, especially during June Dairy Month.

Millions of children and adults learned about milk and how it makes its way to the kitchen table by visiting the 30-foot mobile Miracle of Milk exhibit--taken throughout the area by Dairy Council's Donald Freeman.

In 1960, the farmer was paid $4.04 per hundred pounds of all milk sold. And at the supermarket the consumer could buy a half gallon of milk for 49 cents.

Dairy Council During The 1970s

Lester C. Jones, Sr., served as president of Dairy Council's Board of Directors through the 70s.

Nutrition educator Marian Pulaski weighed out the nutrition facts for Farm Home and Garden's Gary Geers.

Services And Programs Continue To Change And Adapt To Current Needs

The 70s witnessed the Dairy Council office move from downtown Philadelphia to its present location in Southampton, PA. In 1972, the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Association became the major funding source for Dairy Council's nutrition education activities. Robert McKinley continued to direct the Dairy Council staff throughout most of the 70s. In 1977, Raymond Weber became executive director and Lester Jones was named president of Dairy Council's Board of Directors.

Through Ray Weber's leadership, media was given a strong emphasis. Staff members became familiar faces on many of the major Philadelphia TV stations. Regular appearances were made on Captain Noah and his Magical Ark; Farm, Home and Garden with Gary Geers; and Jim O'Brien's Dialing for Dollars. In Lancaster County, programming was done with host Bob Malick on WGAL-TV, and in York County with WSBA-TV's Lew Doolittle.

Getting The Nutrition Message Out

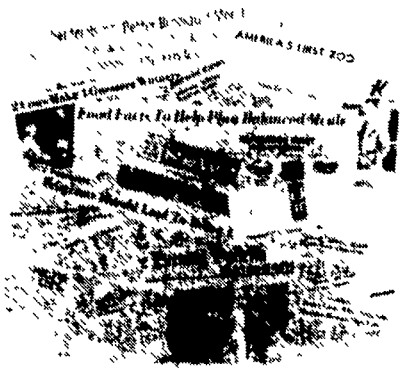
Nutritionists were often quoted in newspaper articles as they responded to the readers' increasing interest in balanced diets and sound nutrition advice. Radio interviews also carried out the mission of providing scientifically based nutrition information

In the early 70s, Dairy Council introduced Big Ideas, a curriculum for children from kindergarten to sixth grade. For the first time, the nutrition staff offered inservice programs to teachers, explaining the curriculum, and teaching them basic nutrition concepts. Thousands of school children were then taught lessons in nutrition. This was probably the first nationwide nutrition curriculum.

Exhibits were held and nutritionists spoke to visitors at local malls. These programs were a strong part of Dairy Council's work through the 70s and mid-80s

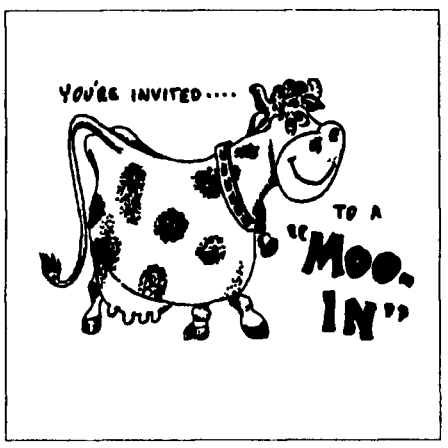
It was also at this time that the staff began to sponsor graduate courses and symposia with local colleges

Ray Weber, executive director throughout the 70s, explains the finer points of milking a cow to WPVI-TV 's Captain Noah.

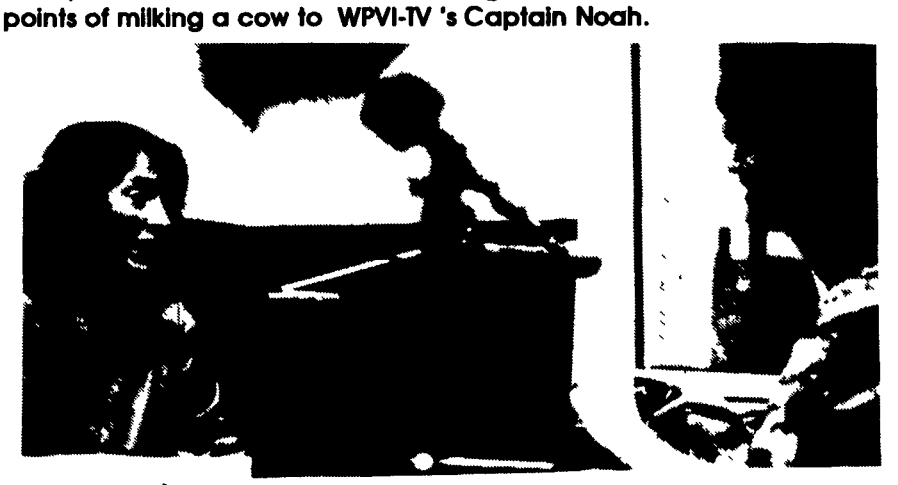


Print Media Recognizes Honest Nutrition Knowledge

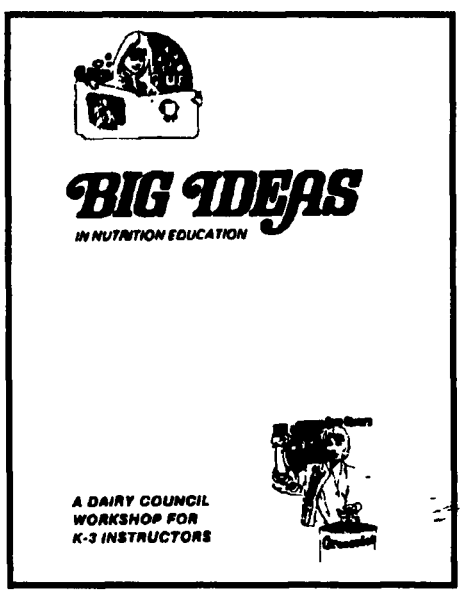
Print medium contacts were made strong during the 70s in order to communicate Dairy Council's nutrition message.



The Moo-In exhibit was a popular event at local malls.



Regular interviews on radio help communicate nutrition messages to a larger audience. Here Diane Cordell, nutrition educator, is interviewed on WKDN-FM.



1970s

A Decade Of Building Alliances

During all of this decade and into the 80s, Terry Heller directed Dairy Council's nutrition education activities. Strong alliances were built with the local dietetic associations and other nutrition organizations

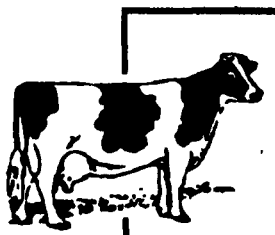
In 1979, torrential rains brought flood waters which nearly destroyed Dairy Council's offices. Throughout the building the water leveled off at three-feet. Staff pulled together to clean up and preserve what records were salvageable.

Exhibiting was just one of the many services Dairy Council provided. Here, Terry Heller, director of the nutrition staff, offered information on diet and nutritious eating.

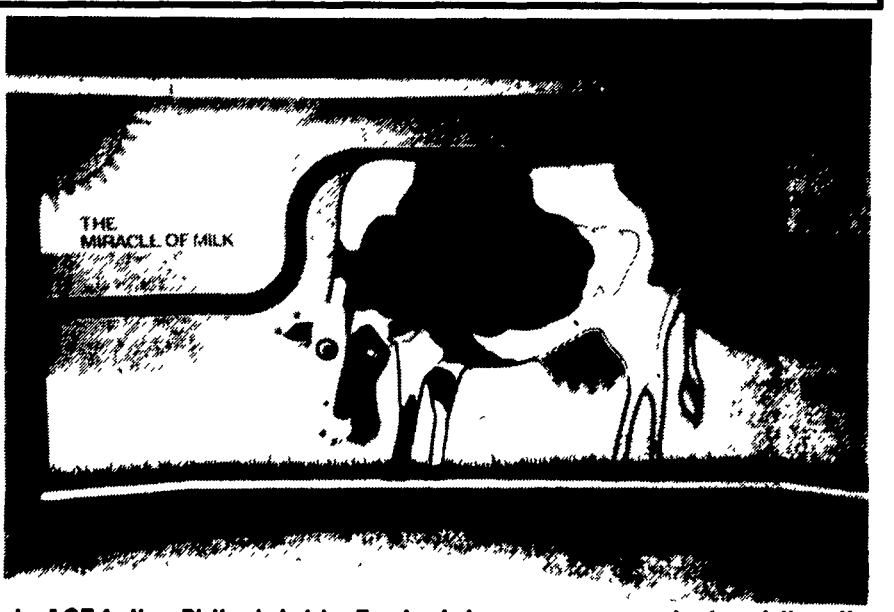
Building Your Dairy/Dairy Council Trivia Knowledge

Did you know that...

- The "Real Seal" is the official dairy symbol.
- Pasteurization destroys bacteria in milk.
- Tankers are the trucks that transport milk.
- It is milk that "does a body good."
- Yogurt is a popular 90s high calcium spoon food.
- Plastic milk containers were introduced in 1964.
- Blair is the western-most county in DCI's territory.



In 1970, farmers received $5.59 per hundred pounds for all milk sold. And at the supermarket, consumers could buy a half gallon of milk for 57 cents.



In 1974, the Philadelphia Zoo's dairy area expanded, adding the "Miracle of Milk" as a permanent exhibit. At this time the trailer was retired from active duty.

The 1980s Usher In New Consumer Nutrition Awareness

Robert McSparran led the Dairy Council Board of Directors as its president through the 80s to the present day. Dairy Council moved with the times as the consumer became more sophisticated and committed to healthy diets.

A growing emphasis on fitness and health coincides with tighter schedules for American families, with less time to spend in the kitchen and with food choices. At the end of the decade, 7-out-of-10 households owned microwave ovens. Food safety became a major issue and sophisticated packaging and advertising often left the consumer confused and cautious.

In 1980, over 450 workshops were given for educators. The next year over 10,000 educators were reached through workshops for the new FOOD...Your Choice curriculum.

In the early 80s, Nutri-Runs for Fitness were co-sponsored by Dairy Council and the Philadelphia Dietetic Association. In 1984, the last sponsored run, over 800 people gathered in Center City Philadelphia for the 10K event.

In 1985, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Board funded five new counties for Dairy Council to service: Northampton, Lehigh, Berks, Carbon, and Schuylkill.

DCI's Nutri-Runs were family affairs. Here, mom and baby watch Dad in the race. The tee-shirts were provided compliments of MAMMA.

FOOD...Your Choice was introduced to Schuylkill County educators at a special breakfast/learning session in 1989. Seen from left is Lila Darling, DCI nutrition educator; Edward Brewer, superintendent of Pine Grove Area School District; and Catherine Pasierb, third grade teacher for Tremont Elementary.

Over 800 people are seen running in Dairy Council's Nutri-Run near the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

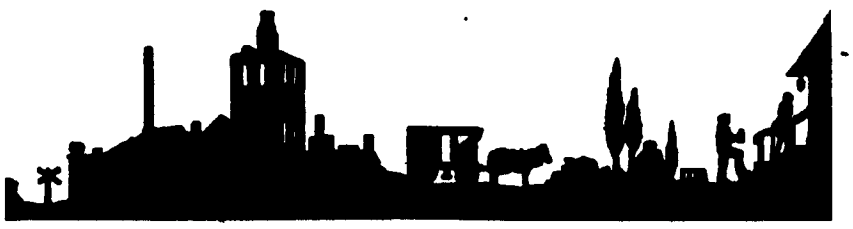
1980s

Working Together —Eighties Style

The 1980s was a decade of partnerships. Through the efforts of the Board of Directors, an ice cream parlor and children's theater were opened at the Philadelphia Zoo in 1985, making dairy products available to the many visitors. Special projects were developed in cooperation with Sharswood Elementary School in Philadelphia, and with the Academy of Natural Sciences.

Zoobilee meets the President of the Board ...and makes the Six O'Clock News. Zoobilee, a new milk cow at the Philadelphia Children's Zoo was donated by Dairy Council, the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, and Pennwell Farms. Shown left to right: DCI Executive Director Jan Stanton; DCI Board President Robert McSparran; and Penrose Hallowell of Pennwell Farms.

Later, two of the local Philadelphia television stations covered Zoobilee being milked for the children visiting the zoo. She was the star of the Six O'Clock News on Channel 10 and Channel 6.



In 1988, Dairy Council and MAMMA adopted the Sharswood Elementary School in South Philadelphia, in order to promote good nutritional habits to the youngsters. Here, the 76ers "Big Shot" makes a hit with Dairy Council's Cool Cow. The kids from the Sharswood School enjoyed their antics during the Adoption Ceremony.

Dairy Council helped to fund a four-month "Cows!, Fact & Fancy" exhibit at the Academy of Natural Sciences in 1989. This included a live cow in residence, a make believe trip through a cow's stomachs, a photography display, and workshops for teachers entitled "From Moo To You: Cows, Food and Nutrition."

1980s

An Age of Technology And Change

In 1987, Jan Stanton became the first woman and nutritionist to be appointed executive director of Dairy Council. Under her leadership, "Management by Objectives," was introduced and Dairy Council for the first time began to plan and achieve its work through concrete and measurable goals and objectives. Computerization kept the organization in step with the emerging technology of the 80s.

Some of the contemporary nutrition issues Dairy Council addressed with new programs were Nutrition and Your Busy Lifestyle and LIFESTEPS®. Weight Management.

In the late 80s, dietary cholesterol was on every one's mind. Dairy Council was one of the only organizations in the country with a brochure for consumers on cholesterol and fat. Developed locally, the Checking It Out brochure was used by many Dairy Council units across the country, and needed to be reprinted several times.

In the 1980s, the implications of biotechnology reached the farm. By the end of the decade, the discussion on the use of a supplemental hormone, bovine somatotropine (bST), to increase milk production, was widespread. Dairy Council prepared its staff to be able to answer nutrition questions with relationship to the use of bST, and initiated a Crisis Management Team to address this and any other pressing issues.

A new logo and stationery brought a contemporary look to a changing organization. Desktop publishing became a part of a busy and growing communications/ public relations segment of the organization, as an increased involvement with marketing and media ushers in the 90s.

Dairy Council Moves Into The 1990s — And Beyond

The 1990s, now approaching its midpoint, is a decade of innovation, teamwork, and strengthened alliances. In 1990, the Dairy Council staff, together with representatives from the Board of Directors and from the education and health professional communities, attended a two-day strategic planning meeting. There they formulated a new mission and vision statement for the organization.

DCI was completely restructured and began to work in teams rather than by territorial division. Customer Service became central to the heart of Dairy Council, together with a growing awareness of our partnership with the dairy farmers who make our work of nutrition education viable

For nutrition education, the 90s ushered in the emphasis on the role of fat in the diet. Dairy Council offered a new program , Healthy Dividends, which was developed by National Dairy Council. The program put the current scientific recommendation of 30% of calories from fat into practical terms that consumers could easily understand.

A unique twelve-minute video, Barbershop Talk, targeted to African American men, was produced by DCI in the summer of 1990. That same year, DCI developed a slide presentation, Nutrition Throughout The Life Cycle. Designed for high school through adult audiences, this successful slide presentation was later transferred to videotape.

The LIFESTEPS®: Weight Management Program was revised in 1990 to include the newest research on lapse and relapse prevention

By 1992, school breakfast programs had become a central issue both nationally and locally. The DCI staff developed school breakfast promotion events that included working with targeted school districts to increase participation in their school breakfast programs.

In 1993, "Healthy People 2000" (a conference which DCI sponsored with Immaculata College, the Philadelphia Dietetic Association, and the Delaware Valley Chapter of the Society for Nutrition Education), reached over 300 health professionals.

Computer technology--including desktop publishing--continued to grow at Dairy Council in the 90s, and all of the publications and marketing information were completed in-house by the staff In the first four years of this decade, the organization received eight national/regional awards for their publications and communications programs.

Media became a central way of disseminating nutrition information to the consumer Through the new media specialist position and careful tabulation of results, DCI could track that they were reaching millions of people with a nutrition message.

Nutrition messages recorded on audiotapes to be played over a school's public address system were developed and offered to educators in the DCI territory.

Media Specialist Althea Zaŕecosky (R) appeared on Philadelphia's KYW-TV Eyewitness News with Anchor, Kim Adams, and Marketing Reporter Gary Geers.

In 1992, Dairy Council opened the new Dairy Corner at the Philadelphia Children's Zoo. DCI's Pat Kennedy is seen making nutrition fun for the kids.

1994 Annual Report Highlights

Continuing A Tradition Of Leadership In Nutrition Education

Reaching Educators and Health Professionals Through Programs

In 1994, over 2,300 teachers, school nurses, coaches, food service personnel, and health professionals attended Dairy Council workshops or meetings with DCI-sponsored speakers

Over 350 home economists, dietitians, and other health professionals attended regional seminars on labeling and osteoporosis

DCI arranged five sites for a national teleconference, Cow's Milk· The Controversy, which provided research information to over 100 health professionals.

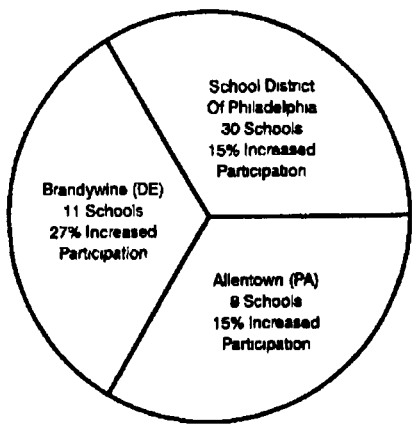
Through the LIFESTEPS®: Weight Management Program, 36 new leaders were trained -- who in turn provided a total of 40 new programs -- reaching 544 participants.

Requests for the recorded nutrition audio messages produced for use over a school's public address system continued to grow In 1994, over 300,000 students were reached through the announcements which were sent out three times during the school year.

School Breakfast Promotions Increase Student Participation

DCI staff continued to emphasize the importance of the National School Breakfast Program through district-wide promotions The goal of each of these was to help the districts achieve a greater participation in existing breakfast programs.

School Districts Participating In DCI Breakfast Promotions



School District Of Philadelphia 30 Schools 15% Increased Participation
Brandywine (DE) 11 Schools 27% Increased Participation
Allentown (PA) 8 Schools 15% Increased Participation

Near the end of 1994, DCI began a year-long promotion in one school just beginning a breakfast program in the Gloucester City, NJ School District. Participation in the first two months of this program, augmented by Dairy Council's nutrition component, has been consistently at 50% Data collected through this project will aid other NJ districts in planning school breakfast programs.

Providing Nutrition Materials

This year, DCI introduced Mealtime Sampler, a newsletter sent to over 4,200 food service professionals. The staff developed and sold over 60,000 nutrition placemats to preschools. Through its libraries, DCI loaned over 735 books and 972 videos.

Health professionals ordered over 30,000 brochures on osteoporosis, women's health, and calcium in 1994. In 1993-94, DCI placed a total of 5,326 Nutrition...It's Elementary curriculum packages--reaching 60% of all 2nd and 3rd grade teachers in our territory. Over 1,300 of these were placed in 1994.

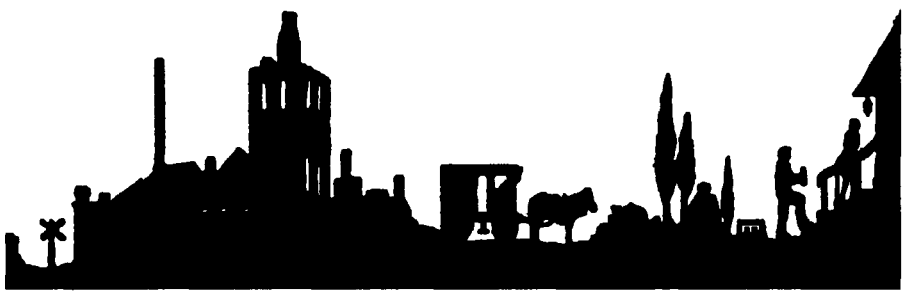
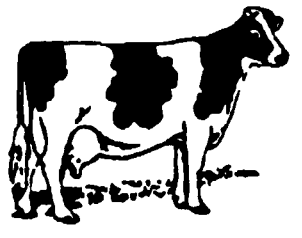
Reaching Consumers Through The Media

During this year, Dairy Council reached over 40,000,000 consumers through radio and television, and over 400,000 consumers through newspapers and magazine articles with a consistent, scientifically sound nutrition/calcium message.

On November 15, 1994 DCI co-sponsored with the Philadelphia Dietetic Association and the Delaware Valley Chapter of the Society for Nutrition Education, a regional conference on the growing problem of osteoporosis and its prevention.





In 1994, farmers received $13.35 per hundred pounds for their milk. At the supermarket, the consumer could buy a half gallon of milk for $1.15.

A Tribute To The Farmers And Dealers Of Our Region

We pay tribute to the thousands of dairy farmers and dealers for their support of our Dairy Council over the past 75 years. It is with profound gratitude that we give special recognition to Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative for their vision in founding our organization in 1920, and to the other cooperatives that have supported us over the years including Chester County Dairymen's Cooperative, Dairylea Cooperative Inc., Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc., and Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers

The support of the dairy cooperatives continues today through representation on Dairy Council's Board of Directors by members of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative and Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Inc.

We remember those who served on the Dairy Council board at the time of incorporation.

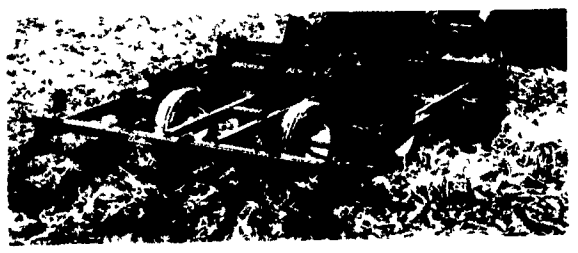
Better Seed Beds ... Better Stands

SOIL BUILDERS

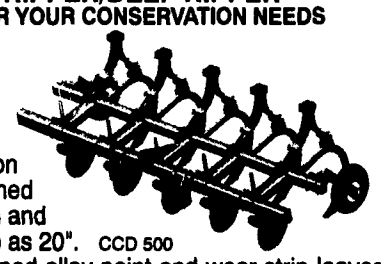


SOIL BUILDERS. Optional Coulter gang can be hydraulically controlled to save maintenance dollars. 5, 7, 9, 11 & 13 shanks. Available in 2 & 3 bar.

3-SHANK DEEP TILLS

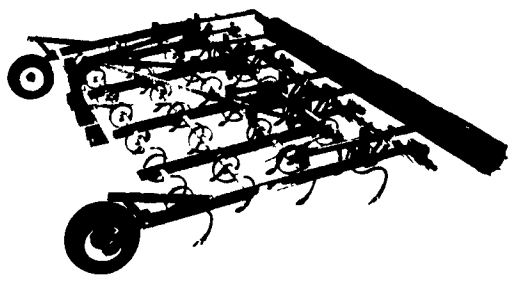
The three shank model, shown above, has a Category II hitch. With a cutting width of 7'6", it is ideal for operators with smaller acreages and horsepower. It is extremely maneuverable, yet provides the same basic deep tilling job as its "big brothers" Available with coulters.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
NO-TILL RIPPER/DEEP RIPPER
DESIGNED FOR YOUR CONSERVATION NEEDS
3-5-7 Shank



Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander...designed to break up hardpan and compaction as deep as 20". CCD 500
The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

3 PT. BASKET HARROWS



Brillion has designed a 3 pt. S-Tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable leveler bar in 12', 15' and 18' sizes. Gauge wheels are optional.

HFC FIELD CULTIVATORS

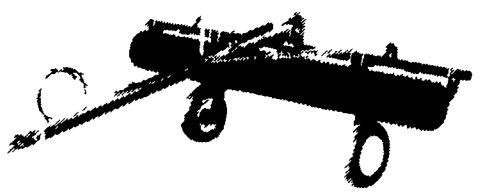
'C' Tooth -
4 Year Warranty

S-Tine -
3 Yr. Warranty

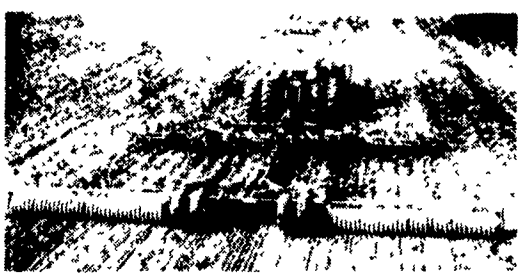
The "heart" of any field cultvator is the shank pivot point. A "bulked up" shank bracket made of cast ductile iron instead of the usual formed steel bracket, incorporated a hardened steel bushing AND a zerk grease fitting to lubricate the pivot point to reduce wear. The result is thousands of acres of extended life of the shanks.

P-SERIES
TRANSPORT PULVERIZERS
10 Ft. to 18 Ft.



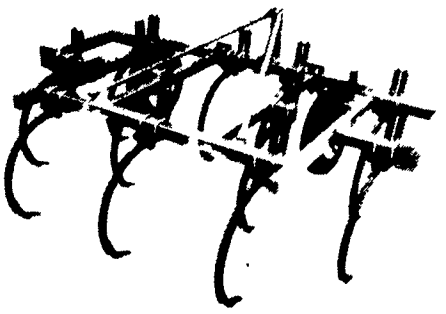
Rotary Frame Pulverizers; New PT10 Series Transport Concept. Machine weight is hydraulically rotated over the wheels for transport. This reduces draw bar hitch weight considerably and provides ample clearance for transport. Also Available As Pull Type.

X-FOLD PULVERIZERS



The X-Fold pulverizers are designed to meet the needs of today's larger acreage farmers...and Brillion offers them in two models and 11 sizes from 19' through 46'. Now available with 20" Ductile Wheels.

3 BAR CHISEL PLOWS



The CPP series mounted models enables you to turn short and fast... to transport easily, utilizing your tractor's hydraulic system, 7, 9, 11, 13 or 10,12,14,16 shank.

AG SURE STAND SEEDERS

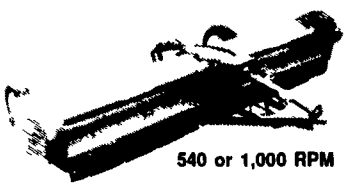
SS8, SS10 & SS12 SEEDERS
For years Brillion Grass Seeders have proven to be the best machine for planting grasses and legumes... and now they're even better! Larger, heavier boxes, high seeding rates, nylon lined seed meter, heavier frame, new drive system and more. 5 ft., 8 ft., 10 ft., Available In 3-point or pull type.

ML SERIES
PULVI-MULCHERS
12'6", 13'10", 15'2", 18'9"

SERIES 03 - Built to last.
- Easy rolling 20" ductile iron notched or crowfoot roller wheels with a 5 year limited warranty.
- Longer life external mounted bearings.
- Longer, heavier drawbar for shorter turns.

There's lots more reasons to buy Brillion... stop in and we'll talk.

FLAIL SHREDDERS
12 Ft. And 15 Ft.



FLAIL SHREDDERS Heaviest gearbox on the market eliminates the number one cause of downtime. Available in 12' and 15'. Either cup or side slicer knives. 540 or 1000 RPM.
